Cleveland Exposition
Wall Street Gypsy Ladies.
Better Airplanes Wanted.
Lightning Rods Work.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1927.

THE National Machine Tool Builders' Exposition in Cleveland's auditorium is a concentrated demonstration of industrial genius and of the tools that have built prosperity and civilization.

MAN differs from all other animals in that he is a tool-using creature.

Animals work with their bodies, the beaver with teeth and broad tail, the woodpecker with his beak, the mud wasp with her sting, putting stunned caterpillars in cold storage for her unborn children.

Man, with his brain, creates tools OUTSIDE of his body, then he harnesses the ox, horse, elephant, Niagara Falls and the lightning to work those tools.

CLEVELAND'S exhibition of the National Machine Tool Builders contains 300 carloads of machinery sent from eighty cities by 180 companies. There are machines that will turn 13-inch guns, others measure a light wave, a million waves or so to the inch.

THREE Gypsy ladies in Wall street were fined $20, with option of ten days in the workhouse, for pretending to tell the future. That seems harsh in a street where any one of 1,100 brokers will tell you how to get rich, for an eighth of 1 per cent.

The Gypsy ladies might have earned honestly all they got and more by advising bears only, thus: "Keep away from an animal with long, sharp horns. Every time you cross his path, you will go up in the air. This is no time or country for bears."

THE army will open an air laboratory at Wright Field, near Dayton, O., October 12. Secretary of War Davis and the President are to be congratulated on their plans to improve airplane designs.

What aviation needs is NEW IDEAS, increased efficiency and stability in airplanes and engines, and above all, ENCOURAGEMENT AND A PATIENT HEARING FOR INVENTORS, USUALLY PUSHED ASIDE.

Ninety-nine in 100, perhaps 999 in 1,000, have ideas that are worthless, but the hundredth or the thousandth has the idea that the world needs.

LIGHTNING struck a barn in Virginia, killed four persons, and two mules, paralyzed a dog and stunned two men.

Modern lightning rods properly installed would have prevented that disaster.

Modern protection against lightning is included in the recent White House alteration. All around the balustrade above the White House roof, sharp, short, copper points stand at close intervals, connected by a copper cable, the whole system being connected with the earth, also by copper conductors, buried deep enough in the ground to reach perpetual moisture.

Such lightning rods give real protection. Insurance companies recognize that in lower rates for factories thus protected.

Old-fashioned, badly installed, cheap lightning rod construction is worthless or even dangerous.

THE University of Chicago publishes "an American translation of the Old Testament," a thing not needed, since all changes must be for the worse. Let Chicago University persuade its young men and women to read Job and Isaiah at least fifty times, in the King James version. That would be good work.

HATRED FLARES AS CITY VOTES

Two dead, perhaps a score injured and dozens under arrest was the score today long before closing time of Pittsburgh's most hectic election. The dead were John Rohan, 19, of 3723 Orpwood street, and George Faber, 24, of 1543 Fayette street. Both were shot in pre-election gang gunplay.

Half a dozen election boards were haled into courts and many riot calls were received by the sheriff's office and at police stations as opposing factions clashed.

Police Inspector John P. Clancey was lodged in jail several hours, then freed on bail, on charges of pointing firearms and violating election laws.

The blood-letting feud that has marked the campaign in the First, Second and Third wards of the city in the past two weeks seethed afresh as electors cast their votes today, and a nervous Public Safety Department marshaled all available police and detectives to cope with the ugly mood of desperate partisans battling for the right to share the spoils of victory achieved in sections where the "picking" is regarded as good.

One of the trouble spots in the city today was the election headquarters of the Fourth district of the Second Ward, in Hancock school, Webster avenue.

Early in the day it was invaded by Police Inspector John P. Clancey and a squad of patrolmen who handcuffed Matt Colangelo, judge of elections, and Fred Grandy, the inspector, and took them to the Center

Bomber Wrecks Auto

Black Hand activities were believed by police today to have been behind the bombing of the automobile of Guiseppe Panealio, 35, of 1245 Church avenue, McKees Rocks, in Wylie avenue, near Washington street, late last night.

The bomb exploded as Pancallo stepped into the car after he had left it parked for some time. Pancallo is in Mercy Hospital, where, it was said this morning, his condition was good. The machine was wrecked and the front of the Banner Loan Company, 910 Wylie avenue, was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars.

BUILDING BOMBED

Three-story apartment building, Fifth avenue and White street, McKeesport, bombed, it is believed, by Black Hand Society. Carlo Savona occupies the first floor with a fruit store, where the bomb exploded. Apartment dwellers across the street were rocked.

STOCK DAMAGED

Stock of the Savona and Lichenstein Paper Company, first floor, was damaged. Total damage is estimated as $15,000. Members of 14 families were thrown from their beds and surrounding windows broken. Police are investigating a report that two men fled building before explosion.

2 DIE AS N.Y.-SPOKANE DERBY PLANE CRASHES

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Swift disaster today overtook the first of 15 planes that set out here for Cleveland on the first leg of a 2,275-mile race to Felts Field at Spokane, Wash., in the air derby being held in connection with the national air races at Spokane.

R. E. Hudson, of Marysville, Mich., a first pilot to start in the race, which began at 6 a. m., eastern standard time, was brought down in a fatal crash near Morristown, N. J., less than two hours later. His passenger, Jay Radike, also of Marys-

M'KEESPORT BOMBING ROUTS 14 FAMILIES

More than two score persons, members of 14 families, were hurled from their beds, a three-story brick building was damaged to the extent of $15,000 and nearby windows were shattered early today when a bomb exploded in a fruit store conducted by Carlo Savona at 502½ White street, McKeesport.

The Savona place is one of four storerooms on the first floor of a three-story brick building at Fifth avenue and White street, McKeesport. The bomb apparently had been placed far back in the store, the police said.

When the blast occurred the doors of the Savona store and of the Lichtenstein Paper Company, at 504 White street, were blown across the street, striking the Mansfield apart-

Cry of 'Fix' Hit

By JACK DEMPSEY.

(Copyright, 1927, by King Feature Syndicate.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Ever since Gene Tunney and I were matched for the Chicago fight there has been whispering around that:

"It is fixed."

"That it won't be on the level."

"That we will do some faking."

I'd like to say to each of you and to all of you that if ever in ring history a fight was on the level it will be this one.

That if ever I went into battle with only the thought in mind if crushing, or being crushed in failure, it is now.

There are quite a few reasons why I should not fake in this fight, and three of these reasons are Gene Tunney, Billy Gibson, his manager, and Jimmy Bronson, his chief second.

If I did any faking it would not be with that mental giant, Gene Tunney, who talks about "uplifting the sport," after chumming with the notorious Abe Attell, tool of a gambling clique, as almost his last act before he fought me in Philadelphia.

BASEBALL Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis arrived in Pittsburgh early this morning for a conference with Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh baseball club, relative to the 1927 World Series. While nothing official will be done until Friday's conference at Chicago, Landis thought it advisable to visit Pittsburgh to look over the arrangements in event the series is staged here.

WON'T SEND TROOPERS HERE

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—No state troopers will be sent to Pittsburgh for police duty during the balloting today. Mrs. J. O. Miller last night requested that the state police be sent there.

Maj. Wilhelm, deputy superintendent, stated there has not appeared sufficient cause, as local county officers seem capable of coping with the situation.

However, should a situation arise at which it was deemed necessary to have the state troopers in the city, a detachment would be sent from the nearest barracks, Greensburg or Butler, it was said.

Cal To Visit City

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—President Coolidge will visit Pittsburgh Thursday, October 13, to participate in the Founder's Day ceremonies of the Carnegie Institute, the White House announced today.

Much pleasure was expressed at the office of Dr. Samuel H. Church, president of Carnegie Institute, when informed that President Coolidge would attend the annual Founders' Day celebration here October 13.

"Although we have received no definite word ourselves that President Coolidge has accepted Dr. Church's invitation to attend Founders' Day celebration, we are pleased to hear through you, of President Coolidge's decision," an attache of Dr. Church's office declared.

Founders' Day, which is always set aside by the Institute for October 10 to do honor to Andrew Carnegie, will take place this year three days later, in connection with the twenty-sixth international art exhibition, which the President will have an opportunity to attend.

The invitation was extended Friday to President Coolidge to deliver the Founders' Day address at Carnegie Institute on October 13, and the President then said he was not certain that he could accept. He promised Col. Church that he would give an answer in a short time.

Col. Church and James Francis Burke then called on Secretary Mellon at the Treasury, enlisting his support in the appeal to the President to attend the exercises.

INDIANA MINER HELD UNDER MANN ACT

Harry Dorff, 3, of Napanee, Ind., was held for court by the United States commissioner today on charges of violating the Mann white slave act in transporting Fern Brooks, 18, from Elkhart, Ind., to North Sewickley township, Beaver county. Dorff, who was employed as a coal miner, said that he came to Pennsylvania in his automobile to seek employment and the girl had asked him for a "lift" in leaving Elkhart.

Pa Pitt's Wife Finds Voting Like Housekeeping

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

If our forefathers and foremothers could only come back just for today. What a wagging of heads and a wagging of tongues and raising of hands in horror there would be!

For this is the day Mrs. Pittsburgh has a chance actually to have her say in how things are to be run. Imagine! Women being so bold as to go to the polls and actually take a man's part in such doings!

Mrs. Minnie Thomas, Republican inspector at the Fourth District, Twenty-third Ward polls—the Socialist Lyceum—reminisced with Charles Scherzinger, judge of elections, today. Mrs. Thomas reminded Mr. Scherzinger:

"Do you remember the first time I was working at the polls? I was the first woman inspector. You said in the evening that I had saved you a lot of prayers and when I asked you why you said you hadn't said a bad word the whole day."

Later Mrs. Anna Coleman, Democratic inspector, and Mrs. Nettie Nepchild, clerk, who are working with Mrs. Thomas on the board, agreed:

"Things 'ain't' what they used to be at the polls."

Mrs. Minnie Ernest, of 16 West North Diamond street, voting at Allegheny High School in the Seventh Ward, Twenty-second District, says she hasn't missed a chance to cast her ballot since women were givn the vote—because:

"I consider it an opportunity for women to do their bit in helping to clean up politics. Goodness knows, a blind man can see that there is a lot of house cleaning to be done yet. If women would get back of the shakeup and insist upon using a little influence things might be improved and all these riots and deaths avoided. I should consider myself a slacker if I didn't go to the polls."

And we have the word of all the women that they don't vote as their husbands do. They have minds of their own, thank you! Hurrah for woman's rights!

DWIGHT MORROW PICKED AS LEGATE TO MEXICO

TO RETIRE AS MORGAN PARTNER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Dwight W. Morrow, the New York banker, has been selected by President Coolidge to be ambassador to Mexico.

The prospective ambassador, who will retire as a business partner of J. P. Morgan to accept the appointment, has long been a personal friend of the President. The choice was made by Mr. Coolidge personally and there were indications that in his determination to seek the aid of his friend in the tangled and delicate Mexican problem the President consulted only a few associates.

Upon Mr. Morrow will fall the task of piecing over an international relationship worn thin by months of controversy. It is no secret that Mr. Coolidge has come to regard the question of Mexico as one of the most troublesome problems of his administration and his friends believe it is his hope to enlist every personal aid at his disposal to put Mexican-American relations on a stable basis before he leaves the White House.

Ambassador

DWIGHT M. MORROW

Mr. Morrow will resign his partnership in the J. P. Morgan firm to become ambassador to Mexico, it was announced in Washington yesterday. President Coolidge, the announcement said, has chosen his personal friend, one of the nation's leading financiers, to iron out the Mexican diplomatic situation.

ville, was killed in the crash and Hudson died on the way to a hospital. Radike, who was Hudson's mechanic, had spent the night sleeping in the plane and tuning up the motor so that he could have it in readiness for a start promptly at 6 o'clock.

The tragic elimination of Hudson's plane from the race left but 13 of the 15 starters roaring westward. Emil Burgin, of Mineola, N. Y., was forced to fly back from New York to Curtiss Field, adjoining Roosevelt Field, because of trouble with the oil pump. Burgin said two hours would be required to remedy the pump, but that he was hopeful of continuing the race later.

The 15 planes made perfect take-offs, which officials of the starting committee hailed as a good augury for a successful and exciting race free from fatalities.

The crash of Hudson's plane was the first known serious accident marring the air derby, which began yesterday with the departure of 26 light commercial planes on a two-day race to Spokane.

The other starters were:

B. K. Campbell of Moline, Ill., at 6:01 a. m., with S. A. McGuiness of Moline as passenger.

E. W. Cleveland of Pittsburgh, at 6:02 a. m., with C. F. Walker and F. H. Burr, both of Cleveland, as passengers.

C. W. Holman, 6:03 a. m., of St. Paul, Minn., with Thomas Lane, St. Paul, as passenger.

E. E. Ballough of Chicago, at 6:05 a. m., with Charles Dickinson, 80-year-old flying enthusiast, and Tony Mackiewicz, both of Chicago, passengers.

E. S. Lee, Chicago, 6:06 a. m., with R. M. Hoffman, as passenger.

John P. Wood of Wausau, Wis., at 6:07 a. m., with W. H. Wren of Big Stone Gap, Va., as passenger.

M. Mell Bergin, Mineola, N. Y., 6:08 a. m., with Andy Bacon, Curtiss field mechanic, as passenger.

Frank M. Hawks, Houston, Tex., 6:09 a. m., with Jack Worthington, New York City, as passenger.

N. D. Nance, Spokane, Wash., 6:10 a. m., with Bruce McDonald, of Spokane, as passenger.

James S. Rae, of Philadelphia, at 6:11 a. m., with M. T. Hanscome, as passenger.

Tex Rankin, of Portland, Ore., 6:12 a. m., the only pilot who set out alone.

J. L. O'Donnell, of Whittier, Cal., 6:13 a. m., with his wife, Gladys, as passenger.

L. T. Royal, of Flint, Mich., at 6:14 a. m., with Joseph Tetien, of Mineola, as passenger.

R. S. Fogg, Concord, N. H., was the last to leave, taking off at 6:15 a. m., with C. J. Marston, of Concord, as passenger.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20—The Class A New York-Spokane planes began arriving here this morning. Among the leaders was E. W. Cleveland of Pittsburgh, who arrived at 10:37 a. m. and left at 10:45.

MILLER HOLDS LEAD

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Fighting head winds all the way from Chicago, Pilot Leslie Miller of Des Moines, flying the "Spirit of St. Paul," continued to lead the Class B air derby from New York to Spokane when he reached the St. Paul airport today at 9:56:43.

Miller, who flew an Eaglerock, took off at 10:03:40 a. m., just as the plane of C. W. Meyers of Detroit, in a Waco 10, landed at 10:03. Meyers, who took off second from Chicago today, left at 10:14:20.

Miller and Meyers ran a pretty race from Chicago. The former left there at 1:29.15 a. m., and Meyers followed less than a minute later. Miller made the brief stop at the field here and when he took off he had an 11-minute advantage over the Detroit man.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20—(AP.)—The plane piloted by C. B. McMahan, Miles City, Mont., was the first of the belated group of Class B planes to arrive in Chicago from Bryan, O. It touched the ground at 9:17½, central time, closely followed by E. W. Fleet, Hartford, Conn.

Pilot Fleet landed at 9:22 and took off again at 9:42. A. W. Stephenson of Dillon, Mont., arrived at 9:33 a. m. and took off again at 9:44½.

R. T. Quinby of Rock Island, Ill., withdrew from the race on arriving here at 9:47. He said it was too cold and the headwinds were terrific. They were in a rainstorm shortly after they left Bryan until they passed over Laporte, Ind. R. E. Lake of Pittsburgh arrived at 10:02 and left 20 minutes later. He was closely followed by G. Smith of Tacoma, Wash.

PLANE DOWN NEAR BUTLER

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Sept. 20—Robert S. Fogg of Concord, N. H., piloting a Waco whirlwind, notified the National Air Derby officials by telegram at 11:10 a. m. today that he had landed safely at Leasureville, Butler county, Pa.

Avenue Police Station in connection with the death of Faber.

This resulted in an order being granted by Judge John A. Evans on which Clancey was haled into court with his prisoners. Judge Evans ordered the release of the prisoners and turned his attention to Inspector Clancey.

"I think you ought to be in jail. I have a notion to order your arrest," Judge Evans declared to Clancey.

This was but a short time before Constable Harry Fink arrested Clancey on charges of pointing firearms and interfering with an election, preferred by Sam Molinari before Alderman John J. Verona and the inspector was led off to jail. The charges were made in connection with the election officers' arrest.

Counsel for Colangelo and Grandy testified that after arresting the election officers, Inspector Clancey named substitutes for them. Clancey denied this and Judge Evans directed Colangelo and Grandy to return to Hancock school to resume their duties.

John A. Fugassi, county highway head, who made a threat that he was not "through" with Clancey, during the hearing, was silenced with a sharp warning from Judge Evans.

Patrolman Frank Jones was arrested and taken to jail with Inspector Clancey and in connection with the Hancock school disturbances. Counsel for the election board members declare that as many as 18 patrolmen, under the direction of Inspector Clancey, were used to intimidate voters at the Hancock school precinct. They say that the arrests of Colangelo and Grandy were made without warrants and practically without any claim that the men were really wanted in connection with the shooting which led to Faber's death.

After an hour or two in jail, Clancey was released on $2,000 bail posted at Alderman Verona's office by Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, who also posted $1,000 to release Jones.

Judge Evans signed an order directing the sheriff to bring the election board of the Third district of the First Ward into court when Attorney John E. Laughlin testified that John Winkler, the judge, was sitting out in front of the polling place sunning himself instead of directing the election.

A bodyguard for a watcher was asked by Attorney Laughlin, who appeared before Judge Evans and reported that Thomas A. Flanigan, First Ward aldermanic candidate, had appeared in the Eleventh district polling place in the ward and had suggested to a political associate that he "Get that man," pointing to Patrick O'Leary. O'Leary, Attorney Laughlin explained, was a watcher who had reported alleged election law violations in the Eleventh district. The court declared itself powerless to grant the request.

Thomas Coyne, 46, of 3731 Orpwood street, and Charles Good, 24, of 62 Wakefield street, were arrested in the polling place at Parkview avenue and Frazier street, Fourth Ward, today on disorderly conduct charges. Police said Good was under the influence of liquor and started an argument with Coyne.

FEAR RIOTING TONIGHT

"Look out for trouble when the polls close tonight."

That is the word circulated downtown as more than 250,000 voters in the county exercised their franchise privilege.

The police detachments will be increased as soon as dusk falls tonight because of reports that mobs of thugs and gunmen will be recruited in the Hill district to raid polling places where the election is believed to have gone against the wishes of the men who hire them.

Faber died this morning from bullet wounds in the chest suffered when five men in an automobile opened fire on a group of which Faber was a member at Penn avenue and Twenty-second street Friday night.

Rohan was shot when gangsters in an auto raked Forbes street with bullets late Sunday night.

GUNS BLAZE FROM AUTO

While the police were mobilizing to repress election gun play, an automobile sped past Wylie and Sixth avenues at 3 o'clock this morning, its occupants firing at a group of men on the sidewalk. Patrolman J. W. Greeney fired at the gangsters, but no casualties were reported. The car was said to have borne the advertisement of a First Ward candidate for constable.

James Magrini, 24, rear 1300 Penn avenue, and Joseph Manion, 19, 1245 Penn avenue, said to be supporters of Eddie Kenna, were charged with inciting riot, as a result of a free for all fight at Twelfth street and Penn avenue this morning. They were lodged in the Penn Avenue Police Station.

Squads of motorcycle patrolmen were taken out of their regular districts and assigned to guard the polls. At Central Police Station police and detectives are mobilized for emergency calls. Police and detectives are patroling the Penn avenue districts in automobiles to preserve order at the polls.

JAILED IN VOTE WAR

INSPECTOR J. P. CLANCEY

Police Inspector John P. Clancey of the First District spent a few hours in jail today for his part in the hectic First Ward election. With Patrolman Frank Jones, Clancey was lodged in jail at noon, but the two were released a few hours later on bond. The Inspector was charged with pointing firearms and violation of the election laws, and Jones with violation of the election laws.

PROHIBITION authorities will cut down the supply of industrial alcohol, which may help. Prohibition authorities would be amazed to know how many "varnish factories" have sprung up since prohibition came in, and how many varnish factories, still busy, have stopped making varnish. ment house, at 505 White street. Occupants of the Mansfield and Felds apartments at 507 White street were badly shocked by the blast and all windows in the two buildings were shattered.

Families occupying apartments above the wrecked storerooms were thrown from their beds, and they fled panic-stricken into the street.

Among those who escaped from the wrecked building were Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Abraham and their four children, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yager and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mazer and three children, Mr. and Mrs. John Forda and two children and Mr. and Mrs. George Mazkoski and four children.

Gas escaping from pipes broken by the explosion ignited the wreckage of the Savona store and firemen were summoned from No. 1 and No. 2 engine companies in McKeesport. Before the flames were extinguished the stocks in the storeroom and basement were destroyed.

Police are searching for two men wearing white shirts who were reported to have fled from the store a few minutes before the blast occurred.

TEUTON ACE HOPS FOR JAPAN

COLOGNE, Germany, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Balked by adverse weather conditions in his plans to fly to the United States across the Atlantic, but still determined to get there even if it means flying more than half way around the world, Lieut. Otto Koennecke, German war ace, today started for America by way of the Orient in his Caspar biplane Germania.

Hopping off at 2:22 p. m. Lieut. Koennecke was accompanied by Count George Cedric Solms-Laubach, his financial backer, and Johannes Hermann, expert radio operator.

The takeoff was delayed for four weeks. The aviators first had planned to go directly west across the Atlantic, but weather conditions made it necessary for them to plan a flight by way of the Orient.

The route that has been planned will follow mainly that of the American round-the-world plane, "The Pride of Detroit," through India to Japan, but thence to the United States by way of the northern route to the Aleutian Islands and then down the coast to San Francisco.

Lieut. Koennecke is an outstanding German war ace, having brought down 42 enemy planes. He is the chief pilot of Lufthansa, the German airways corporation.

BITTER WARD FIGHTS POINT TO BALLOTING RECORD HERE

THE DAILY PICTORIAL
THE SUN-TELEGRAPH
GENERAL NEWS SECTION
TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1927

EARLY VOTE REPORTED HEAVY

The largest number of voters ever registered in Pittsburgh marched to the polls today.

With 152,000 registered voters in the city and the county vote combining in a total of 150,000 a record poll was expected. While organization strongholds in the city are known to have the largest turnout in history, an unprecedented number of voters in the residential districts left the issues in doubt.

In the residential sections of the city and county, where ballots instead of bullets are used to win elections, the primary proceeded quietly. The vote this morning generally was reported as fairly heavy.

CUTTING JUDGE SLATE

Two contests for major offices held general attention. The outstanding fight is for the nine places on the Common Pleas bench, with 18 aspirants seeking the Republican nominations. Nine of these are being supported by the organization. Four of the others—Judges Richard W. Martin, Frank I. Gollmar and James H. Gray and Attorney Frank B. Patterson are regarded as dangerous contenders have a chance to break the organizations slate.

Unusually heavy voting was reported this morning and early afternoon in the East End, Squirrel Hill and Point Breeze sections of Pittsburgh. Almost without exception watchers added that the organization judicial ticket is being cut in favor of the independents. Similar reports came from residential sections outside of the city, although the vote there was reported as normal. The "cutting," outside of Pittsburgh, a majority of the reports said, was at the expense of the four senior judges, especially Judges Carnahan, Swearingen and Ford. Martin and Gray seem to be getting good votes in the East End, if the judgment of the watchers is correct, with Patterson going along. The outer North Side wards are cutting in favor of Gollmar and other independents.

SKILLED PROBERS HERE

The other contest is for the Controller nomination between Robert G. Woodside, the organization candidate, and C. C. McGovern, incumbent. Organization leaders reiterated at noon today their earlier predictions that Woodside would win by 60,000. McGovern's friends are confident that he has a chance to break the organization ticket.

Two separate organizations have watchers at the polls in suspected districts to guard against fraud. Ten trained investigators of the Pennsylvania Election's Association are here to watch the situation. They are the same investigators who have sent a number of Philadelphia election boards to prison during the past year. A citizen's executive committee, organized primarily in the interests of McGovern, with Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence and Gen. A. J. Logan as the leading spirits, has hired detectives and investigators to watch 221 suspected districts. This body is said to have a fund of $100,000 at its disposal.

Rumors persisted that the state police, requested by Mrs. J. O. Miller, head of the League of Women Voters, would be in the city by nightfall, but these reports could not be verified.

FRAUD CHARGES EXPECTED

The new law relating to the opening of ballot boxes has given the investigators and reform bodies a big weapon with which to combat frauds. Formerly boxes could be opened only on petition of three electors from the precinct. Now any three electors in the ward can have a box opened by charging fraud or substantial error and depositing $50 or a $200 bond for each box. If no fraud or substantial error is found the deposit is forfeited. If the executive committee mentioned above really has $100,000 at its disposal, it can easily have a big lot of boxes opened.

Heavy registrations in the First and Second wards, where the population has been decreasing for years, as well as in other sections, already has attracted attention of investigators. There are rumors of a grand jury investigation. In political circles it is expected that charges of fraud will be shouted as soon as the returns are counted.

The hottest battles are in the First, Second, Fourth, Seventh, Tenth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Twenty-second, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth wards, where there are factional fights over alderman and constable jobs. A peculiar phase of the situation is that, with the exception of the Tenth, both factions in every ward are supporting the Republican organization ticket.

The councilmanic contest, with four members up for re-election, held some interest, with leaders admitting that President Daniel Winters will fail to show the strength characteristic of previous contests. His re-election, along with the other three members, is not strongly doubted.

Rules Firemen Not Allowed to Aid at Polls

A city fireman is a police officer and so must remain at least 100 feet from any voting place, Judge John A. Evans ruled this morning while listening to an election squabble from the Fifth District of the First Ward. Saul Kramer, a city fireman, it was testified, had been permitted to assist voters without their affidavit that they were unable to read or write. Kramer was censured.

Candidate Accused Of 'Steering' Votes

Thomas Flanigan, aldermanic candidate in the First ward, was accused in court today of illegally accompanying voters into election booths and directing them in the marking of ballots.

He did this in the Eleventh District of the First Ward, it was testified before Judges John A. Evans and Ambrose B. Reid after that board and the board from the Fifth District had been brought into court by deputy sheriffs under court orders.

Watchers made formal complaints that in both districts persons were permitted to accompany voters into booths without the voter first making affidavit that he was unable to write and needed assistance in marking his ballot.

After Judge Reid termed the election a farce as it was being conducted in these districts and both boards had been censured the hearings in the cases were adjourned until Thursday and the board members were ordered back to the polling places with admonishments to conduct the elections according to law. Edward Hooper is judge of the Fifth District and Edward Martin of the Eleventh.

ATTACKED, KILLS BABE, SELF

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 20.—Attacked twice, Mrs. Mary Buskardish, 35, shot and killed her five-month-old baby and then emptied four shots into her own body on their out-of-the-way farm near Bentleyville.

Twice, detectives learned, Mrs. Bushkardish was attacked while she milked cows in a field on their farm. Beaten and cut, she had almost recovered from the second attack when she arose from bed as her husband and four step-children slept in an adjoining room, fired two shots into the sleeping baby, then turned the revolver on herself.

NURSE'S STORY FIXES PARENTAGE OF BABY

Parentage of Baby Declared Solved

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—The Fairview Park Hospital "baby puzzle" has been solved and the smiling infant girl whose identity has been drawn into dispute is Mrs. Sam Smith's own child, officials of the hospital are convinced.

With the return to the hospital of Miss Ruth Meyer, a nurse who assisted at the birth of Mrs. Smith's child, everything has been explained, Phillip Vollmer, Jr., superintendent of the hospital, said. Miss Meyer returned last night from a vacation.

Collmer said he is ready to go into court Thursday with the testimony of Miss Meyer that she recalls distinctly the baby was a girl, but that in the stress of the moment following its birth she became excited and told the family physician, Dr. J. A. Reutenik, it was a boy.

Dr. Reutenik was not present at the birth, arriving 10 minutes afterward.

Miss Meyer may be the chief witness for the hospital in the habeas corpus action which Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith filed against officials of the institution to compel them to return their son "George."

The hearing was delayed last week because Miss Meyer was not then available as a witness, another nurse and an interne having testified they could not remember the sex of the child.

The hearing will be resumed Thursday.

Although she has been caring for the girl, Mrs. Smith has refused to leave the hospital until she is convinced she has her own child. She has insisted a boy was born to her because the doctor and nurses told her so.

Movie Fan Shot As Gun Pops On Screen

WESTCHESTER, Pa., Sept. 20.—George Lackman, 21, is dying in a hospital from a bullet fired during the exciting crisis of a "western thriller" at a local motion picture theater. Lackman, attending a performance Saturday evening was wounded by George Mitchell, 22.

Mitchell, who could assign no motive to police for the shooting, fired a bullet into Lackman's neck at the instant the villain in the picture "hit the dust," a victim of the hero's unerring aim. Mitchell was held pending outcome of Lackman's wound.

NO SPECIAL SESSION---COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—A definite decision against a special session of Congress in advance of its regular December meeting date has been reached by President Coolidge.

All of the information reaching the President is said to indicate that the Mississippi flood situation can be handled as effectively at the regular session as by convening in advance. Relief funds on hand are adequate, Secretary Hoover has reported, to take care of the situation until after January 1. Moreover, it was said, engineers studying the flood prevention plans will find it difficult to get all of their data and studies compiled for Congress to act upon even by December.

BRAVEST AND BEST

As autumn comes this year, bringing denser fogs, more violent winds and mounting seas and the friends of aviation can look back on a dozen thrilling chapters written in deeds by daring men and women. Since April 16 men and two women, among the bravest and best the business of flying could boast, have thrown dice with distance and time and fate, and lost the toss. Their wings crushed and broken and gone forever, these intrepid pioneers share the fate of old-time voyagers lying on the sea's great plains of ooze where the shell-burred cables crawl, and blind fishes move where no light comes.

PAGES FOR HISTORY

Under the North Atlantic mists, where the long ground swells of the Pacific lift and fall, these game ones who could look steadily into the bright face of danger have sown with their lives for a harvest of progress. Amid the rewards of its autumn aviation will remember their shining deeds as it recounts the tale of its pathfinders. Nungesser and Coli waving life a gay "Au Revoir." Erwin and Eichewaldt radioing their banter in the face of death. Mildred Doran with her "Well, life is just a gamble after all." Leif Ericssons, Columbuses, Magellans and Drakes—given to history by an age of jazz and four-wheel brakes.

ALL WED UP AGAIN

FAWN GRAY

Fawn Gray, dancer and one-time playmate of Harry Thaw, staggered right into matrimony, she told a judge in Baltimore, and wants to be set free. It was the second time Fawn had taken the step without intention. The man in the case this time is J. E. Smith, whom the petition for annulment describes as a playwright and motion picture director of Hollywood and New York. Smith, said Fawn, had some liquor and she had a thirst; and next morning she awakened to find she had a new name. Which was all very embarrassing.

LESLIE DEFENDS SLATING OF JUDGES

Support of every candidate on the Republican organization ticket was asked by State Senator M. G. Leslie, speaking last night at a meeting in his home ward, the Ninth. This was his first public appearance during the campaign, although he had participated in the conferences at which the organization candidates were selected.

Reading an editorial headed "Vote as Independent Citizens—Not as Slaves of Political Machines," which appeared yesterday in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Leslie declared that, in effect, it said "we should stomach all the Pinchot appointees."

"It holds that we should have slated not only Moore and McVicar, but Martin, Gray and Gollmar," he said. "In other words, it means that the voters of the county should have no voice in the selection of the judgeship candidates, but that Gov. Pinchot's selections should have been chosen by us and submitted to you. Pinchot in appointing judges was playing politics to put himself into the United States Senate. We, in Allegheny county, have the right to select our own judges. We first chose the four old judges, who are staid, solid and substantial. Then we chose Moore and McVicar, who were the best of the Pinchot selections."

"Controller C. C. McGovern," said Leslie, "is a character assassin who is no more fit to occupy the office of county controller than a rabbit."

BOY ON LEECHBURG ROAD STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Sept. 20.—Verle Cook, 4, Valley Heights, suffered a fractured skull when he was struck by an automobile on the Leechburg road yesterday. After rushing the boy to the Citizens General Hospital, Willard Ashley, Braeburn, driver of the car, gave himself up to police.

POLLS OPENED TO TRI-STATE VOTERS

By International News service.

MONONGAHELA, Sept. 20.—Five Republican candidates sought the Republican nomination for mayor here, the largest number of candidates for that office here in years.

PUNXSUTAWNEY—Mud-slinging that marked the primaries in many counties was entirely absent here as Jefferson county voted on candidates for sheriff, register, recorder, treasurer and other offices. It was termed a "clean" election.

NEW CASTLE—The primary election ended a lively campaign in Lawrence county. For the most part it was a Republican primary, as there were few contests on the Democratic ticket. A record vote was anticipated.

SHARON—Sixty-four hundred voters registered here, of which 2,700 were women. The primary here was one of the most exciting in years.

AMBRIDGE—Mass meetings in Beaver, Rochester, Beaver Falls and Ambridge brought the campaign in Beaver county to a close. There were many heated contests for the major offices.

ERIE—This county reported the heaviest registration in years. A score of county and city candidates sought the vote of the 52,100 registered voters.

MERCER—Keen interest in today's primaries is indicated by the appointment of 2,000 watchers at the polls, a record number in Mercer county.

PHILADELPHIA—Heavy balloting marked the early hours of voting in the primary election today. As the balloting started in one of the quietest elections here for years, predictions of victory came from all sides.

In last-hour statements the mayoralty candidates, J. Hampton Moore, independent candidate, and Harry A. Mackey, organization Republican candidate, and District Attorney Charles E. Fox, who is opposing Judge John Monaghan, Republican candidate, predicted victory, basing the claims on the record-breaking registration for a municipal election.

Magistrate Edward P. Carney, independent, is a third entrant in the mayoralty race.

Interest centers in the fight between Mackey and Moore and Monaghan and Fox. Both major parties also will nominate candidates for sheriff.

NEW BOXES READY FOR LAWRENCE VOTERS TODAY

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 20.—Ballot boxes for the 81 districts in Lawrence county were ready when the primary voting started today. They were ordered Saturday night after the ballots of last fall's election were impounded. As the old boxes were collected, new boxes were installed yesterday. Empty cells in the county jail furnished storage space for the impounded ballot boxes.

NIP VOTE RIOT IN HOMESTEAD

A hot fight for councilman in the Second Ward, Homestead, resulted in a fight at the Second District polls this morning in which a dozen or more men participated. A riot call was sent to the police station and five men were arrested. As a result of the fight the polls were closed for an hour.

In the Third District, Fifth Ward, Homestead, H. Youngman, judge of election, closed the polls because of the presence of Deputy Constable George Baron. Later they were opened with Baron on guard outside.

STATE WINS PENNSY SUIT

CAPITAL STOCK TAX AWARD MADE

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Judge Fox today handed a decision holding that the commonwealth is entitled to recover a total of $747,226.58 from the Pennsylvania Railroad in an appeal from a settlement by state officials of a capital stock tax for the year 1924. The railroad paid a capital stock tax of $1,261,828.72 for that year, but contended it was not liable for the balance of the settlement and refused to pay it.

The opinion held that the railroad is liable to the commonwealth for a tax on the shares of capital stock and the lease it holds of and from foreign corporations; that in computation of the tax the value of the shares of capital stock and lease were properly included in the taxable assets of the corporation; that the value of the shares of capital stock the appellant holds of domestic corporations which have paid their respective taxes for the year in question should not have been included in its taxable assets for the year 1924, and that the accounting officers of the commonwealth used the correct method in reaching their conclusions. For these reasons the appeal was not sustained.

The effect of the decision is that the Pennsylvania Railroad is liable for a tax on the shares of Pennsylvania Terminal and Tunnel Railroad Company which it holds to the value of $54,200,577 and on its lease of the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company valued at $25,294,913.

Bare Legs Allowed In California School Rooms

By Universal Service.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 20.—If California high school flappers want to go to school without any stockings, they have a perfect legal right to bare legs in the class room.

This conclusion was drawn by William John Cooper, state superintendent of public instruction after perusal of the state school laws regarding school attire.

Reports of an impending "no-stockings" vogue among school girls have been growing insistent within the last few months, and, facing the possibility, Cooper decided that nothing can be done about it from a legal standpoint.

To Avoid Engine Repair Bills

Wise motorists check their ignition when the engine falls short of the fine performance that it once had.

Many times expensive repair bills are incurred and it is afterwards found that all that was needed was a new set of spark plugs. This for the reason that spark plugs in time deteriorate and need to be replaced.

This is the simplest, safest and least costly thing to do before authorizing extensive repairs or adjustments.

When you buy spark plugs, be sure to insist on AC—the spark plug on which Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and other great flyers staked their lives—then you will be sure of perfect spark plug performance.

Your dealer has the right type and size for your engine.

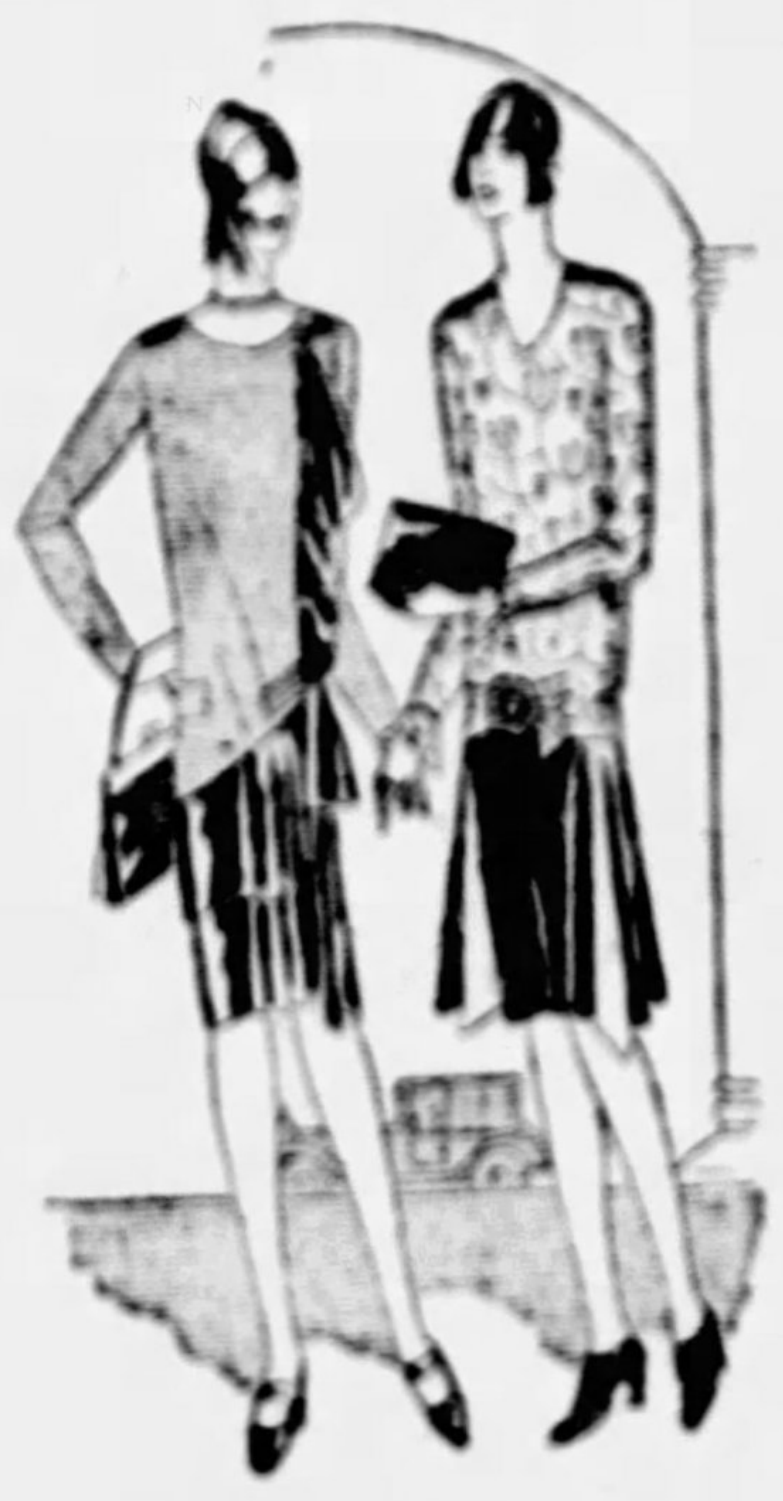
Select Your Finer Dresses

From These Fashion Floor Groups Assured That They Are Notably Chic

$29.50—$35.00



From these two collections you can secure modes that will not reach Pittsburgh in other than "Greater K. & B." channels for some time to come. They are not the first flash of Paris modes for Fall but the later assured successes of the advanced Fall and Winter. Elegant in fabric and treatment. But above all, authoritative in style.

Sizes 14 to 18 for Misses and 34 to 46 for Women

There is everything new about the two dresses illustrated—the one on the left using tiers and a jabot of transparent velvet and the one on right combining the very new gold and silver embroidered blouse of jade georgette with the equally new circular skirt of black satin. And scores that are just as smart—smarter perhaps for you.

To meet the demand for de luxe cabinet sets, RCA offers a limited number of custom-built models, using the famous Super-Heterodyne principle, universally acknowledged as the ultimate in radio design.

These will be available in two designs, one incorporating the famous RCA Loudspeaker 104, and the other the remarkable new RCA Loudspeaker 100-A.

The new, complete line of Radiolas now available includes sets for all methods of operation and all requirements of location. There is a choice of storage battery, dry battery and socket power operation (direct from the lighting circuit)—as well as the use of outdoor or indoor aerial.

Every improvement of radio design is incorporated in these wonderful instruments.

These Radiolas are the product of the same engineers who have built the high-power broadcasting stations. They are designed so as to reproduce faithfully the perfection of tone now achieved by the transmitting apparatus in the studio.

FREE WIDOW IN DOCTOR'S DEATH

By International News Service.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 20.—With authorities admittedly puzzled in their investigation into his death, Dr. William Lilliendahl, 72-year-old narcotic specialist, was to be buried today in Greenwood Cemetery near the remains of two other famous murder victims—Albert Snyder of the Gray-Snyder plot and the Rev. Edward Hall of the notorious Hall-Mills mystery.

Released on $15,000 bond as a material witness after four days of questioning, Mrs. Gertrude Lilliendahl, 42, popular wife of the slain physician, was to accompany her husband's remains to the grave.

She collapsed before his body at the morgue yesterday, where she was taken to undergo the formality of identifying the body.

Meanwhile, Cameron S. Hinkle, Atlantic county prosecutor, declared that while accusing no one specifically, he was pursuing the investigation on the theory that Dr. Lilliendahl was the victim of a plot and that the motive for his murder was not robbery.

Mrs. Lilliendahl has contended from the first that the doctor was slain while protecting her from Negro thugs during a motor trip near their Vineland home.

Latest developments in the investigation today centered around the questioning of Willis Beach, 52, poultry farmer and a neighbor of the Lilliendahls. Beach was unmoved by the two-hour examination and answered questions which were later put to him by interviewers. He denied any intimacy with the Lilliendahls, requesting them for money or writing Mrs. Lilliendahl.

The questions bore on the finding of a letter near the murder scene revealing that a man had written Mrs. Lilliendahl asking her for money and that she had refused and informed her husband.

So Smartly Attired in

The New Cloth Dresses

A semi-formal model for afternoon wear, a Tailor-Type for street—in these two forms the cloth dress is prominent in the chic wardrobe.

Of the new lightweight cloths, some of them delightfully sheer, models are either tailored to severity, or decorative to the point of being embroidered in metal, having gold lace vests and being trimmed with fur.

Women's cloth frocks of the finer kind, $39.50 to $125.00.

Silk boucle, in solid or two-tone harmonies, for the woman who wishes to be a bit decorative in a spectator group—

TWO MORE MARINES ARE KILLED IN NICARAGUA

Raiders Repulsed With Heavy Loss

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—One American marine and one member of the Nicaraguan National Guard were killed and a second marine was fatally wounded in a fight yesterday between a detachment of 20 marines and 25 native constabulary and a force of about 140 members of the Salgado band.

The American legation at Managua transmitting a report of the fight to the State Department today [illegible] and the bandits were said to have lost 15 killed and 30 wounded. A relief column of marines and constabulary is on the way to the scene of the fight at Telpaneca from Pueblo Nuevo to prevent a possible second attack.

The dispatch said bandits had attacked the garrison of the town at 1 a. m. and that the fighting lasted until 5 a. m. when they withdrew. The Salgado-Sandino force was well armed with rifles, machine guns, hand bombs and dynamite bombs.

So far as casualties go, the fight yesterday appeared to have been the most serious since the Ocotal battle, in which the Nicaraguan chief, Sandino, was reported to have lost several hundred of his followers in an attack on American marines and native constabulary. American aviators dispersed Sandino's men at that time.

OLD FOLKS NOW ESCAPE PAINS

Years ago old age was feared. Pains, stiffness, feebleness, senility and suffering came with it. Doctors and medicine gave little or no relief. Few knew the cause, thousands being treated for diseases they did not have. No wonder so many died prematurely. Today science tells us that system poisoning, (due to a lazy colon and wrong treatment for constipation) recognized as Toxemia, is the malady that brings sickness, premature weakness and untold suffering, both early and late in life.

But progress in bacteriology and the introduction of PARTOLA, a mild, pleasant laxative and internal antiseptic, is saving legions of people the pangs of worry, disease and misery formerly so prevalent between the ages of 40 and 70. All good druggists sell regular box of PARTOLA at 30¢. Double size 50¢.

Mary Shaw, In Spanish Play, "The Cradle Song," Scores Artistic Triumph In Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

GEORGE SEIBEL

WHAT is drama without a villain? Can you get suspense without triangles, or extract climaxes from sweetness and light? The infant class in dramatic technique will find these questions answered satisfactorily in "The Cradle Song," a comedy from the Spanish of Gregorio and Maria Martinez Sierra, in which Mary Shaw at the head of a well-balanced company appeared at the Nixon Theater last night. It is a play that rivals Barrie in his most delicate mood: it is woven of peace and sunbeams, frail of texture as the wings of a moth, but eternal as the foundations of life and love. It is lyrical in its ecstasy, yet convincingly realistic in sincerity of character analysis.

Don Martinez Sierra and his wife have made a Dominican convent the scene of their pathetic romance. These nuns, imbued with the tender spirit of maternity, find a child on which to lavish that wealth of affection. An infant in a basket comes to stir up the calm deeps of these simple and sweet souls. When, after a lapse of 18 years the babe has grown into a beautiful young girl, life again comes knocking at the convent gate. A lover is going to marry the girl and bear her off to America, outside of the grating that separates the sisters from the world. He renders his thanks to them for the treasure they are committing to his charge, and hears their admonitions how to care for her bodily and spiritual welfare. Then she leaves and the nuns go to their service, and Sister Joanna, who loved Teresa best of all, remains weeping in her Gethsemane of loneliness.

In this atmosphere of piety and purity, where a fashion sheet represents the utmost reach of mundane temptation, the affecting comedy is played. Miss Shaw as the Prioress radiates tenderness and love in a part that is the very antithesis of her Mrs. Warren. Phyllis Rankin as the Vicaress lets the light of a subconscious tenderness shine faintly through an ascetic and acrid righteousness. Mary Hone gives a touching portrayal of Sister Joanna, and Virginia Gregory as the Mistress of Novices moves in a sweetness of humility. Rita Johann has the part of the foundling, and her exquisite girlishness, her simplicity and pureness of soul are set forth without a false note.

Only two men appear in the play: the old Doctor, with a fine tincture of heretical malice in his benevolent heart, and the young lover who is permitted to express his gratitude through the screened window. Harry Davenport played the Doctor with rare humor, and Alexander Kirkland imparted dignified candor to the young man's role. Between the acts an interlude in verse was recited with understanding by Albert Moore in the make-up of a Spanish poet.

It is a production that has no star, though few plays are better cast. Miss Shaw generally dominates the scene with her infinite tenderness, and that is the general effect of the comedy. Into a world that has grown old and wise, it sheds a soft radiance from an earlier age of faith and peace. And that, when we come to think of it, is really a startling novelty in our theater of today.

LINCOLN PLAYLET IN DAVIS

Abraham Lincoln, impersonated by Frank McGlynn, is the principal feature of the vaudeville bill at the Davis this week, giving the audience a patriotic thrill as he delivers the Gettysburg address at the close of the little playlet. There are other good impersonations in an act called "Memories of the Opera," in which Caesar Rivoli assumes the masks of Mascagni, Strauss, Liszt, Rubinstein, Verdi and Gounod in succession, conducting the orchestra while a group of singers with excellent voices render selections from popular music dramas. Then there is an eccentric English comedienne, Peg Wynne, whom you will enjoy or detest, according to how her gyrations of limbs and vocal cords impress you. She can screw herself into any geometrical pattern and imitate a barnyard to perfection. Another gem of nonsensicality is the monologue of Ernest Hiatt, who seems to have memorized the street directory without one lapse. People who wish to gain or lose weight ought to see the mystifying performance of Allan and Jean Crell, who are able to shift from light to heavy at will; easy to lift this moment, they cannot be budged 10 seconds later. A pair of colored dancers and singers, the Anderson Boys, gave an amusing exhibition of agility. A canine classic, "His Dog," is the film feature, in which Joseph Schildkraut divides honors with a lovely and intelligent collie—incidentally the story is more effective than a temperance sermon. It is a very entertaining bill from first to last, with several real high spots.

MYSTERY OF THRILLS TOPS CAMEO PROGRAM

The picturization of John Willard's absorbing mystery drama, "The Cat and the Canary," is the current feature in the Cameo. Paul Leni, one of screendom's leading directors, when it comes to the art of the unusual on the screen, wielded the megaphone. He has succeeded in adding much to the suspense and entertainment of the drama plot through the introduction of a number of sequences that visualize the action by the play of gigantic shadows on the walls of fantastic and bizarre sets. Laura La Plante wins new laurels for her portrayal of Anna belle West, sole legatee of an eccentric old recluse's estate. The recluse, actuated by strange motives, stipulates that his will be read in an abandoned mansion on the Hudson River. Other players includes Flora Finch, Gertrude Astor, Creighton Hale, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Tully Marshall and George Siegman. Short film entertainment completes the bill.

"ROSE MARIE" IN ALVIN

"Rose Marie," the musical play that has become so well known for its many excellences, again is a visitor in Pittsburgh, opening an engagement of one week in the Alvin last night, when it gave pleasure to a good sized audience. "Rose Marie" is one modern operetta that is not based on the overworked Cinderella theme of the usual run of musical comedy, but has a dramatic plot which, if not calling for anything great in the way of acting, nevertheless is of absorbing interest and holds the attention of the audience throughout.

The company presenting it last night is a capable one in which Beulah Berson played with feeling the title role of Rose-Marie La Flamme, her singing being of a quality that won admiration. Paul Donah, seen here previously in another "Rose-Marie" company as brother of the heroine, last night appeared as the hero, which he portrayed with a nice sense of values. His singing also pleased. Charles Meakins again was the Sergeant Malone of robust voice and nimble feet for a large man. Houston Richards was a funny Hard-Boiled Herman, and Peggy Bates was just the fit as the softhearted and hardheaded Lady Jane. Hazel Gaudreau was well cast as the Indian siren, Wanda. Ross Gibson, as the scheming Hawley, and Sano Marco, as the brother of Rose-Marie, did their work well.

The "Totem Tom Tom" dancing number, with Miss Gaudreau as the leader, made its usual hit with the audience, as did the song features, "Rose Marie" and "The Indian Love Call."

MELODRAMA ON PITT STAGE

The crack of gunmen's pistols sound in the Pitt this week, where members of the George Sharp company present a mighty fine interpretation of Willard Mack's melodrama, "Honor be Damned." There is sophistication and humor to the piece. And there are thrills and intense episodes.

Briefly the plot concerns John Connell, who has risen from the obscurity of the tenements of New York to prominence as a criminal attorney, and who persists in his loyalty to members of his old gang, who have gone the way of slum politicians. But the good melodrama is like a good mystery—if you know too much about the theme you won't enjoy seeing it so much. So that's all for the plot.

"Honor Be Damned," with Willard Mack, its author, in the leading role was first presented in the Nixon a season or two ago, en route to Broadway. But Thurston Hall owes no apologies to Mr. Mack, for the way Connell is portrayed in the current presentation. Neither does Anne Forrest for the way she carries the difficult part of the attorney's sister. In fact all of Mr. Sharp's players give most satisfying portrayals, including Geoffrey Bryant and Gus A. Forbes.

A poker party episode in the first act results in lots of laughter, with one smalltown "rube" putting over most of them, "as the saying goes." The "rube" is played by John W. Moore, who bobs in and out keeping the audience in good humor with his Main street wisecracks. Mabel Kroman adds much to the production in her role of friend of the Connell girl.

The play, from the rise of the first curtain, travels swiftly its melodramatic way to a climax of thrills and chills. Bang, bang, bang—the crack of gunmen's pistols startle the audience. A pal stumbles into Connell's apartment—dying.

Some critics say the stage has lost its realism. Well, not in the Pitt this week, anyway, as any Pittsburgher can tell you.

POLA NEGRI STARS IN OLYMPIC FILM

"Barbed Wire," Pola Negri's latest starring vehicle, current in the Olympic, deals with an angle of the war that the movies heretofore have not dealt with—life behind the battle lines. Miss Negro is cast as Mona, a Normandy farm girl, who is irresistibly attracted to and forced, in spite of all instinctive hatreds, to love a wartime German prisoner. With the exception of a few brief episodes of the battle front, the scenes are all laid behind the lines. A capable cast supports the star. The Vitaphone portion of the bill present Roger Wolfe Kahn and his Le Perroquet Orchestra as its headliner. Irving and Jack Kaufman offer a song act. Jesse Kremer also offers melody selections on the Vitaphone. A comedy and news pictures complete the bill.

Holt and Weir and their nine Australian Dandies will topline the vaudeville in the Sheridan Square the last half of this week. Rin-Tin-Tin, the famous dog actor in "Jaws of Steel," will be the screen presentation.

The stage attraction next week in the Grand will be the Biltmore Boys in a cycle of songs and instrumental syncopation.

Louis Wolheim has a comedy role in support of William Boyd and Mary Astor in "Two Arabian Knights," which will be shown next week in the Penn.

Richard Arlen plays the role of John Shreve in "The Blood Ship," a sea drama showing next week in the Aldine.

HARRIS OFFERS GOOD BILL

The Harris stage has been handing out some mighty good vaudeville these recent weeks. And the present week is no exception. Its photoplays also have averaged high, the current one being another one of those Jewish-Irish laugh bouts, with heart interest sandwiched between the guffaws. It is titled "Clancy's Kosher Wedding" and includes in its cast George Sidney, Will Armstrong, Rex Lease and Sharon Lynn. On the stage Cliff Johnston stepped right along with the headline act in an original bit of ventriloquism. If he could throw a ball like he can throw his voice he'd be a star pitcher on the diamond. "The Midget Follies," billed as the topping feature, won plenty of applause. This presentation was offered in 11 scenes by 12 performers. Though small in stature, they capered in big musical revue style. Barto and Clark, with a cardboard horse and milkman's lingo, kept the customers in good humor. Jack and Rita Pearl, with a lot of hayseed antics sprinkled with flapper wisecracks, chattered and jigged their way across the lights. Lester and company lost and found human beings and chickens in one of those magical acts. Cooper and Clifton were seen in a skit, "Stage Struck." Short film features completed the bill.

ACADEMY BURLESQUE IS 'HAPPY HOURS'

"Happy Hours," this week's show in the Academy, has no serious moments. It is a burlesque opening with a skit "Up in the Air," a travesty on aviation, Harry Stratton playing the chief aviator in an amusing way. Etna Moore is seen as an aviatrix, and the complications arising over a proposed hop to Europe, form the pivot for merriment. "In Old China Town," serves to introduce a series of character types in which the principals include Fred Walker, Fred Reese, Edith Palmer and Renee De Marse appear. "An Adventure in Spain" is presented with attractive scenic and costume effects. Etna Moore does a song specialty, accompanied by Margie Vaye at the piano. The Dempsey-Sharkey fight pictures are shown. Thursday night details of the Tunney-Dempsey battle in Chicago will be read from the stage.

FIVE GALA ACTS IN ALDINE

In an atmosphere of new paint and beautiful scenic effects, Loew's Aldine yesterday inaugurated its new policy of five vaudeville acts and a feature photoplay. There was some real class and snappy smartness to several of the stage presentations. Lillian Shaw, dialect comedienne, pushed gloom far in the background with three impersonations. As a bride who didn't know whether she wanted to be a bride or not, she kept the house in an uproar. Her curtain calls were many. The Ritz Brothers, three of them, burlesqued "collegiate" and all it stands for right over the top of laughter. And danced—we'll say they danced. They know something, those three boys. Al Vann and His Gang served to present an organization that is well up on its syncopation. Comedy and dance novelties were part of their act. Downey and McCoy spilled song and nonsense in a manner that pleased. Millie and Bradford were responsible for a harmonious 15 minutes. The photoplay feature was "After Midnight," a romance of a Broadway cabaret girl who reforms and falls in love with a crook. Norma Shearer, Lawrence Gray and Gwen Lee are in the cast. An overture and short film features completed the bill.

VARIETY AND FILMS IN SHERIDAN SQUARE

In the Sheridan Square last night Gerber's Jesters were the topline attraction, billed as a laughter revue with Harry Seymore and Val Irving chief funmakers. The four other members of the cast, Teller Sisters, Chat Gorman and Joe Rock, fulfilled their part in a satisfying manner. The screen presentation was "Clancy's Kosher Wedding," with George Sidney in a role as head funster. Prize fights, picnics and politics are combined to make the picture a hilarious one. Edwin George in "A Comedy of Errors" went Shakespeare one better in funmaking and his jibes at up-to-date topics. The Cosmopolitan Four, an aggregation of singers and comedians, were enjoyed. Rivers and Arnold, in "Sell 'Em Cheap," offered a travesty. Morrell and Elinor, in a novelty, opened the bill and were preceded by a screen comedy. A new song school and other acts completed the bill.

Picture Version Of War Play In Grand

"What Price Glory," screen version of the stage play by Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson, was the pleasing photoplay feature in the Grand yesterday, the stage attraction being "Husk" O'Hare and his Tune Tinkers. As is usual with photoplays made from stage dramas, "What Price Glory" showed more than the original, the elaboration making possible injection of atmospheric war and comedy scenes not permitted in the limited scope of the oral theater. The characters, too, have undergone a transformation, being more brutalized as well as more idealized. Hence, audiences saw the hard-boiled Captain Flagg and that tough lad, Sergeant Quirt, marching off as pals and brothers in the finale instead of foes withholding their enmity for the good of the army, as in the play. Victor McLaglen appeared as a callous cynic in the role of Flagg, and Edmund Lowe was equally flinty as Squirt. Charmaine, more saccharine than Stallings conceived her, was sweetly played by Dolores Del Rio. It is a good picture. The Tune Tinkers tinked musical numbers that were real entertainment. A comedy, news pictures, "Topics of the Day" and music by the Grand Orchestra were other attractions.

NEW SONG SHOW IN GAYETY

"Wine, Woman and Song" was offered in the Gayety yesterday by a company headed by Bert Bertrand and it proved to be a musical melange with a number of attractive qualities, including capable steppers and pleasing singers. Made up of various episodes, mostly of a comedy nature, between which were sandwiched musical and dancing numbers and other specialties, it was much enjoyed. It was not all comedy, however, Bertrand doing a drunk characterization in a little dramatic skit entitled "Prohibition" that made an impression as a danger signal to drinkers of bootleg liquor. Ruth Ramon was featured in a number of the musical scenes, in which she was well liked. Gertrude Ralston also was prominent in the song scenes, one of the most pretentious of which was "The Ragtime Wedding," providing an elaborate finale for the first act. Prominent as dancers were the Tracy Sisters and Frank Hanscome, all appearing several times in terpsichorean specialties. Arthur Mayer, Billy Harris, Hal Ford and Jim McCauley were the singing boys of the company, which includes a lively stepping chorus. The scenic equipment was new and neat and the piece was well staged.

Miss Gish Plays Highland Lass In Penn

The screen feature yesterday in the Penn was "Annie Laurie," starring Lillian Gish, while the stage offerings included Gilbert and Sullivan and their male singing ensemble, and Brunoff and Josephine, dancers. "Annie Laurie" is a story of the clashing of the clans in the days when Scotland frequently was torn by the jealousies of its chieftains. It particularly concerns the clan MacDonald of the Highlands and the Campbells of the Lowlands, the feud being heightened when the MacDonalds refuse to make peace unless lands and cattle taken in forays of the Campbells are restored. There are scenes of merry pageantry and the stirring action of conflict, comedy and romance being well intermixed with the dramatic side of the story. Miss Gish, as Annie Laurie, is a Campbell who falls in love with a MacDonald. Tragedy stalks through her romance, and Miss Gish, one of the screen's most gifted actresses, arose to all the requirements of the part. Norman Kerry was in the leading male role. The Gilbert and Sullivan singers pleased with various vocal selections, including old and new favorites. News pictures and other attractions completed the bill.

PARDON BOARD GETS BELL PLEA

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—When the State Board of Pardons meets here tomorrow for its September session it will consider a request of counsel for John A. Bell, former Allegheny county broker, to have his case continued until a later meeting. Bell following his conviction on embezzlement and other charges, was sentenced to six and a half years in the Allegheny county prison.

Application was made last spring by Bell for a pardon. At the June meeting a letter was read from his counsel asking that the case be continued until "the fall session." This continuance was requested to permit physicians to make a more thorough study of Bell's condition following a stroke.

Ten of 43 cases listed for argument Wednesday are from Allegheny county.

An effort will be made to secure a pardon for Antonio Caltendo, convicted of killing Dominick Cambrea, of Rankin.

Angelo Jackson, Negro, sentenced in 1906 to be hanged, whose sentence was changed to life imprisonment, is asking a pardon.

A protest has been filed against the granting of a pardon to Oliver R. Mulvey. He was sentenced in 1925 to from three to six years on 23 counts of embezzlement. He says he is repentant and that his wife needs his support.

THREE INDICTED FOR MURDER

Three indictments for murder were returned by the grand jury yesterday, two in family quarrels and one in an automobile crash.

Raymond Rahn, South Fairmount avenue, was held in the death of Martin Lydon, 48, of 1406 Nixon street. Lydon, Pittsburgh Railways welder, was struck and killed by Rahn's automobile in Wilkinsburg.

William Beseck was held to answer for the death of his son, William Paul Beseck, in the home at 2221 Penn avenue on July 13, and Edna M. Houston was indicted in the death of her husband, John M. Houston, 28, following a quarrel in their home at 7904 Edgewood avenue, Swissvale.

MANY ATTEND DUQUESNE U.

A record enrollment of students at Duquesne University was reported for yesterday, the first registration day, Dr. Hugh C. Muldoon, dean of the school of pharmacy, reported today. At the same time several new additions to the faculty were announced. The new instructors are Frank A. Lee, assistant professor of pharmacy; G. W. Daubenspeck, assistant professor of biology; Leslie P. Timmis, instructor in commercial design; R. E. Lansbery, instructor in commercial display, and Mary R. Kettl, hospital instructor in dispensing.

SUES EXECUTOR OF BOGGS WILL

The estate of Russell H. Boggs, of Boggs & Buhl, who died three years ago, came into public notice again when a beneficiary, Emma B. McBride, filed a petition in Common Pleas Court yesterday taking exception to the second and partial account of the will as presented by the executor, Mary Walker Boggs Criqui.

The petition claims that the executor spent $82,060.46 in a litigation proceeding with the Pittsburgh-Harmony-Butler Railways Company and charged that sum to the estate, although the executor had "an individual interest" in the case.

SON OF WEALTHY DETROIT MAN HELD FOR RANSOM

SUSPECTS HELD IN KIDNAPING OF BOY, 3

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Police officials today assigned a large crew of detectives to run down the captors of Frankie Jergovich, 3, son of a wealthy saloon owner and real estate operator, who was spirited away from his home here last night.

The last time the child was seen was about 7 o'clock last night by his sister, Madeline, 14. Frankie was walking along the street opposite the Jergovich home, Madeline said.

A short time later Jergovich received a telephone call from a man who refused to identify himself, but who told the father the child was being held for $25,000 ransom. The man hung up the receiver abruptly without volunteering any information as to how Jergovich was expected to deliver the ransom.

The police were notified immediately and emergency squads dispatched to scour the neighborhood. Four men were taken into custody for questioning. They were said by neighbors to answer the description of men seen loitering about the Jergovich home yesterday.

Police learned that Jergovich had been the target of an extortion plot several years ago. The extortionists who wrote the man a number of threatening letters, demanding sums of money, were never apprehended.

Mrs. Jergovich was near collapse today from anxiety over her son's plight.

HUSBAND WINS ESTATE FIGHT

A decree was handed down in Orphans Court dismissing exceptions filed recently by heirs of the Emma King Smith estate, who sought to prevent William H. Smith, husband of Emma King Smith, from electing to take his share of the estate against the will.

The exceptions were filed by Mrs. Effie Irwin Bagealey and others, who, according to agreement, were to share in the entire estate after the death of Mr. Smith. However, Smith, shortly before his death, decided to take his share of the estate, which the court held he had a right to do under the law. Exceptions being taken to this decision, Mr. Smith's sons now will share in their father's estate, inherited from Mrs. Smith. The sons of Mr. Smith were born to him by a former marriage, they being of no blood relation to Mrs. Emma King Smith. About $200,000 is involved.

LEGION MEMBER DIES IN PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(INS)—The first tragedy of the American Legion convention occurred here today when Wayne H. Schwenneker, of Adam, Iowa, a member of the Des Moines post of the Legion, died in the Riboisiere Hospital of diabetes.

Schwenneker was taken from the boat train on his arrival here from Cherbourg suffering from the disease. No decision has been made as to disposition of the body.

COAL POLICEMAN FINED $25

Requests for five bullets for his gun cost Dewey Klingore, 25, coal and iron policeman, $5 for each bullet when he appeared before Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in South Side Police Station. Klingore is said to have appeared at the Mt. Washington Police Station Sunday night in search of the shells and to have become engaged in an argument when he was refused. He paid the $25 fine.

TENDER GUMS

Firm Up—Teeth Sparkle

Get Pepsodent—Works wonders by clearing film coat from teeth

TEETH seldom are naturally "off color." Most often they're merely coated with a film that forms on teeth and absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. By clearing it off, one's whole appearance may be changed.

Old-type dentifrices failed to remove that film successfully. That's why brushing has failed you. Now leading dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice, Pepsodent, for this purpose.

Results are quick and surprising. Film coats go. Teeth whiten; sparkle like jewels. Bacteria that thrive in film are combated; tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea thus scientifically fought.

To prove those results, accept 10-day tube free. Or get full-size tube for few cents at your druggist. Do this in fairness to yourself.

DAVIS ARRIVES IN PLANE TO VOTE

The airplane has become a factor for the first time in public elections. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis used one in returning from Detroit yesterday to cast his ballot in the Twenty-third district of the Nineteenth Ward here.

Numerous candidates have hired planes within the last few days for use in the distribution of campaign literature. This use has been declared cheap and effective.

Secretary Davis was more willing to talk about the new model Fords, which he had seen put through their paces at Detroit, than today's primaries. After casting his ballot, Secretary Davis plans to take off for Columbus in the Army plane in which he came here and from there go to Washington.

Sewickley's Lockup Is Quite Exclusive

The "Sewickley police station for Sewickley prisoners" rule, in force for more than a week, has been modified, but no unqualified "Welcome" sign to all lawbreakers has been hung out because of the fuss raised by Constable Ross F. Shaffer. County detectives and state police have been notified that they can use the Sewickley lockup, but no such courtesy has been extended to him, Constable Shaffer declares.

Last Saturday Shaffer preferred charges against John Eaton, police station janitor, because Eaton, following the rule that the police station was for borough use only, released a prisoner the constable had placed there. Sunday night Sergt. Harry Heckler was suspended by borough officials because he accepted one of Constable Shaffer's prisoners. Shaffer says the rule was meant as a discrimination against constables. Attorney Charles A. Woods, borough solicitor, says it was prompted by the fact that the station was being crowded with cases from outside of the borough.

The building will be completed by June 1, 1928.

Clifford Seible, of 2323 Library road, escaped uninjured yesterday when he leaped from his burning truck in Overbrook boulevard.

A few words from MR. E. L. CORD
President of Auburn Automobile Co.

Auburn Automobile Company
Auburn, Ind.

August 15th, 1927.

Mr. Blaunstein, President,
American Oil Company,
American Building,
Baltimore, Md.

Dear Sir:-

Mr. Wade Morton who is in charge of our stock car tests has just made his final reports on the very recent 15,000 mile endurance tests made at the Atlantic Speedway with three of our Auburn 8-88 stock cars.

I notice that for the third time in these tests he has used your motor fuel exclusively and that his report makes specific mention of the very satisfactory service received from your Company and the product.

Yours very truly,
E. L. Cord
President.

When the three Auburns established 37 stock-car records—at distances from 5 to 15,000 miles—on the Atlantic City Speedway—AMOCO-GAS was used exclusively. When the Auburn set the 100-mile stock-car record over the Rockingham Speedway at Salem, N. H., AMOCO-GAS helped make the record.

And here's a note from the President of the Auburn Automobile Co., acknowledging the "satisfactory service" rendered by AMOCO-GAS, the Original Special Motor Fuel, that "makes and breaks records!"

FRENCH FETE LEGIONNAIRES, IGNORE RADICALS

VETERANS WIN HEART OF PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—With the acclamations of Paris' teeming thousands still ringing in their ears from yesterday's parade, the delegates of the American Legion today got down to the serious business of their 1927 convention.

If there is anything in the theory of the influence of environment they should, in view of the atmosphere of warm hospitality, find the task of getting through their schedules an easy and pleasant one.

Paris has learned from the Legion as never before what the real spirit of America is, the newspaper commentators say today; all France understands and is flattered by the motive which led the Legion's chiefs to hold the convention in Paris.

NO DISCORD

The discordant note which the radical Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers, profiting by the legal holiday, sought to strike was so faint as to be lost in the general enthusiasm. M. Herriot's "average Frenchman" ignored them completely, observed the holiday in the spirit in which it was ordained and gazed in kindly fashion on his brothers-in-arms, come over the sea to try to show that the Franco-American friendship forged in those days of war still is a living reality.

There was joy unconfined in Paris again until well past midnight. There were more people in the rainswept streets to view the wonderful illuminations than stood to see the Legion parade.

Public balls in the squares again were in full swing. The new umbrella foxtrot, introduced Sunday, has caught on and is finding more adepts.

The gaily hued caps of the Legionnaires stood out here and there in the mass of drab fedoras and derbys.

PEACEFUL

Not the slightest untoward incident was reported in Paris by the police, which they say is almost unprecedented in view of the enormous crowds in the streets.

Four thousand of those legionnaires not dining with the French veterans or resting from the exertions and emotions of an unforgettable day were entertained by a galaxy of stars of the French stage at a performance organized by the Petit Parisien.

The performance lasted into the small hours, many numbers being vociferously encored.

This morning's session of the American Legion convention was devoted to speeches, with Marshal Foch, wartime generalissimo of the Allied forces, as the principal orator.

Upon the orange band of St. Petersburg, Fla., devolved the honor of providing the music for the convention's second day.

Marshal Foch was late today. He was the only official on time for the opening yesterday, a fact of which he boasted.

Plunge Victim

MRS. JOHN R. BERCKBICKLER

COLLEGE INAUGURATES CONFERENCE PERIODS

A two-hour conference period has been substituted for the lecture and recitation method in Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla. Students may spend the time in study, in conference with the professor, in small discussion groups, in preparation of class papers or outlines, or in any other way preferred to master the subject.

BIBLE IN SCHOOLS UPHELD

That it is lawful and no constitutional provision is infringed by the reading of the Bible in the schoolroom, without note or comment, permitting pupils to retire who do not care to listen to the reading, is the substance of a recent decision by the Supreme Court of Minnesota.

The decision states: "The purpose of the defendant school board in having the Bible read in the public schools was to implant in the mind of the pupil higher moral and ethical standards and a knowledge of the Bible and was not for the purpose of teaching the doctrines of any religious sect."

Few Using New Transatlantic Phone Service

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—A handful of calls a day seems a pitifully inadequate use of millions of dollars' worth of the most valuable apparatus which has occupied inventors for several years and on which nearly two years was spent in tests alone.

Communications are the breath of modern life. We could transmute the old saying "Evil communications corrupt good manners" into "Better communications insure good business." A few years ago the possibility of transmitting pictures by wire still seemed almost impossible though every one agreed it was eminently desirable. Marvelous progress has been made along these lines, and now fairly good pictures are transmitted thusly.

WILL MAKE U. S. SHIP-MINDED

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—"Make the American people 'ship-minded.' Bring them to a keener realization of the importance of having a merchant marine worthy of the name."

That, in his own words, is the task which James H. MacLafferty has cut out for himself as head of a newly-created bureau to promote the Pacific coast shipping industry.

The bureau is sponsored by the Shipowners' Association of the Pacific Coast and the Pacific-American Steamship Association, which own practically all of the 1,500,000 tons of American shipping on foreign trade routes from the Pacific coast.

"We have not had time to crystallize our plans," MacLafferty said "but in general they contemplate a campaign of education inasmuch as the great bulk of the American people does not seem to realize the importance of an adequate merchant marine."

Broadcast Fight at Church Services

OMAHA, Sept. 20.—Because the forthcoming Dempsey-Tunney fight threatened to curtail attendance at his regular Thursday evening services, the Rev. E. J. WILL GIVING CHILD VOID

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Not even a mother can will her children away, for they are not chattel but flesh and blood, declared Judge Joseph B. David in court here today, after indicating that he may order Mrs. Anna W. Gottman of Bellwood, Ill. to return her niece, June, 9, and nephew, Robert, 3, to their father, John Isler.

Isler's wife died last January, leaving instructions to turn the children over to her sister, Mrs. Gottman.

She also left an estate of $32,000 to be divided equally between her husband and children. Isler who also lives in Bellwood, sought the return of the children on a writ of habeas corpus.

Here's long life and a smooth one for Model T Ford bands

KEEP "chatter" out of transmission bands and you'll keep more money in your pockets. Use Atlantic N. C. Motor Oil and the bands will last many hundreds of miles longer.

Atlantic N. C. is the most marvelous "non-chatter" oil you can put in your crankcase. It stays efficient. It is an all-mineral lubricant. No vegetable constituents. Non-chatter qualities won't "wear off"; won't evaporate or send out objectionable odors. Keeps bands smooth, pliable, even-gripping.

As a lubricant for the motor itself, there's simply nothing like Atlantic N. C. Get a filling (ask for summer grade) and see it awaken a new friendliness for your Ford. Use Atlantic N. C. regularly and you and "the grand old car" will be inseparable companions.

Beau Gives Sally An Hour To Get $1,000 For Him; She Visits John Nye

What Has Gone Before

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has not lived with her mother for years. The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and Millie, and Sally. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for MR. PEEVEY afternoons. In the flat below the Jeromes lives TED SLOAN, who wants Sally to marry him. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Millie is Nye's secretary, and he is blindly infatuated with her, although Millie prefers a salesman named DAVIDSON, and wants to get him a job with Nye. Davidson is secretly in love with Sally, who will have none of him. Mr. Peevey announces that he is going to retire from business and John Nye offers Sally work in his office. But she makes up her mind to go into business with her spinster aunt, EMILY JEROME. Aunt Emily has turned her country house into a wayside inn and wants Sally to do bookkeeping, etc., for her. Sally discovers that Beau, who works in a bank, has stolen $1,000, all of which he has lost "playing the ponies." He has made up his mind to leave town, but she stops him and goes to Aunt Emily for a loan. Aunt Emily refuses her, and she wonders where to go next.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THE dining room was a beauty. The chairs and tables in it had been painted soft green and covered with flowered chintz. There were black candlesticks on each table, and they held jade-green candles. The curtains were the softest of white dotted muslin, and on the floor were green-and-white woven rugs.

At any other time Sally would have gone into raptures over the dining room. But this morning nothing could lift the leaden weight on her heart. Nothing could raise the drooping corners of her mouth.

"Aunt Emily, I'm coming to work for you on the first of November, if you still want me," she said. "And I'll pay you back that money, somehow or other, if only you'll let me have it. Beau has got himself into some trouble——"

CHAPTER XI.

THE bright Sunday, with its blue sky and autumn leaves glittering like gold in the sunshine, seemed very dark to Sally, as she left Aunt Emily's house and started along the River road.

She had no idea what to do now now—or where to go for the money that Beau must have before he started for the bank the next morning.

She racked her brains, but with no result.

"I've asked Mr. Peevey once for money, so there's no use in going to him again," she thought, mentally crossing him off her list.

"And I don't know where my father is," she went on thinking, her hopelessness growing with every step she took along the wide roadway. For Mr. Jerome traveled for a soap factory and it was almost impossible reach him in a hurry.

"Especially on a Sunday, when the factory is closed," said Sally to herself, and despair was around her heart like ice. "And tomorrow will be too late."

After the bank opened the next morning, Beau would be in terrible danger. He was even now, as far as that went. Sally knew that.

"I've just got to get one thousand dollars, and I've got to get it today," she told herself.

But beyond that point her mind was a blank.

Afterward she never could remember boarding the yellow street car a quarter of a mile from Aunt Emily's "House by the Side of the Road," or mechanically paying her fare.

But all at once, as she sat in the corner of her seat, her brain began to clear and to start working again.

Perhaps it was the sight of a little stone church that she was passing that did it. It was a humble little church on Donovan street, and its narrow steps were crowded with people who were going into it.

Sally never knew for sure whether it was the sight of the little church or not, but all at once the memory of a verse in the Bible flashed into her head as if some gentle voice were repeating it to her, word by word—beautiful and comforting:

"Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy-laden, and I will give you rest."

Surely it had been said for people like her—people who labored and were heavy-laden. It was like a message to her. A promise.

"Help me—help me," she prayed, with lips that never moved. For surely she needed help now as she never had needed it in all her life before.

And so it seemed to her that the thought that came to her was a direct answer to that prayer—the thought of John Nye. She would go to him and tell him that she was in dreadful trouble and needed a thousand dollars—and he would give it to her.

It seemed a certainty to her, then, that he would do it. It seemed as if some inner voice told her so, and she had no shadow of doubt in her heart, suddenly.

She got off the car and walked along until she found a drug store.

From its dark, ill-smelling telephone booth she called John Nye's house.

Her heart sank when a manservant's polite voice informed her that "Mr. Nye has gone out."

The voice went on: "I think you will find him at his office, if you will call there."

"Thank you. I will," breathed Sally, her voice full of relief.

By some miracle a taxicab had drawn up beside the curb before the drug store while its uniformed driver bought himself a package of cigarets within. In two minutes Sally was speeding downtown.

"If only he hasn't left!" she said tensely to herself, as she left the elevator at the top floor.

He had not. The minute she rounded the corner of the hall she saw him. He was standing outside his office door, talking to Mr. Peevey, of all people! Mr. Peevey hardly ever worked on Sunday.

They turned to look at her in surprise as she came up to them. She nodded at them and slipped into Mr. Peevey's office to wait until they finished talking.

Five minutes slipped away.

"I may as well phone the house while I'm waiting, and see if Beau's still there," thought Sally, as the steady hum of their voices came to her through the closed door. Her desperate fear was that Beau would become panicky and do that fatal thing—"skip town."

But he answered the telephone, and she breathed a sigh of thankfulness at the sound of his voice.

"This is going to come out all right, Beau," she told him quietly, strong in that feeling of faith and peace that had come to her on the street car. "I'm sure of it." She was.

Beau grunted. "Did Aunt Em give you the money?"

"No," said Sally. "But I'm downtown now, and I'm going to ask Millie's Mr. Nye for it."

"You're crazy," was Beau's short reply. "He'll never give it to you—and he'll know this story about what I've done all the rest of his life. To tell it around to everybody—"

"He's not like that!" Sally broke in. "And anyway, I'm not going to tell him that I want the money for you. Beau, just trust me this once! I know what I'm doing. And promise me that you won't run away until I get home."

"'I'll give you an hour," Beau's voice answered her after a long pause. "If you're not here then, I'm gone, see?" And with that he hung up.

Sally set down the desk telephone and looked up.

Mr. Peevey had come in silently, and he was standing facing her. She saw that he had heard everything she had said to Beau.

"Sit down!" he said sharply. "Now, then, tell me what's wrong."

But Sally would not tell him. "I've got to see Mr. Nye," she said, doggedly. "He's going to lend me some money."

Mr. Peevey shoved his glasses up on his forehead and squinted at her. "Have you asked him for it?"

Sally shook her head "No."

"Well, before you do it, I want to talk to you," Mr. Peevey said, and he sat down in his own chair behind his old-fashioned desk.

"You've worked for me a long time," he began. "And you've done a lot of things for me that I've never paid you for—a lot of extra work at night, and so on. And now that I'm closing business, I'd like to give you a little present. How much money is it that you need?"

Sally shook her head stubbornly. "No, I won't take money from you," she said decidedly. "I owe you almost $100 now." She got up, and so did he.

"Listen to me a minute," he said. "I'm an old man, and I've never bought myself much pleasure with my money. I would enjoy giving you what you need right now. That is, if it isn't too much." He was always cautious. "But if it's a matter of a few hundred, I could do it, and it would give me a great deal of enjoyment."

"It's a thousand," said Sally, with a gulp.

"Well, a thousand," he agreed,

BECOMES VOTER AT 91

An unusual feature of the last registration day was registration of Mrs. Wilhelmina Henkel, 950 North Lincoln avenue, North Side, for the first time, at the age of 91. She is shown seated in the polling place with her hand upraised. Standing are Edward Walsh, Republican chairman of the Eighth District of the Twenty-second Ward (left); Patrolman Owen Mulvencey and Dan McGiveney, candidate for constable in the ward.

Amos Carter invited me to the fight, but I would rather wait and see them fight next year. That will be the third and maybe for the championship. I hope we can hear the shooting over the radio from Chicago that day.

PASTOR QUITS AT ELLWOOD CITY

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 20.—The brief pastorate of the Rev. George F. Hegele in St. Paul's German Lutheran Church ends next Sunday. Begun in the midst of a battle waged against his predecessor, it is said, the new minister has not had a united congregation and he does not care to continue.

The Rev. John Zultner, for several years in charge of the church, last May was restrained from conducting services by a temporary injunction, in which he was charged with violating the regulations of the church. The injunction was modified, but before a final hearing the Rev. Zultner resigned in June.

Miss America Back Among Home Folks

By Universal Service.

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 20.—Miss America, 1928—Miss Lois Delander—has returned to her home town, which it appears is rapidly becoming a city of champions.

Miss Delander, who won her crown at Atlantic City, was met at Chicago by a delegation from Joliet which had chartered a special train to meet her and bring her home.

On the special train was the championship high school band of the United States and the De La Salle basketball team, national Catholic champions.

Although Miss Delander did as she was told by the movie cameramen, who immediately surrounded her, she obviously was more interested in what her home folks were saying.

About all she heard was "Howdy Lois" from the awed citizenry.

About the happiest person in the whole crowd was Norma Delander, 15-year-old sister of the champion.

The 17-year-old school girl, who would be a junior in high school, passed through the throng that greeted her and smiled at all of them.

Auto Won't Run, He Finds Snake in Engine

BECKLEY, W. VA., Sept. 20.—"Slim" Marshall, garage man, received a surprise, and now has a pet. "Slim" found that his car wasn't functioning properly, so he pried off the head of his motor block. He found a black snake three feet long coiled up in the block. The snake was covered with grease and, so far as "Slim" knows, it was there since he purchased the block six months ago.

REDS JAILED FOR HISSING LEGION

PARIS, Sept. 20.—Three Communists were arrested for hissing the American Legion parade, police revealed. The arrests evidently were made so quickly that no scenes were created.

Twenty Communists returning from a demonstration clashed with police in a suburb of Paris last night and were arrested.

Communists also fired revolver shots into a Clinchy store window displaying an American flag. They too were arrested.

BEARS HEAVIEST TRAFFIC BURDEN

A total of 307,622 persons, or approximately one-half of the population of the city, come downtown every day, it is disclosed in a preliminary report on its traffic survey made public by the Metropolitan Traffic Survey Committee. Of this number, as illustrated in the diagram, 70 per cent travel on street cars, which constitute only 12 per cent of the passenger-carrying vehicles entering the triangle. Automobiles, which make up 87 per cent of the vehicles entering the district, transport only 29 per cent.

Airport Chief Scouts Reckless Flying Here

"If any flier from Rodgers Field ever strikes the Fox Chapel Golf Club flagpole and is killed, I will ask the grand jury to indict officers of the golf club for murder," Capt. Thomas S. Voss, commandant of the field, declared today in further answer to charges by 14 "residents of the Aspinwall community" and golf players that aviators from the field "are endangering the lives of citizens" by reckless flying.

The letter, which members of the City-County Air Board had not received early today, asked that the board "take immediate action to remove the danger to golf players and residents of the community." It referred particularly to Shady Side Academy.

ASSAILS GOLF CLUB HEADS

In his answer, Capt. Voss openly charged that the flagpole was erected a quarter of a mile from the clubhouse, at the edge of the flying field, a year after the establishment of Rodgers Field "for no other purpose than to constitute a hazard to aviators." He termed this "criminal" and declared that in the event any aviator was ever injured, he would swear out informations against the golf club officials.

William C. Jacoby, chairman of the air board, declined to comment on the letter when it was read to him over the telephone, pending receipt of the original from the "committee of citizens." Louis T. Barry, another member of the board, indorsed Capt. Voss' statement, in which the Regular Army officer, in charge of reserve flying officers in the Pittsburgh district, declared that "certain gentlemen with influence are making a determined effort to wreck Rodgers Field because they don't want their golf game disturbed."

CHARGE HAZARDS

Capt. Voss also cited as "deliberate hazards to fliers" the refusal of the golf club officials to allow the removal of a hedge separating the two properties, and their petition to the County Commissioners which, he said he had been informed, will result in the refusal of that body to give the 41 adjoining acres of county property for the enlargement of the field. These two improvements, he declared, would remove "any danger whatsoever," as the fliers then would have ample space to gain altitude before leaving the field "and the only inconvenience would be disturbing the game of certain influential persons."

The letter to the air board, which its writers declared was written "at the request of many other citizens," was signed by William S. Moorhead, George M. Laughlin, Jr., Jerome Hill, Louis Brown, Joseph Dilworth, G. Grier Coolidge, J. Ramsey Speer, Leslie M. Johnson, W. S. Arbuthnot, W. S. McClintock, Donald S. Rodgers, Francis S. Guthrie, F. LeMoyne Page and James Francis Burke.

BOVINE TESTS HERE REDUCE INFECTION

The testing of cattle for tuberculosis, under the area plan, was started yesterday in Richland township. This makes the sixth township in the county in which the test has been applied, Pine, Marshall, Forward, Elizabeth and Franklin townships having been previously tested.

The percentage of infection in Marshall and Pine townships on the initial test revealed that 5 per cent of the cattle were infected, in Forward township 16 per cent, in Elizabeth township 3 per cent, and in Franklin township 15 per cent. As a result of a 90-day retest applied on the infected herds in Marshall, Pine and Forward townships the percentage has been reduced to less than 1 per cent. The 90 day retest on infected herds in Elizabeth township is now being conducted.

Indemnities on tubercular cattle are paid the owners by the state and federal governments, the maximum being $65 on a grade and $120 on a purebred animal.

FRANK & SEDER'S 19th ANNIVERSARY

THE SUN-TELEGRAPH
TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1927

Once-A-Year Celebration, Marking 19 Years of Public Service

Frank & Seder Have Distributed in the Homes of Western Pennsylvania Over 150 MILLION DOLLARS Worth of Merchandise.

Nineteen years ago Frank & Seder opened a small, one-room store. It was on the site of their present big establishment. We wish that we could meet the first customer that crossed the threshold of that little store nineteen years ago. What a change has taken place in those years. While the store was small, the Frank & Seder policy was big and broad in its relation to the public.

Big values, big assortments (in the lines we carried at that time), and big in our service to the customers—these were the factors that made that little store successful almost from the first day it opened its doors.

As the number of customers increased, so we were forced to increase the size of our store. Until the day came when we entered this present big building, which typifies Pittsburgh Progress.

And what we have today, whatever success we have achieved is due to the generous and loyal patronage of the men and women of this community.

So once a year we set aside a certain number of days to celebrate the occasion of our successful adventure in the retail field of Pittsburgh.

We feel very, very appreciative of the public's goodwill, and, in return, we want in some practical way to voice that appreciation. We are considered a very practical store. We care not much for "trimmings." We could give away flowers and engage a band of music and call it an Anniversary Celebration, but we prefer to express our thanks through SAVINGS TO THE CUSTOMER.

The Next Time Your Wife Goes Through Your Pants Pockets She Will Find Some Money

We are sure women will encourage such a condition by recommending to their husbands that they take advantage of the Frank & Seder Ten Payment Budget Buying Plan to purchase their Hart Schaffner & Marx Men's Suits and Overcoats. There isn't a single penny of extra cost direct or indirect. The prices are the same whether you buy for cash or on regular charge or Budget Buying Plan! It's merely an added Frank & Seder service to those men occupying responsible positions who do not always find it convenient to pay cash. A good time to test the value of this Budget Buying Plan is during our Anniversary, when we are offering Hart Schaffner & Marx clothing at substantial savings.

SNAP SHOTS

A boy wearing his first pair of long pants to school feels just like his mother does when she appears for the first time in public with bobbed hair.

Having in mind the financial returns parents are giving serious attention to the question of whether to develop the muscles or the brains of their sons.

If some friend of yours didn't invite you to her party don't let it bother you. We invite you to come to ours on Thursday. It's going to be the biggest one in the town. And you will take home the biggest bargains of the year.

The trouble with most well meaning folk is that their wishbone is where their backbone ought to be. You can't share in this Anniversary Sale by staying away. Then after it's all over and you see the sensational values your neighbors bought, to wish that you had come.

"Good Morning, Colonel!"

"Fine Baseball Weather We Are Having"

Looks very much as if Pittsburgh is in for two big celebrations. One of them will likely take place in October, so everybody will have an opportunity to go to the first one, which begins at Frank & Seder's on Thursday. Nothing like getting everything in ship-shape for the World's Series; then you can go to the games with a free mind and a full voice and root to the point of exhaustion. Gather your family tonight and check off all the merchandise needs for the Fall and Winter. Then plan your affairs to be here on the opening day of our Anniversary, Thursday. You will save enough money on your purchases to buy tickets for the entire family for the seven games (if the series goes to the limit).

HOW MUCH IS YOUR MONEY WORTH TO YOU

Is it worth enough to you to save as much of it as you can? Then buy all the merchandise that you can use for this Fall and Winter, at our Anniversary Sale. Exactly as we are able to get unusual concessions from manufacturers once a year so you are able to obtain unusual concessions from us. Why wait and pay regular prices when by anticipating your wants by a week or two you can save a great deal of money. And the more you buy the more you will save. Arrange your affairs so you can be here on Thursday, the opening day.

A COLLEGE EXAM HASN'T ANYTHING ON OUR STORE COMMITTEE

If you want to see a real examination you should see the way the Frank & Seder Store Committee examines every department buyer's offerings during an Anniversary. A Buyer came before the committee all enthused at the "wonderful bargains" he has, but unless his "bargains" pass a "third degree" examination they are rejected as not being unusual enough for such an event. Every Buyer is cautioned that he is expected to offer advertised items at COST, A LITTLE BELOW COST or a TRIFLE ABOVE COST. And unless he can meet that exacting standard he cannot find place for his offerings in these Anniversary ads.

"Why Don't You Run Your Anniversary for a Month?"

That question is frequently asked us by customers. The answer is that it is impossible for us to buy or sell wanted new merchandise at SO MUCH BELOW REGULAR PRICES for a long period. So we have determined as a result of experience to LESSEN THE NUMBER OF DAYS OF THE ANNIVERSARY and to INCREASE THE VALUE OF THE OFFERINGS.

'Miss Pittsburgh' Will Greet You Thursday!

Charming Miss Milinack will be in our Second Floor apparel departments all day Thursday. Modesty and good looks have combined to make Mary one of the most popular of Pittsburgh's representatives in the annual Beauty Classic at Atlantic City.

You are invited to meet her on Thursday.

HE VALUES THRIFT

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

Mr. Rockefeller has always placed a high value on Thrift. Money to him is a commodity, to be used judiciously. To be spent wisely. His world-wide benefactions are a tribute to his philosophy. If you place the proper value on your dollars you will exchange them for the values that are featured in Frank & Seder's 19th Anniversary, beginning on Thursday.

Here's What We Call Anniversary Bargains!

Some customers want to know what we consider unusual values on such an occasion as this. Of course, it is impossible to enumerate them all, for it would take half a dozen pages in a newspaper. But here are a handful of the thousands which we have picked at random and which will be on sale the opening day. (Read tomorrow night's ads for thousands of others just as sensational).

FOR THE PAST SIX MONTHS OUR BUYERS ASSEMBLE BARGAINS

Once a year manufacturers with whom we do a large business are willing to sell us a limited quantity of merchandise without profit to help us celebrate with BARGAINS. There are so many manufacturers to be seen that it takes months to cover the ground. And the sum total of all these ANNIVERSARY CONTRIBUTIONS amount to A MILLION DOLLARS AT RETAIL. In addition to the savings in our purchases we reduce our own regular small profit to a minimum, which affords another saving to the customer. That is why we offer a million dollars worth of seasonable goods at cost, a little below cost and a trifle above cost.

Depew's Nest Egg, Grown to $1,100, Still Untouched

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—As a rule "nest eggs" are thought of in connection with thrifty, aging couples, or young folks about to be married, and not in connection with such men of affairs as Chauncey M. Depew, the venerable chairman of the New York Central.

In 1861, Mr. Depew revealed today at Briarcliff Lodge, he saved up $100 and deposited it in the Peekskill Savings Bank.

The other day Mr. Depew, hale and hearty, now in his ninety-third year, called at the Peekskill bank to discuss the keystone of his fortune which by now has multiplied, through compound interest, to the substantial sum of $1,100.

That's one example of thrift. Another way to save is to purchase your supply of Fall and Winter merchandise at Frank & Seder's 19th Anniversary at cost, a little below and a trifle above cost.

YOU MAY NOT SEE A KNOCK-OUT IN CHICAGO THURSDAY

But You Will See "Knockouts" in Every Department During Frank & Seder's 19th Anniversary Sale

Pittsburghers who stay home from the Tunney-Dempsey fight on Thursday and come to our Anniversary Sale will save a whole lot of money. We do not want to lapse into pugilistic lingo, but sometimes it is very expressive. We are handling the offerings of our Buyers without gloves; for this occasion they must be able to fight successfully all competition. We have trained over six months for this event and are prepared to go the limit in value-giving.

ECONOMICAL DISTRIBUTION

HENRY FORD

:—:

Mr. Ford's extraordinary success is due to the fact that he always gave the public the biggest value in an automobile at a minimum profit to himself. He would rather sell many cars and make little on each than to sell a few and make much on each. That is the all-year round policy of Frank & Seder—and we are going to give a convincing demonstration of this during our Anniversary Sale which begins Thursday, when we shall distribute, over a period of ten days, a million dollars worth of merchandise at cost, a little below cost and a trifle above cost.

:—:

Sale Starts Thursday Sept. 22

Now Is a Good Time to Open a Charge Account

Just at the beginning of the Fall season, and at a time when substantial savings will be in force on wanted, seasonable merchandise, we suggest that you open a Charge Account. Col. Franklin Blackstone, Credit Manager, Fifth Floor, will be pleased to receive your application.

-:- BUYING POWER -:-

VICTOR SINCERE
President of the National Department Stores

:—:

Economical buying must precede economical selling. Therefore, it is easily understood that with a buying power of a HUNDRED MILLION DOLLAR business great savings are effected in the markets. Frank & Seder is one of the units of the National Department Stores, of which Mr. Victor Sincere is President. This group of stores do an annual retail business of almost a hundred million dollars. And that is another reason why we are able to offer you merchandise during our Anniversary at cost, a little below cost and a trifle above cost.

RUTH ELDER WINS PILOT'S LICENSE

BEAUTY PROVES ABILITY IN PLANE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Ruth Elder, Dixie's girl entry for transatlantic flight honors, held an air pilot's license today after proving to the doubting Thomases that she really could fly.

With a Department of Commerce inspector Miss Elder made three flights at Roosevelt Field and passed tests with a rating of 90 per cent.

SHOWS SKILL

Then to convince observers the winsome southern aviatrix [illegible] climbed 2,000 feet and performed a few aerial acrobatics as proof of her ability.

Later Miss Elder took her plane, the American Girl, up for an instrument test flight with Capt. George Haldeman, a pilot, alternating at the controls.

After instrument tests have been completed, Miss Elder said: "All we wait for is favorable weather and we'll be on our way." Installation and adjustment of additional navigating equipment will delay the start of the American Girl's projected flight to Paris until after tomorrow, it was estimated.

Explaining the details of the flight Haldeman said he had charted three routes and would pick the one offering most favorable winds. The course, he explained, would involve a flight of [illegible] miles, another [illegible] and one [illegible] miles.

The total load of the plane would be [illegible] pounds carrying at least [illegible] gallons of gasoline, Haldeman said.

No Time to Talk Tax Repeal, Says Borah

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—With the national debt nearly $19,000,000,000, and worthwhile projects in Congress calling for large appropriations, this is no time to talk about repealing the Federal estate tax, Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, believes.

In a letter to an inquirer at Spokane, Wash., Senator Borah said that he had received numerous letters asking his views on the proposal to abolish the Federal inheritance levy. He said:

"The propaganda seems to be going in full blast.

"I am opposed to the repeal of the Federal inheritance tax. If it be regarded as you claim it is, as an emergency tax, to my mind the emergency is still here.

"We still have a national debt growing out of the war of some nineteen billion dollars. Upon that we are paying interest annually of some $750,000,000.

"I haven't the exact figures before me, either as to the debt or as to the interest, but the above figures are sufficiently accurate for the purposes of this letter. It seems to me that such figures constitute an emergency as to taxation.

"Furthermore, the ordinary disbursements of the Federal government in 1914 were $700,254,440.00. The ordinary disbursements of the Federal government for last year were something over $3,500,000,000. After all our heroic efforts to reduce expenses and nine years after the war, we have an annual expenditure of five times that of 1914—and under present tendencies, it will never be less."

MAKE LONG TRIP TO SEE LINDY

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—Hotels are crowded with guests from Mexico, Arizona, Nevada and Southern California, here to see Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his arrival from Reno this afternoon. A family of five, who missed the Lindbergh reception at Denver, motored here from the Colorado capital to greet the transatlantic flier.

Schools were closed to give the children an opportunity to welcome Lindbergh.

FAIR OF THE IRON HORSE

THE CENTENARY PAGEANT AND EXHIBITION THAT CELEBRATES 100 YEARS OF RAILROADING

In 1827, just one hundred years ago, the first American railroad was born—in Baltimore.

The first step in that system of transport that has made possible the great commercial growth of the United States—that has welded its far-flung communities into a union—the greatest, richest, most prosperous country in the world.

Therefore, as the birthplace of American transportation, it is fitting that Baltimore should be the scene of this splendid pageant which so dramatically portrays the progress of these ten decades.

Come to Baltimore and bring the family—for this is an exposition such as has never been held before and one that may never be seen again. Historical, educational, vitally interesting to young and old.

It will prove an unforgetable visit—you will see scenes within the memory of scarcely a living man—there will be thrills aplenty. One hundred years of American transportation—even back to the days of the Indians, the stage coach, the canal boat and the Conestoga Wagon.

On a thousand-acre tract, a loop track 6,000 feet long and upon which the pageant will move has been laid down; a grandstand, 800 feet long and seating 12,000 people, erected; for the exhibits a brick-and-steel Hall of Transportation, 502 feet long, constructed; other necessary auxiliary buildings provided. More than a thousand people will be employed in the production.

Pageant moves daily, except Sunday and Monday, at 2:15 P. M. Exhibition open weekdays 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. Sundays 2 P. M. to 5 P. M.

NO ADMISSION CHARGE. Reserved seat tickets—as long as they last—may be had on application to The Centenary Director, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Maryland. There is ample room to accommodate more than 50,000 visitors daily.

Please Specify the Day You Wish to Attend

Special round trip fare $11.90. Tickets sold daily, except Sundays and Mondays, for trains leaving Pittsburgh 12:15 A.M.; and daily, except Saturdays and Sundays, for train leaving Pittsburgh at 10:45 P.M. Good on all regular trains returning. For details apply to Ticket Agent.

Bite yourself an Alphabet

My dear, pretzeleering is so educational

Really, you know, this younger generation is SUCH a problem. Why Junior just simply COULDN'T learn his letters until we PRETZELIZED him. Showed him how to BITE his alphabet. Simply MARVELOUS the progress he's making. You should SEE him spell out:

MAMA

Juniors bite them. Then they eat them. There's no age limit for pretzeleering, particularly if you bite things out of O-So-Guds, made by Uneeda Bakers.

They're crispy, and crunchy, and salty. They're good to eat and good for all who eat them.

Try O-So-Guds with soup, with salad, with cheese. Serve them with tea and iced drinks. Have them handy for between-meal nibbling.

The up-and-coming grocer in your neighborhood has plenty of pretzels made by Uneeda Bakers. Ask him.

The Woman Pays

But Does Not Mind It Now.

For years women have been buying vanishing creams, always hoping and looking forward to finding a cream that would not harm or dry up the skin and clog the pores, a cream that could be used as a powder base without leaving that usual scaly appearance.

And now, after years of patient and scientific research work by an expert chemist, there has been produced a vanishing cream in liquid form, known as Mibalm Liquid Vanishing Cream. A cream that is so different from the solid creams and unlike all liquid creams.

It is healing, soothing and mildly astringent, contains no oils, fat or grease, is snowflake-like in texture, and unequaled as a powder base. One application leaves the skin soft and pearl-like in appearance.

MIBALM LIQUID VANISHING CREAM is snow-white, it is made by the makers of MIBALM, you can buy it at all the leading Drug and Department Stores, you can always get it at May's.

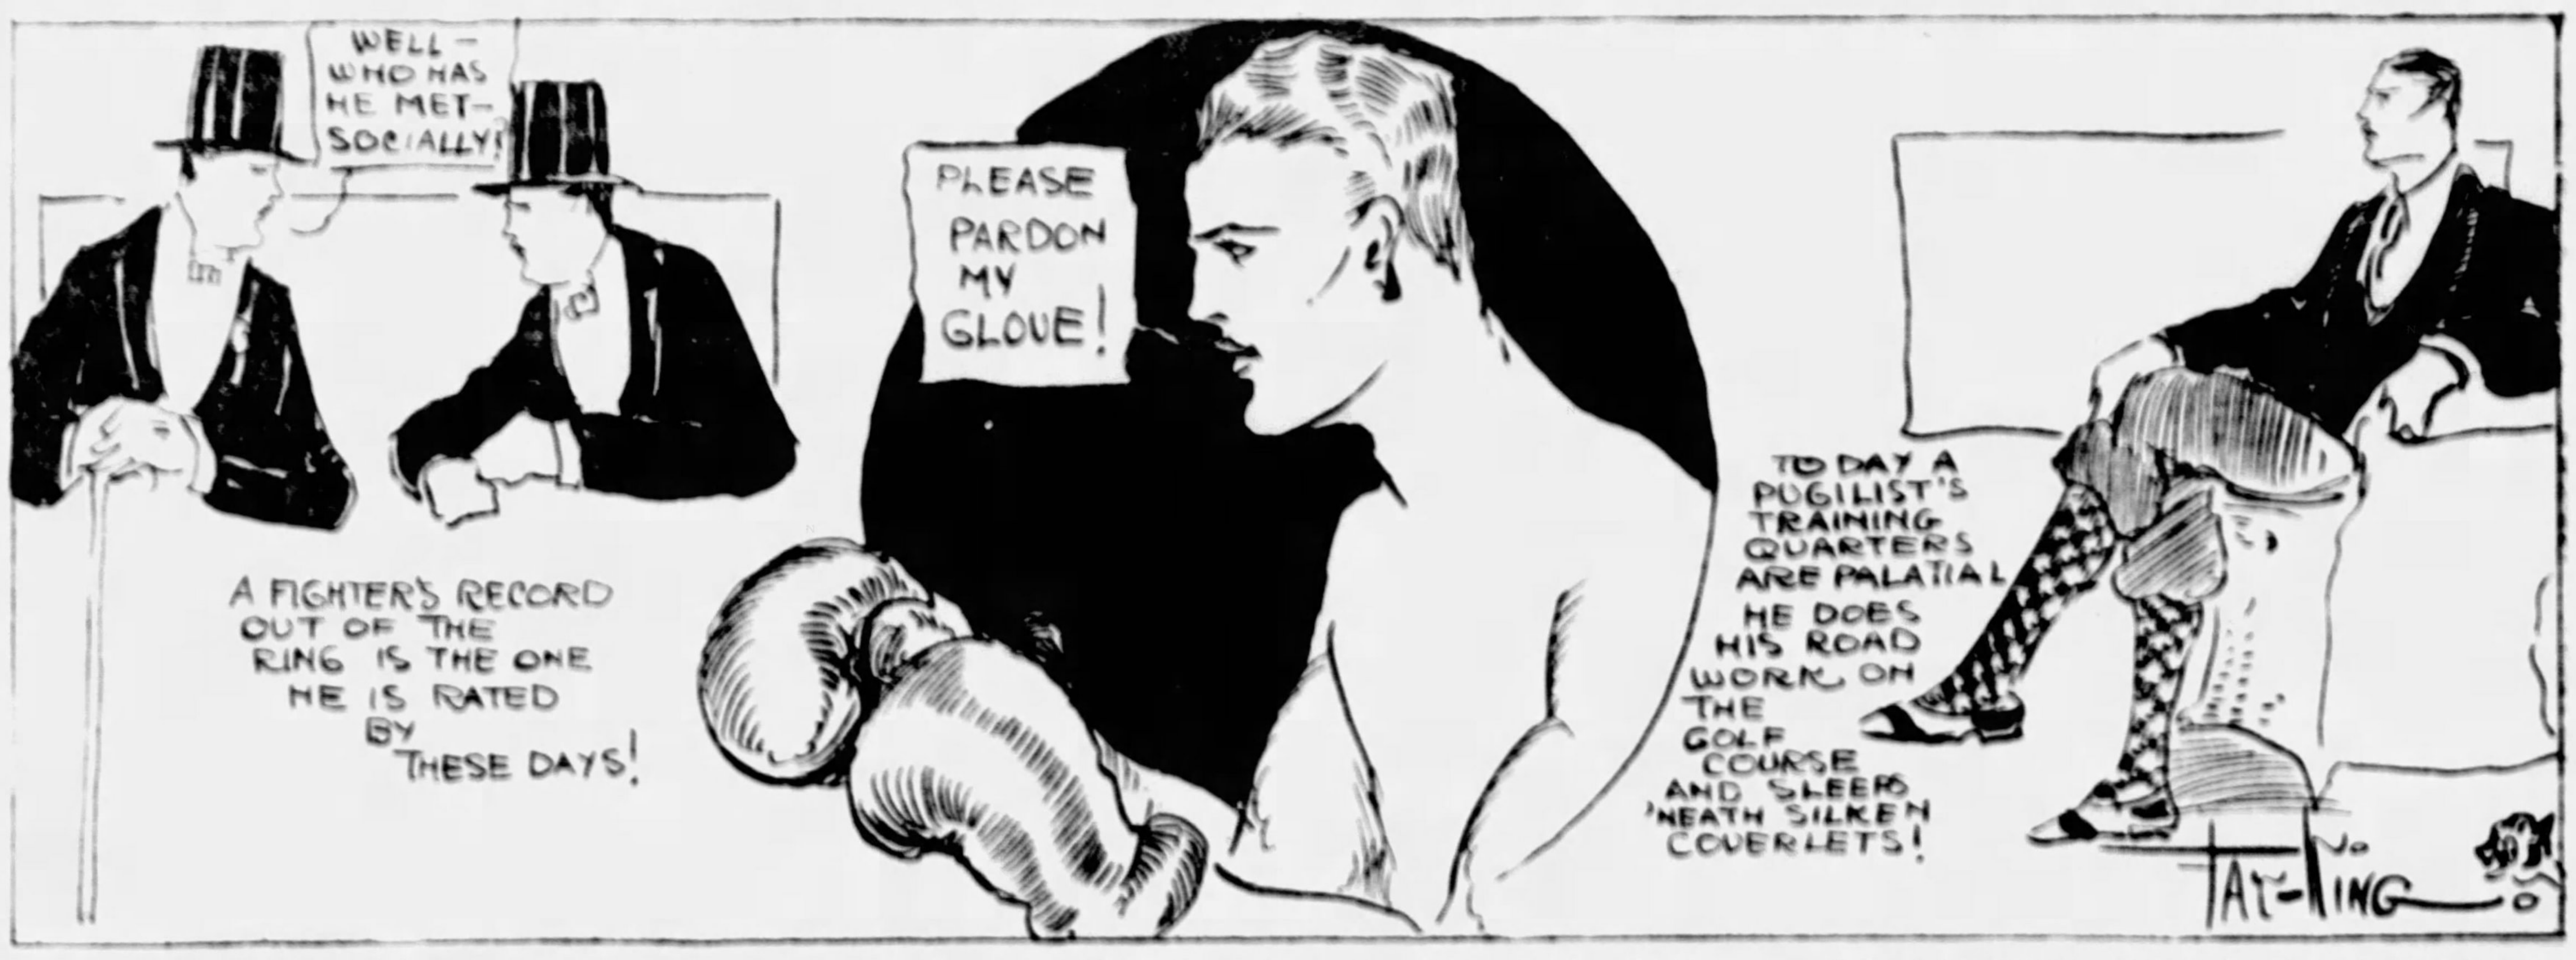
Society's Effect on Fighters Hits Fay King



WELL— WHO HAS HE MET— SOCIALLY!
A FIGHTER'S RECORD OUT OF THE RING IS THE ONE HE IS RATED BY THESE DAYS!
PLEASE PARDON MY GLOVE!
TODAY A PUGILIST'S TRAINING QUARTERS ARE PALATIAL HE DOES HIS ROAD WORK ON THE GOLF COURSE AND SLEEPS 'NEATH SILKEN COVERLETS!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

SINCE Sociology has become akin to society and the prize-fighter has become a best seller instead of a best socker—fights have become annual fashionable gatherings.

Back in the days when a horseshoe in the glove was a trick of the trade they little thought what a golden horseshoe it was going to become in time.

Mothers used to weep when their sons had pugilistic ambitions. It meant he would collect cauliflower ears and end up owning a saloon.

But today mother listens in on the radio to the "beautiful" blows that are landed. She visits the palatial training quarters and sees how the classical features of a fighter are protected by a beauty parlor headgear even when he shadow boxes for fear even his shadow may mar his beauty.

Mother becomes ambitious for her boy to take up boxing. She realizes that in this day he will collect only million dollar checks and break into the swell salons of Society.

The manly art of self-defense has become the art of a "mitt'nee" idol!

Present day "pugs" no longer jog along the road in tattered red sweaters and do 15 fast rounds of real fighting while in training.

Road work is done on the golf course. "Resting" is the most important routine of the training quarters. "Sparring partners" are retained merely as bouncers incognito to keep away any visitors who are not socially prominent enough to be formally introduced.

A fight used to go 45 rounds or more for the title. Now it goes anywhere for the gate.

We used to hear about "win, lose, or draw," in the ring, but now you only hear about "draw" at the box office!

Mind Signals of Warning to Save the Eyes

D[illegible] One [illegible] After all, it [illegible] language [illegible]

DR. COPELAND

[illegible] these [illegible] markable.

Consider the eye for a moment. Here is a [illegible] about an inch in diameter, filling [illegible] the eye-socket. [illegible] movable [illegible] a ball-and-socket joint.

The eyeball is intended to move inward, outward, upward, every way. Its movements are directed by six tiny muscles. These work separately or in teams.

Inside the eyeball are other muscles. One set regulates the size of the pupil, determining the amount of light which shall enter the eye. It acts as a shutter, like the diaphragm of a camera.

Another muscle regulates the thickness of the lens of the eye. This controls the focusing and determines the clearness of the vision.

How many muscles have I mentioned? At least eight or nine.

[illegible] and drive stakes [illegible] all day, you will [illegible] muscle, or perhaps two more muscles. But you use your eyes every waking moment and keep those eight or nine muscles on the jump. Is it any wonder they rebel at times?

If the team work of the muscles is disturbed, or if any muscle becomes weakened or lazy, there will arise a group of uncomfortable symptoms, called eyestrain. As age advances and the elasticity of the eye tissues is lost, it hurts to read or sew. The eyes pain and there is a general sense of discomfort.

All these are symptoms of asthenopia, or eyestrain. The eye may look perfectly normal. Possibly there is slight redness and sensation of itching or burning. A "feeling as of sand in the eyes," is not uncommon.

There may be no pain in the eyeballs, but there is a headache over the eyes, in the forehead, or in the back of the head. Almost any kind of a headache except one on top of the head may be traced to eyestrain.

Twitching of the eyelids, sickness at the stomach and sleeplessness are other signs. You see there are many which may be due to the need of glasses.

Usually the only means of relief is to find a pair of glasses to overcome the defect. It will probably be necessary to wear the glasses all the time. When they are used for reading or other close work the pains disappear.

Don't neglect these warning signals. Have the eyes tested to see what is wrong. After the age of 40 almost everybody needs glasses for close work, but in any event, if you have painful vision, see what is wrong and be advised as to what should be done.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

THE PLU-PERFECT HUSBAND

SOME Englishman is always attempting to be amusing, by denouncing the American husband as a "boob."

* * *

But it is as a husband, that the American man not only "measures up," but shines. He positively scintillates!

He is a BORN husband! No matter how he may struggle against it, it is his destiny to devote his life to some WOMAN!

HELEN ROWLAND

Superficially he may be a wild, young "single-footer," who could never be broken to harness or halter; but, potentially, he is a kind, docile Dobbin, doomed to be driven with a ball of yarn or a bit of baby-ribbon, by any woman who happens to annex him.

* * *

In other countries, husbands have to be "made" out of raw—very raw—material. It is the wife who does the catering and the coddling; who irons out the bachelor-wrinkles, puts patches on her husband's morals and manners, and trims the raw edges off his disposition.

* * *

Over here, husbands come ready-made, fresh from the hands of a spoiled mother and the example of an adoring woman-ridden father.

Nothing to do, but put on the passementerie!

This is perhaps the only country in the world where you can spot a married man at sight. He doesn't have to wear a wedding-ring. His expression, his conversation, his attitude, his clothes, his habits—ALL tell the story.

Where else will you find a husband who will creep out of bed in the morning, take the ice off the dumbwaiter, tiptoe softly into the kitchen, make the coffee and come in bearing his wife's morning cup, her mail, and her cigarets—simply because it "gives her a headache" to get up early?

* * *

But that is not being a "boob," it is being a super-husband! It takes chivalry, unselfishness, generosity, tenderness, manliness and magnificent self-control.

The Great American Husband is NOT a mollycoddle—he is a HERO!

Milady Beautiful

By LOIS LEEDS

New Autumn Coiffures

NEW styles in coiffures are as necessary to milady's happiness as are new shapes in hats.

The variety in coiffures is not so great as that in chapeaux, especially since the bob has become common. Consequently everything that seems new in hairdressing is welcomed.

Two novel ways to part bobbed hair are illustrated in a recent issue of the American Hairdresser and they may be adapted easily to hair that is being allowed to grow or to long hair. In one of these styles the part runs obliquely backward from points above the outer ends of the eyebrows and joins a little below the top of the head behind. The front hair is brushed forward in the manner of a long bang and falls in waves and curls to the eyebrows. The hair below the circular part is all brushed backward with the exception of a short lock that is curled on the cheek in front of the ear. The lower half of the ears with large, single pearl earrings is exposed.

When the back hair is fairly long, it may be divided down the center. Give each strand of the hair a twist near the head and then cross the right strand over to the left side of the head, turn the ends under and pin them firmly. Pin the left-hand strand of hair over on the right side of the center part. Thrust a strong hairpin in at the crossing of the two strands to hold them securely.

A second new way to part the hair begins over the center of the right eyebrow, and dips downward behind and then comes around to the left side in front to a point above the middle of the left eyebrow. The top section of hair is brushed smoothly over the crown of the head to the left and the ends are curled. The hair on each side may be waved and allowed to hang over the ears if it is too short to pull back. If the black hair is long enough it looks charming arranged in two small coils side by side and placed rather low so as to conceal the short, straggling hairs on the nape of the neck.

The first coiffure described above is becoming to girls with high foreheads and rather long, slender faces. The second is suitable for oval or round faces.

New Salt for High Blood Pressure

All who have high blood pressure are urged to try this new salt—for two very important reasons.

Unlike old-time preparations, it contains no sodium chloride (ordinary table salt), to harden the arteries. It contains no sugar, which makes it safe for use in diabetic conditions.

Lithuric Salts is a pure, harmless compound of fruit acids and those healthful salts found in nature's most famous mineral springs. It acts gently but positively on the bowels and liver, assists the kidneys and thus, by promoting activity of all organs of elimination, removes those poisons which have heretofore been absorbed, causing high blood pressure.

Do this, ask your druggist for a large, inexpensive bottle of Lithuric Salts and take it for a week. Then judge for yourself. If you don't feel better—if you're not convinced that this new salt is far better than anything you have ever tried, just get your money back under our guarantee.

Love Scenes Show No Fat

In the Movies slender figures are required, because almost everybody dislikes excess fat. So in every circle. Fat mars beauty, health and vitality. Every modern style calls for slenderness. That is why men and women by the millions have banished overweight.

Some do this by abnormal exercise and diet. Others do it in the easy, pleasant way, in the modern scientific way—with Marmola prescription tablets.

Marmola is based on wide scientific research, on thousands of experiments. It supplies a substance which in the body turns food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. The formula comes in every package, also the reasons for results. This to banish every fear of harm, and to let you know just why fat disappears.

Marmola has been used for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. You can see the results on every hand. Doubtless some of your friends can tell you what it did for them. Now excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was.

Try Marmola, in justice to yourself. Watch the results for a little time, in reduction, in health, in vitality. Stop when you attain the weight desired. Then tell your friends about it. You can do no greater kindness to them if they overweigh.

Order now before you forget it. Few things are more important. Let this test show you the easy, the scientific way to reduce.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Beau Gives Sally An Hour To Get $1,000 For Him; She Visits John Nye and she wondered if she were dreaming or not.

As she stood there, thinking how she had always misjudged him, there came to her the sound of John Nye's office door opening and closing. The sound of his feet going down the corridor.

"All right," she answered slowly. "If you'll lend it to me I'll take it—but I'll pay it all back."

He gave his bitter and wintry smile.

Two months later, when he died of cancer in Bethlehem Hospital, Sally knew what that smile meant.

She understood, then, why he had been so willing to lend her first a hundred dollars and then a thousand. He probably had known then that he was doomed—and earthly riches do not seem important when people reach the place where earthly riches can no longer be put in the bank, or gloated over, or even loaned.

But on that Sunday morning Sally went home, filled with wonder and awe because of the miracle that had just occurred in Mr. Peevey's office—the miracle that had sent her up to his office that morning, in search of John Nye.

On Monday Beauregard Jerome returned the money he had stolen just as quietly as he had taken it away—and nobody but Sally and Mr. Peevey were the wiser.

"Thank heaven it's all over, and I didn't have to tell John Nye the story," thought Sally.

On Saturday Aunt Emily telephoned and asked Sally to bring Ted Sloan out to the "House by the Side of the Road" that night. She wanted to talk to him about buying a little car.

"I'll give you your dinner," she said. "And you can dance, too. I've bought one of those new loud phonograph contraptions. It drives me wild to listen to it. But folks like to dance while they're eating, it seems."

So at 8 o'clock Sally and Ted drove out. There were four automobiles in the yard and the house was full of music and the delicious odor of frying chicken.

"I haven't much business yet, but just wait till I start advertising!" cried Aunt Sally, who was waiting on table herself and apparently having the time of her life.

"See, I waxed the center of the floor and pushed the table out of the way. Now, you two just sit down and eat, and after a while I'll talk to you. I'm too busy now."

The food was delicious, and Aunt Emily had stumbled upon some lively jazz phonograph records.

"I shouldn't be surprised if the old girl cleaned up out here," Ted said, as he and Sally swayed rhythmically about the floor. "This has the 'Blue Lagoon' skun a mile, even if it is a tiny." He was full of food, and, therefore, full of contentment.

Moreover, they had the small floor to themselves. For the other couples sat down to watch him and Sally, who were quite as good as half the professional dancers who live on their grace and agility. He began to "do his stuff."

"Didn't you ever hear of the Savannah Stomp?" he asked Sally, when she stumbled a bit as he swung into a new step that she did not know.

"Show-off!" she called him teasingly, and suddenly she began to shake her shoulders in true Gilda Gray style. "Didn't you ever hear of a Shimmy Black Bottom?"

"Hey, cut it out!" growled Ted, as a man in a far corner of the big dining room began to snap his fingers and grin at her with great appreciation. "Everybody's looking at you."

Aunt Emily appeared in the doorway with a smoking platter of chicken. She stopped dead still, frowned and shook her head warningly.

The man in the corner put two fingers in his mouth and whistled. "Keep 'er up!" he called cheerfully. "Keep 'er up!"

But Sally, horrified, stopped and rushed out into the kitchen.

CHAPTER XLI.

Aunt Emily's new kitchen maid was at the sink, washing lettuce leaves. She turned in surprise as Sally, scarlet-cheeked and panting, burst open the door and dropped onto the nearest chair.

But a second later, when the door swung open again to admit Aunt Emily, she turned her back upon the kitchen and went on washing the lettuce as if nothing else in the world mattered to her but the cleanliness of that lettuce. She had a wholesome fear of her employer.

"What WERE you doing?" Aunt Emily wanted to know, standing before her pretty niece, with her platter of hot chicken still in her hands. "Tell me this minute!"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, September 21

In the busiest hours of this day the planetary government is unimportant, according to astrology.

Early in the morning there is a benefic aspect that is most promising to industry, making for contentment among workers.

There is a fairly good sign for constructive activities and it should be helpful to merchants and manufacturers.

It is forecast that iron and steel interests will profit greatly from world needs, which will increase in the coming winter.

Women should make plans for the coming season while this sway prevails, for there will be many avenues for usefulness opened to them.

Under this direction of the stars both men and women must depend upon themselves for success of any sort, for they will not easily obtain support or assistance.

It is not an auspicious date for those who seek employment, but women probably will be luckier than men.

All the seers appear to think that women are to have a period of tremendous success in the world of business as well as the domain of art.

In dress and in customs, fashion is to change once more in favor of extremely feminine ideals, it is foretold.

Women are to gain fame and fortune in special fields of work that they will make all their own, it is prophesied.

Banks and banking is subject to rather good planetary influences, although there will be revelations of methods of business that are a departure from oldtime standards, astrologers forecast.

Owing to certain astrological influences the greed for money will be stronger even than hitherto and will lead to many crimes, such as forgery.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the prospect of an unusually prosperous year, but it is wise to be circumspect in financial matters.

Children born on this day probably will be prosperous all through their lives. The subjects of this sign like the good things of life and are able to attract them.

Mary Harrison Determines to Tell Philip Veritzen the Truth

To my joyous relief, Mary Harrison did not wait for a second's deliberation before answering my comment that I did not think there was the slightest danger of Philip Veritzen discovering she had been the masked dancer at the night-club if she did not choose to tell him.

The suggestion had been a deliberate testing of the genuineness of her repentance, and I was ashamed of my ruse when I saw her horrified eyes and heard her clear, resolute tones.

"Oh, but I must tell him," she said. "I—I don't blame you, Auntie Madge, for thinking that's just the sort of thing I'd want to do. But I'm through with lies and deceit forever, and if I don't do something terrible to myself like this, I'll never be able to rightabout face."

Her eyes held mine with a queerly tortured look.

"You know," she said, "I've told lies and deceived people all my life since I was a little thing. I can't remember when I didn't do it. There's a wrong streak running through me, I guess, just as Marion Morton couldn't do anything mean or underhanded to save her life. Gosh, how I envy that girl! It must be pretty soft to have things tugging the right way inside your soul, instead of the wrong way."

If I had not known what lay back of her outburst I would have smiled at the slangy clothing of her most serious ideas. But I knew only too well the reason for the "wrong streak," and honored the child for the fine reticence and the loyalty to her dead mother, which forbade her to advance any excuse for herself.

But I knew that I read correctly the note of unconscious wistfulness in her voice as she spoke of Marion Morton, Lillian Underwood's winsome young daughter, who, as Mary had said, "couldn't do anything mean or underhanded to save her life." The child subconsciously—she was too loyal to do it knowingly—was contrasting Marion's mother, wise, tender, four-square, with her own, Elizabeth Harrison, the queer kink in whose soul had led her to pretend that her children were brought up to self-expression and never punished, when in reality the dread of her almost fiendish severity impelled every one of her children to lie in self-defense.

The remembrance of that heritage made my heart very tender toward Mary. That for the sake of her own honesty of spirit she must reveal her deception to Philip Veritzen I knew, and I had little hope of his showing any clemency toward her, although I meant to plead for her as strongly as I dared. But surely there were other avenues to success open to the girl whom Philip Veritzen's trained and fastidious perceptions had hailed as a genius.

I put my arms around her, drew her into my own room and shut the door.

"I want you to forgive me, dear," I said, for I felt that her own honesty demanded equal frankness on my part. "That question was a testing of you, one that I am ashamed now to have made since I have heard your brave answer. I am proud of you, Mary, and from this minute I want you to put away all memories of that past trouble. You have learned your lesson. I am sure that you never can be capable of such an act again. As for your future, don't you realize, my dear, that even if Mr. Veritzen proves adamant—and I confess I'm not very hopeful on that point—he still has pronounced your gifts something unusual. The fact that he has dismissed you will not hinder your getting a chance in some other organization. Your uncle knows theatrical—"

She put up a protesting hand, her face suddenly haggard and drawn.

"Please, Auntie Madge," she said. "I couldn't. I'm like a person who was admitted into the seventh heaven, didn't know how to appreciate it, and ran away. But if I can't get back into that particular one, I couldn't bear to go into any other."

Bobbie

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading about your advice to others for almost a year. I'm wondering what you think of this old "puzzle" of mine.

I have been keeping steady company with her for the past two years. We were on the verge of being engaged, but had one quarrel too many and have broken off to be just friends. I have taken her out twice after that, but all she did was tell me about her new boy friend. Not only that but she calls me up every other night, chats for about a half hour and tells me she'll call again.

What would you advise me to do about her calls? She does not drink or smoke and is not wild about petting.

BOBBIE

She is probably just trying to make you jealous, Bobbie. If you still like her, why not make it up!

DANGER DAYS!

Stored-up energy will increase his chances!

ARE your youngsters fortified against the Danger Days to come? Are their bodies prepared for a battle that may confront them any day? Danger Days are ahead. Preparation days are now.

Danger Days have danger signals. Sniffly noses, sore throats, coated tongues, finicky appetites are nature's signals flashing you a warning that your children's resistance is low — that Danger Days are ahead.

The germs in the air are looking for such signals. They know when to strike. Give your boys and girls the reserve strength to resist — to fight back — to win.

Healthy bodies are safe bodies

Health comes from sunshine, fresh air, sound sleep, vigorous exercise, and above all — nourishing food. The foods your children eat are the building materials of which their growing bodies are made. Healthy bodies cannot be made of poor materials. Active, growing bodies need more than plenty of food! There are Danger Days ahead. They need the right kind of food. It must contain the vital elements for making strong bones, sound teeth, firm flesh, red blood, and worlds of energy for tomorrow. Who knows — tomorrow may be the Danger Day! If any single vital element is missing from the food of boys and girls, no amount of fresh air, exercise or sleep can supply it. What are these vital elements? Where can they be found? Every mother owes it to her children to know.

Whole wheat builds resistance

When nature conceived the grain of wheat, she created a spark of life. She crowded into the whole wheat berry the very food elements essential to life and growth. In Ralston, the whole wheat cereal, children get the things which bodies must have to fortify them against the Danger Days to come — for none of the vital elements of whole wheat have been removed in making Ralston.

Ralston will give your youngsters the calcium and phosphorus for building sturdy bones and hard white teeth — the proteins that will make firm solid flesh — the iron that makes red-blooded boys and girls—carbohydrates for energy—the bran that insures normal elimination—and the vitamins of life and growth.

Let Danger Days come — the Ralston boys and girls will be ready for them!

Use the Danger Days Coupon

We have a most important new booklet for you, that every mother should read. It tells all about Danger Days — how you can recognize them — how you can fortify your boys and girls against them. It is 32 pages fully illustrated. Send for it. It may mean warding off many Danger Days!

The coupon will bring your complimentary copy, and also a unique novelty for the children called the "Magic Blackboard."

Fight Debate Ends in Suicide

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—An argument over the impending Dempsey-Tunney fight was attributed as the cause of the suicide of Mrs. Margaret A. Coale, 20-year-old bride of four months. The woman drank poison after a quarrel with her husband, when he suggested going to Chicago to the bout.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

BURLEIGH GRIMES did not pitch any masterpiece for the Giants yesterday, yet the Minerva manipulator of the spitball was able to record his ninth triumph in a row. Grimes is one of those determined athletes. He can look like a bad pitcher in one game and then jump into action again with many of the marks of a champion.

WHEN Burleigh told this writer early in the season that he liked the McGraw style of handling a ball club the statement might have been taken with a grain of salt. It was stated that the aggressive pitcher would not go very far before he would have a big argument with the Little Napoleon. But the controversy has not yet arisen. At that time Burleigh stated that one was either right or wrong in McGraw's estimation, there being no middle ground.

ACTING MANAGER HORNSBY appears to be keeping a large assortment of temperament well in hand as the Giants parade through the West. On the other hand, the Reds are disappointing many who thought they would hold the Polo Grounders even. They made ten runs the other day and failed to win while six tallies were not sufficient yesterday.

THE starting pitcher used by the Reds against the Giants was not applauded in Pittsburgh. Ray Kolp is only a relief hurler. However, it is probable that there was something wrong with Eppa Rixey, who has not faced the Giants in the present series.

LAST season President Heydler cautioned the various managers to use their best lineups against all flag contenders. It would not be amiss for the president of the league to issue the same instructions at this time.

IF THE Pirates had to be beaten it is just as well that Vance stepped in at the particular time. Dazzy was right up to his best form as he scored his shutout success over the league leaders. Incidentally it might be mentioned that he shot a round of golf on Sunday, the point being that golf on an off day apparently is good for an athlete, especially a pitcher.

Sale Is Far Below Tex's Mark

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(INS.)—With the hour of the Dempsey-Tunney fight approaching, Promoter Tex Rickard was faced today with the likelihood that he will not achieve a "$3,000,000 gate" after all—that the ticket sale, in fact, may not run over $2,500,000.

Many of the 165,000 seats for the spectacle were still unsold this morning and will remain unsold unless there is a sudden pick-up in business. Rickard blames the radio and a premature announcement that all $40 seats had been sold. Radio manufacturers have been advertising advice to fight fans to stay at home and get the fight over the radio and evidently the ads are bringing results. Then, too, Rickard admits his office staff was wrong when they said the $40 seats were all gone.

Jock to Work Panther Hard

By JESS M. CARVER.

CARNEGIE TECH'S football family suffered its first serious accidents of the season during yesterday's practice when Jack Kerr, a varsity halfback candidate of promise, and Joe Nicholson, freshman lineman, were placed on the hospital squad.

Kerr suffered a broken shoulder and will be out of uniform for at least two weeks. Nicholson battered up his ankle and was taken to the hospital, where it was found that the member was broken. He will be lost to the Plebe squad for a month at least.

Coach Waddell plans to let up on the strenuous stuff from now on until the opening of the season with Westminster at Youngstown Saturday. The varsity will be given stiff signal drills daily and will do some work on fundamentals, but no scrimmages are to be indulged in. The freshman will be given some heavy work, but will be permitted to take a slight rest.

Graduate Manager Overend is completing plans for the trek to Youngstown Saturday. A special train will leave the Union Station Saturday morning bearing the Tartan rooters and band, while the varsity will go by special car at 8 o'clock.

JOCK DRILLS PITT

Coach Sutherland is drilling his Golden Panthers twice daily and intends to keep the Pitties busy until Thursday in preparation for the inaugural with Thiel Saturday. Practices are being called for 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m. for both varsity and freshman.

Keen battles are being waged for nearly all the varsity berths. The starting lineup will not be announced until game time Saturday.

LETTER SCANDAL AT PITT

PITT PANTHER TRAINING QUARTERS NEAR SCHENLEY PARK COUNTRY CLUB, OAKLAND, PA., Sept. 20.—Jock Sutherland's University of Pittsburgh football squad was split asunder by a bolt of dissension yesterday afternoon when the dressing room bulletin board carried an extra edition featuring an open letter from Jack (Bullet) Booth, smashing fullback of Sharon, Pa., to Tom (Pug) Parkinson of California (Pennsylvania, not Hollywood), contender for the fullback post on the Panther varsity eleven.

Charging that Parkinson should pay back the $7 he borrowed from him the night of the annual Pitt boat race at Camp Hamilton, Booth flatly accused the challenger of hurling a hot potato at him in the camp mess tent during the dinner hour on Wednesday of last week. The veteran fullback further charged that Parkinson snored in his sleep, a flagrant violation of camping ethics.

Booth also stated that he is not in good physical trim because Parkinson gave him a dose of banana oil, substituting the dangerous potion for his rival's nightly portion of [illegible].

Parkinson, when interviewed late last night, dictated an open reply to Booth's letter as follows:

My Dear Booth:

To decapitate the illuminary of its superfluous redundancy means in crude Sharon lingo to "snuff the candle." Do you think it is sportsman like to throw hot potatoes? I do.

(Signed) PUG.

DEMPSEY

and who permitted Attell to be almost the first one to get into his dressing room after that fight was done.

If I were to do any faking, it would not be an affair which involved Gibson, the man who of late has fallen into the habit of babbling to newspaper men and then, when called for his utterances, promptly yells that he has been "misquoted." The same Gibson, who, when balking photographers who wanted to take newer pictures of Tunney, is reported to have made that gallant and gentlemanly remark:

"If you fellows want pictures go over to Dempsey's camp and take pictures of Dempsey and his wife in love scenes; they need the publicity."

And if I were to do any faking it would not be in a bout in which the chief second was Bronson, who boasts that before our last fight in Philadelphia he said to Tunney:

"Go out and hit that dirty slacker with a right hand."

I've never had to do any faking to win any battle in my lifetime, and if I were planning to lose this one, does any reasoning person think I would do it to help out a trio like that?

THAT SLACKER CHARGE

I have made charges that Bronson was the inspiration for the "draft dodger" charges that were made against me in 1919. I reiterate that now. I said he did it to wreck me in public opinion so that I would be sidetracked and thus get for his "Meal Ticket," Bob Martin, the fight with Georges Carpentier in 1921. And I repeat that.

But the truth is that if I was a slacker or a draft dodger because I was not in a fighting uniform this same Bronson is likewise a slacker and a draft dodger. For Bronson wore no fighting uniform in that war. He boasts about "I was in France during the war." He was in the uniform of the Y. M. C. A. and the perilous work that he performed was mainly that of acting as referee for fights or as a promoter of shows.

Bronson, it seems, was exempted from war duty because of dependents. I was exempted from war duty for the same reason as was Bronson. I had dependents. But the difference between Bronson and myself is that I had about three times as many dependents as he had and that they were not in half as good financial condition when the war broke out as were Bronson's dependents.

SAYS HE CAN WHIP TUNNEY

I think I can whip Gene Tunney on the level in this fight. I'd rather have my brains spattered around the Chicago ring than bargain with him to insure victory. I never won a fight in my life except on merit. And I never will win any other way, even if it meant a million dollars to me.

In view of the feelings I have expressed in this article concerning Tunney, Gibson and Bronson, does anyone think that I'd fake in this fight so as to oblige that trio by losing? Boys, this fight will be on the level.

Another Blow To Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(US.)—There will be no city championship baseball series between the American League White Sox and the National League Cubs, it was announced today by President William Veek, of the Cubs. He gave as the reason that the Cubs have had such a successful season that there would be nothing to gain by the series. The Sox are the present champions, having won from the Cubs last year.

WASH-JEFF WORKOUTS REDUCED BY COACH

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 20.—With the opening of college today, the preliminary training season of the Washington and Jefferson College gridiron athletes has been brought to a close and hereafter only one workout will be held daily.

Head Coach Andy Kerr has started to polish the Wash-Jeff eleven for the first battle of the season in which it will be pitted against the Waynesburg College team, one of the old rivals of the local school.

For the last quarter of a century, Waynesburg has been striving for a victory over W. & J., but has never been able to satisfy that ambition, although its teams have always put up hard fights and furnished some of the most interesting struggles in which students of W. & J. have ever participated.

C. OF C. TO FETE PIRATES

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce will give a luncheon in honor of the Pittsburgh Pirates at noon next Monday in the main dining room of the Chamber of Commerce. Not only will all the members of the team and Manager Bush and President Dreyfuss be present, but there will be a number of speeches, and the officers of the Chamber state that the affair will be held whether the Pirates win the pennant or not.

The officers of the Chamber planned such a luncheon in the team's honor last year, but circumstances compelled its abandonment.

"The Chamber," said Manager Arthur V. [illegible], "is showing this recognition to the Pirates not only because they are a fine ball team, but because they are great advertisers of Pittsburgh." The main dining room of the Chamber of Commerce accommodates 650 persons, and attendance at the Pirate luncheon will be confined to members of the Chamber and their friends. Tickets will have to be secured and orders will be filled strictly in accordance with the rule, first come first served. Applications will be filled strictly in the order of their receipt.

FRED WALKER CHOSEN COACH AT TEXAS U.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 20.—Fred M. Walker, former Williams and Michigan Aggies basketball coach, today was appointed head coach of basketball and assistant football coach at Texas University.

Walker lettered in football and basketball at Chicago University in 1904-06.

In 1917 he coached the undefeated Williams College quintet. He was later with the Michigan Aggies.

He will assume his duties next Monday.

DEMPSEY IS CONFIDENT OF TURNING TABLES

By FRANK G. MENKE.

LINCOLN FIELDS, Ill., Sept. 20.—A race track generally is a place where a man arrives light-hearted and hopeful and leaves with a mess of reverse English tangled up in his system.

But Jack seems to be an exception.

"I'm right," he said, as his training here was concluded. "And I'll win."

Someone commented on the fact that Dempsey had about as many bad days as good days while tuning up for Tunney.

"Well, that's a compliment—and it makes me a whole lot more cheerful to have you say it," smiled Dempsey. "I've always been a punk gymnasium worker. Just about every kid that comes along and watches me do my training gets the idea that I'm soft stuff, easily hit—and that he can ruin me.

"But so far it hasn't been done.

"Usually—according to the good old ringside experts anyway—I have about six bad days for each day wherein I show some fair ability. If you are right about my having as many good days as bad ones—well, then this fight will be a whole lot shorter than I have been figuring."

NEVER SHOWED PUNCH

Dempsey, in his training at Lincoln Fields, never, at any time, showed the murderous punch that always characterized him in his other camps. In explaination, he said:

"Some folks figure that the old sock is gone. Maybe they are right. But I have a trick notion they are wrong. Until I began my training for Sharkey, I always sailed right into the sparring boys and knocked them for a loop. But Leo Flynn and I had a talk about that. We decided that it no longer was vital that I sharpen up my punch or continue testing its power. We decided that it was a waste of time to do that, and that I could benefit myself more by practicing things that I was not so good at.

"So I didn't do much killing at the Saratoga camp, and I have done less of it here. Instead, I have been learning a few little tricks I'll spring on Tunney."

It was pointed out to Dempsey that many persons had become skeptical about his making perfect condition because he had taken so many "vacations" during the month that he was at Lincoln Fields.

"Well, publicly, I took plenty. But every day that I did not work in public, or before the newspapermen, did not mean that I was always loafing. I spent plenty of time trying out a little battle stuff with one or another of my partners, and with only Flynn looking on.

"And, say," added Dempsey, "when I wasn't boxing in public, or wasn't boxing in private, or wasn't wearing boxing gloves at all, that didn't mean that I wasn't getting in shape. I was doing plenty of road work, playing golf, doing some exercises in my room and keeping those muscles tuned all the time.

ANXIOUS TO WIN

"Winning this fight means more to me than accomplishing anything else in the world right now. It means prestige, it means being topnotcher again, it means that—and more. It means I get revenge on Tunney for the beating he gave me in Philadelphia, and it is worth about $1,000,000 to me to get just that."

Dempsey declared that he arrived in Chicago so many weeks before the fight and set up training quarters so early so that he could have all the time that he needed to get into wonderful shape.

"But after several days of roughing it around with the gloves, I found that I did not need so much tough work," he said. "I realized that the condition I had reached for the Sharkey fight was still with me. So I did not risk overtraining, I just went along easily."

Asked as to his views concerning the outcome, he answered:

"I never felt surer of anything in my life. Tunney gave me a bad beating in Philadelphia. By all the laws of the game that should make him stack up as my master. But there were a lot of things about that fight that counted against me. I was not 50 per cent right. I couldn't get going. I couldn't land any solid shots, and I fought a bum fight. I had no battle plan; I just kept on swinging.

"And all the time Tunney was landing. He hit me a couple of hundred punches, I guess. He hit me again and again, with everything he had. He never staggered me. I hit him just about once—in the fourth round—and I had him teetering.

NO LONGER WEAK

"Now this next time we meet, I won't be a sucker for Tunney. I'm not going to run into everything he throws. And I'll be feeling right. I won't have legs full of lead and be weak and sick to my stomach. I'll be in there fighting with two good hands and two good legs.

"I didn't hit Tunney but one real shot that last time. This time I'll land—and I'll land plenty. Tunney could not knock me out in Philadelphia when I was awful. He hasn't a chance of doing it here in Chicago when I will be RIGHT.

"I nearly dropped him with a short left hook in Philadelphia. Here in Chicago, I'll land a whole lot more than one short hook. And, when I do, we'll see just how good this fellow Tunney is at taking it. I doubt he can stand up under a good socking. But I don't think so.

"I'm not so good on this prediction stuff," concluded Dempsey, "but everybody can take a chance at it once in a while. I'll take mine now. And I'm saying that the fight never will go 10 rounds, that one of us is going down and out before the final gong is scheduled to sound.

"And I have a hunch that the somebody won't be me."

FANS REVEL IN CHICAGO'S PEN FIGHT

by JAMES J. LONG

HOW much of the "bitter" feeling between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, as indicated by their recent exchange of letters or notes, actually exists, and how much of it is mere camouflage intended solely to steam up the public and stimulate a possible lagging sale of seats in some sections of the big stadium in Chicago?

Any person familiar with the tricky workings of the big men in the fight game, the subterfuges to which they will resort to steam up interest in a show to "get the money," and the extremes to which they will often go at the last minute to excite the public and increase the receipts, or perhaps change the betting odds, can easily realize that it is within the bounds of possibility, even probability, that the whole thing is nothing but ballyhoo.

IN short, it may not be a poor guess that the fine Italian hand of Tex Rickard is behind it all. It looks a whole lot like one of the wily moves of that master showman and promoter.

Possibly the sale of the cheaper seats, and perhaps of some of the dearer ones, was not up to expectations.

No big fight can be the financial success desired unless it has been properly smoked up, and in this case it appeared that something was lacking and that quick action was necessary.

The eye of a big sport business man like Rickard would immediately detect that there was too much of an appearance of friendliness between Dempsey and Tunney. They were going along training so quietly and saying so little about each other that there was difficult to realize that these two men were soon to meet in a real battle for the heavyweight championship of the world.

THAT isn't what the fight-going public wants. It wants to feel that the opponents are going into the ring with a personal grudge to settle, one that will make them show no mercy to each other when they are in the roped square.

It is the so-called "grudge" fight that always draws best, and even in the small towns the promoters work that stuff to death. The fans fall they were enjoying a lead of three and one-half games over the Giants, with the closing of the season, less than two weeks away.

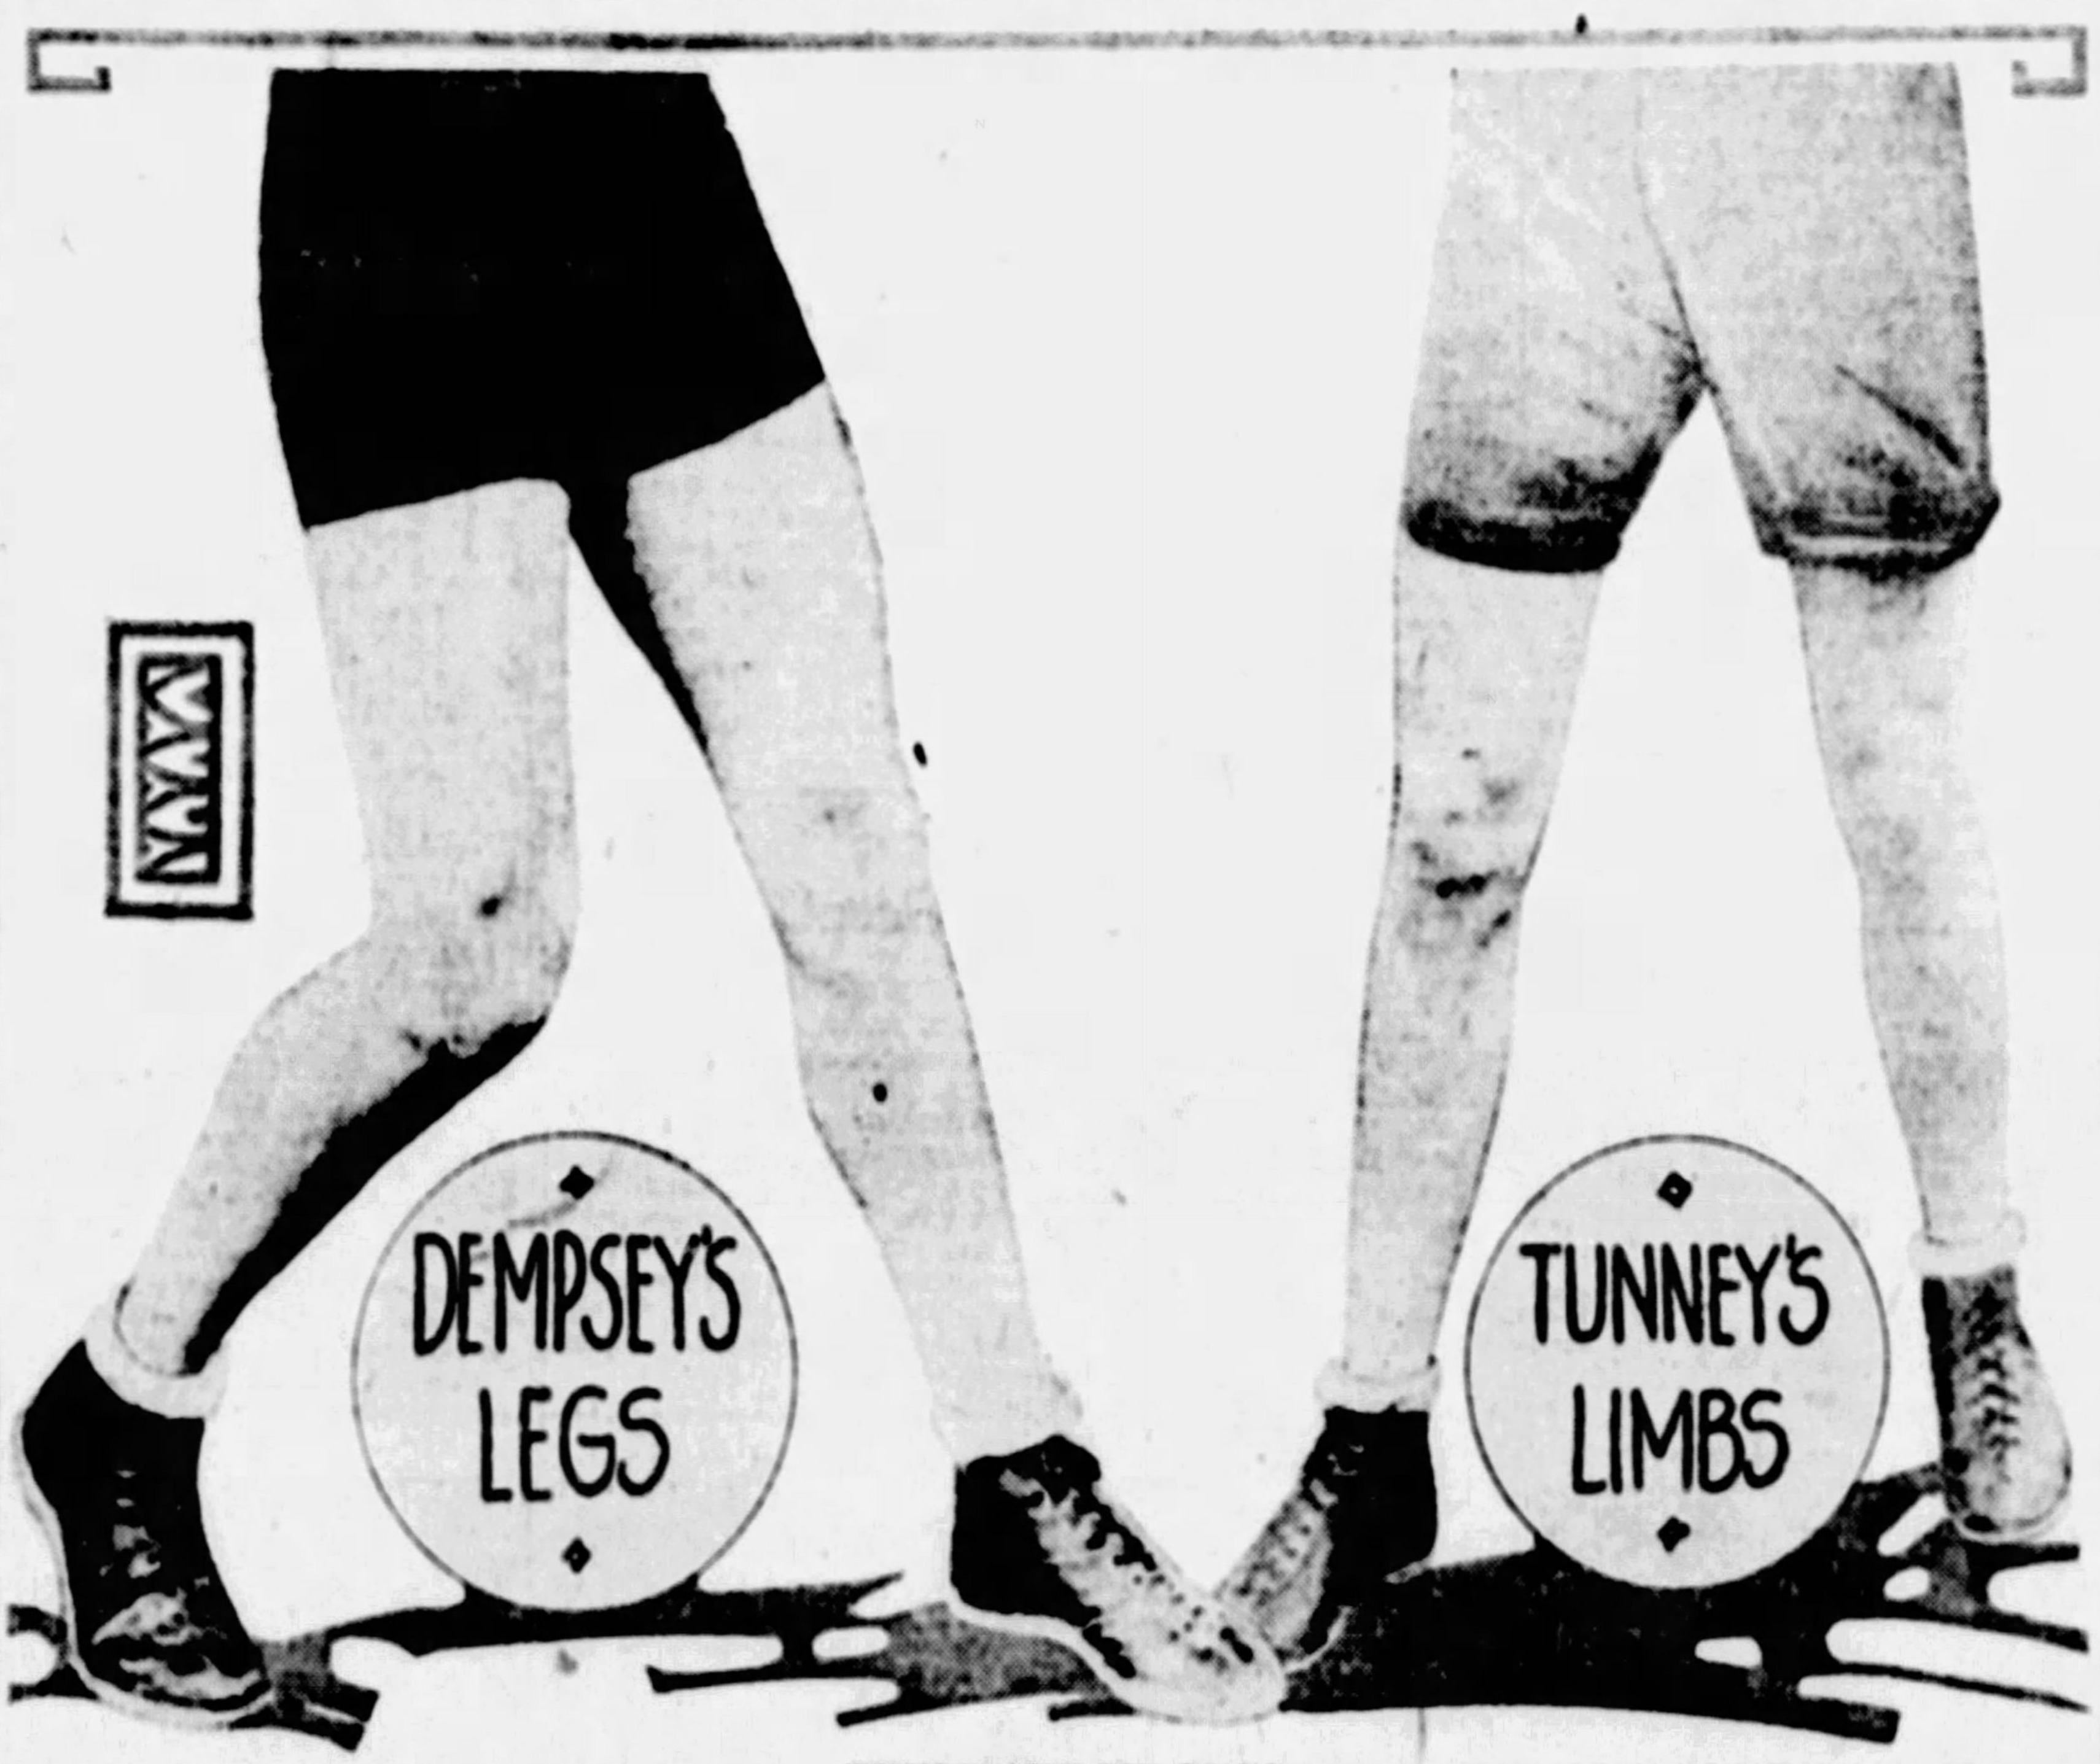
Donie Bush and his players took a logical view of their setback. In the first place they were due to get trimmed, in view of the fact that they had reeled off 11 victori[illegible] row; in the second place, [illegible] should have a tendency [illegible] much of the strain that [illegible] when a club is in a winnin[illegible] and in the third place, Dazzy [illegible] probably had more stuff than any pitcher in the National League as he handed out nine runless rounds to the Bushwhackers.

The Pirates have beaten Vance when he had lots of stuff, but Ol' Daz seldom had more than he displayed from the first to the last inning of yesterday's fight. His speed was jumping through the strike groove and his hook was a terrible thing for any batter. Moreover, his control was fine and he seemed to have a lot of reserve.

Carmen Hill tried hard to turn in another victory. The big boy from Corry was just as good as Vance for five innings, but he wavered just enough in the sixth to see the close battle slip away from him.

But today will find the Pirates in a mood more determined than ever.

SPEAKING OF MILLION DOLLAR LEGS—



THESE ARE MY LEGS.

Say Jack and Gene, and I'll stand or fall on 'em. Legs, critics say, may be of more importance than fists. Legs slowed up by the weight of 32 years are the big "IF" in figuring Jack's victory chances. Gene's have never buckled on him yet—but Thursday's another day.

KECK GIVES "INSIDE" DOPE IN "LETTER" FROM WAR ZONE

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Tele Sports Editor.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Open letters being all the blah these days, what's the matter with writing today's fight narrative in the approved fashion, to-wit:

My Dear Fight Fans:

Before I begin to give the news, I must confess that I didn't go out to see either Gene Tunney or Jack Dempsey at their training camps yesterday, for the reason that they weren't scheduled to do anything hot, anyway, after their final hard public drills of Sunday, and, besides, there was more news in sight right in Chicago, and especially in the lobby of the Morrison Hotel, where all the big wigs of the sport foregathered to discuss the latest suits and counter-suits and mud-slinging and so forth that has served to place the fighters in the background and stimulate the sale of tickets for Tex Rickard. And, in addition, the sports writers' feed was scheduled for 10 p. m., and all the scribes were afraid to go far away for fear of not being able to get back in time. And who wants to miss such a grand and glorious occasion? I trust you will admire my frankness about the matter.

The boys who went out to see Dempsey work Sunday afternoon, and not in the evening, as originally jotted on the program, came back with hefty tales of how great the ex-champion looked as he swatted his sparring partners about only to be met with similar tales from the authors who had been out to Tunney's camp for the champ's final frolic in the midst of the open letter business, so it was a stand-off. Those who hadn't yet gone on record picking the winner chose the fellow, or "feller," as Rickard would say, whom they glimpsed on Sunday. You couldn't tell them anything different.

CONTINUE BALLYHOO

Meanwhile the Dempsey and Tunney camps continued their mad ballyhoo. It seems that this thing has been all wrong from the start. Rickard should have signed the boys for a typewriter battle instead of arranging to have them loaf in trainings camps for a duel with the padded mittens. Dempsey came back yesterday with a reply to Tunney's reply to his letter, in which he paraphrases the noble Gene, asking

Fair Weather Predicted For Bout

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney will enter the ring Thursday night about 10 o'clock, central daylight saving time, Promoter Tex Rickard stated today. The first preliminary bout will be started at 8:15 and the main attraction about 10 unless there are indications of rain in which event Rickard would stage the Dempsey-Tunney fight somewhat earlier.

Indications are that "topcoat weather" will prevail. The thermometer dropped sharply this morning and Forecaster Henry J. Cox is predicting it will be cool, fair and moonless on the night of the fight.

CATCHES PUNCH IN OPTIC

Gene Tunney and his followers are considerably worried by a cut over the Champ's eye, which he sustained a few days ago when an ambitious sparring partner tossed a punch into his optic. HORACE BRAND PRO TOURNEY VICTOR

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

Horace Brand, at present unattached, although one of the finest professionals in Western Pennsylvania, scored superbly over the Shannopin Country Club links yesterday to win the annual 36-hole medal play Spalding professional tournament. Horace scored a 70 in the morning and a 71 in the afternoon for his winning total of 141.

George Underwood of the Alcoma Country Club came through to place second at 144 and Charles (Chuck) Onoretta, unattached, was third with 145. Onoretta scored phenomenal golf in his morning round when he posted a 68, two under par and one above the course record. It gave Horace Brand, the eventual victor, something to shoot at, although he trailed by only two strokes. At the twenty-seventh hole they were all even in strokes, and Horace kept up the good work by finishing well in the lead. Onoretta fell down for a 77.

Walter Loeffler of South Hills was fourth with 148, Charley Manning fifth with 151 and George McBride of the Country Club sixth with 152. Other leading scores included: Jerry Dwyer, 154; Andrew Patrick, Dover, O., 155; Nelson Zimmerman, Westmoreland, 157; Fred Robinson, Hill Crest, 160, and Walter Johnstone, Butler, 163.

Following the golf, the boys were entertained at a banquet.

HOFF-GIBSON COMPACT MERELY A GAMBLE

By HAVEY J. BOYLE.

Jack Dempsey's letter to Gene Tunney implying that he (Dempsey) did not get a square deal from the officials is against Dempsey's previous attitude. Shortly after the bout he admitted he was beaten by a superior man and loudly proclaimed he had no alibi to offer. Even the stories of his alleged illness spread by his friends after the fight was over never met with public confirmation from Dempsey, who preferred at that time the role of good sportsman.

As to the appointment of officials Dempsey said before the fight he was in no way interested in the choice so long as men who were picked would favor neither himself nor his opponent. At that time it will be recalled with the betting 3 to 1 in Dempsey's favor, the general public and most likely Dempsey himself, felt that even Tunney's cousins acting as officials would have no effect on the outcome as it was generally conceded by the fistic experts that the question was not: "Who would win?" but "How long will it take Dempsey to knock Tunney out?"

To show the general state of mind, I might report that an hour before the bout Frank Wiener, chairman of the boxing commission, came to me in a sweat. He had just taken a look at the vast assemblage and he had grown extremely nervous in the thought that with the public spending nearly two million dollars for this fight there was a large chance that the fight might last only a minute, with Dempsey, of course, scoring the victory. There were a few who conceded Tunney an outside chance, but the rank and file of boxing men never gave Tunney a look-in.

NO DEBATE OVER REFEREE

That there was no concern about the appointment of the referee and judges is further shown by the fact that while the seconds of the princi-

Betting on Big Fight Now Is Even Money

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—A flood of Dempsey money rolling in from the four corners of the country has forced the odds down to even money, take your choice in Thursday night's battle on the lake front. There was little Tunney money to be found anywhere in Chicago today. There was $150,000 in three loop offices to be wagered on Dempsey at even money with no takers in sight.

There was also a rush of Dempsey money in New York during the day, according to reports that were received here, forcing the odds there from 8 to 5, with Tunney the favorite to even money. Chicago commission men predicted that Dempsey will be the odds-on favorite before the end of tomorrow's betting.

Herbert G. Shimp, Chicago turfman and sportsman, acting for a group of Kansas City friends, received $50,000 to be wagered on Dempsey. He first tried to get it on at the prevailing odds of 7 to 5, but was unsuccessful. Then he offered it at 6 to 5, and there were no takers. Last night he wasn't able to get even money on it.

ADA MACKENZIE IS 7 AND 5 VICTOR

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Match play began in the national women's golf championship today with a blazing sun beating down on the heads of the contestants.

Miss Ada MacKenzie, the medalist, proved too much for Mrs. E. H. Fitler, of Philadelphia, and ended the match at the thirteenth green, 7 up and 5 to play, in the first match.

After being 1 down at the turn, Miss Virginia Van Wie, hard-hitting Chicago player, came back to win her match with Mrs. B. P. Briggs of the Pelham Country Club, 1 up and 1 to play.

Miss Helen Payson of Portland, Me., eliminated Mrs. Gregory Lifur, California entrant, 4 and 3.

Miss Maureen Orcutt defeated Mrs. Elnera P. Harwood of Chicago, 8 and 6.

The Canadian champion, who won the medal with a 77 yesterday, was not hard pressed in her opening match, although taking 44 for the first nine she led Mrs. Fitler 5 up at the turn, and on the next four holes added two more to her margin to clinch the match.

The cards:

Women's par out	454	345	355	—40
Miss MacKenzie, out	455	655	365	—44
Mrs. Fitler, out	564	735	476	—49
Women's par, in	555	5xx	xxx	—
Miss MacKenzie, in	568	4xx	xxx	—
Mrs. Fitler, in	666	6xx	xxx	—

Miss Orcutt, metropolitan champion, who had a 78 yesterday, was playing even better golf in her match with Mrs. Harwood. Miss Orcutt was 6 up at the end of nine holes, which she covered in two below par, and ended the match on the twelfth green.

The cards:

Miss Orcutt, out	454	534	355	—38
Mrs. Harwood, out	556	555	366	—46

him if he thought he did the sporting thing in mingling with two such fellows as Boo-Boo Hoff and Abe Attel at Philadelphia. It will be remembered that Gene felt a bit hurt when Dempsey cut loose with his first blast and said he did not consider it quite sportsmanlike.

Followed the report that Hoff has delayed court action against Tunney until after the fight, when he will enter suit through the New York courts for the dough he alleges is due him.

However, I get it from no less an authority than Floyd Fitzsimmons, quondam fight promoter and bosom pal of Dempsey, that Boo Boo already has filed action here and that papers will be served on Tunney the moment he steps out of Will county, where his camp is located, and places his tritons on Cook county's soil, wherein Chicago is located.

ENGEL ON TRAIL

George Engel, of Pittsburgh and New York, erstwhile manager of Harry Greb and Frank Klaus, Pittsburghers who won the middleweight championship, also has joined the army of guys who are giving Tunney what is known as the legal razz, having entered suit for $100,000, which is to cover, as I understand it, money due him for professional services, plus enough to pay off his lawyers when and if he gets it. George stopped off in Pittsburgh on his way out here and told me he had a bone to pick with Gene and the latter's manager, Billy Gibson, and that if he didn't get fixed up he planned to sue for what was coming to him. Well, he's gone and done it, and there's little Gene can do about it but let the law take its course.

Then, too, Gene and Jack are scheduled to appear in court today, along with Promoter Rickard, in answer to the Rev. Elmer Williams' suit to prevent curfew from ringing in the Soldier Field ring Thursday night on the ground that "the nawsty" fight is being run for profit. How vulgar? Tex probably will be there, but Jack and Gene probably won't. They can't spare the time from their open letter writing. By the way, Jack is scheduled to dispatch another open letter to Gene today, despite the fact that Rickard, tickled that the box office is beginning to hum again, has taken to publicly deploring the literary tendencies of his two big hitters, and when Rickard deplores, he deplores something awful. And how?

COMMISSION MEETS

The boxing commission also is scheduled to meet today to go over the rules, the use of which it has arranged to lease for the night from the Marquis of Queensberry or Terry Druggan or somebody, and it is expected that a discussion of the referee and the size of the ring also will be brought up. As I wrote the other day, Eddie Purdy of New York already has been named by the champion to act as referee, and it is understood that the champion's prerogative in this connection has been recognized and agreed to. As for the ring, the elastic rules of the commission, as I read them in a copy of its rules book, state that it can be a minimum of 16 feet or a maximum of 20 feet. Dempsey, naturally, is said to be holding out for the least possible running space on the cinder path, while Tunney wants all the leg room he can get, for he announced when he came here that he intended to box Caesar and not fight him. The chances are the fighting space will be the regulation 20 feet inside the ropes, unless Rickard finds it necessary to crowd a few more ringside rows into the arena. He has only 42,000 "ringside" seats now and that is hardly enough.

The gloves already are under lock and key, made to the measurements of the boxers' fists, so the managers are not likely to find anything to kick about regarding them. There will be some sort of a rumpus about bandaging the hands, however. Dempsey and the commission are willing to have the maulies taped in the dressing rooms, with deputies of the ring board looking on, but Manager Billy Gibson for Tunney says nay, nay, Pauline.

They put on the bandages in the ring at Philadelphia last year and that was plenty good enough for Billy, who has murmured some dark things about crowbars and lawn mowers having been in Dempsey's dukes the day he flopped Jess Willard seven times in the first round at Toledo.

TOWN IS WILD

The town is gradually reaching the proper stage of goofiness for the big spectacle. The visiting firemen are arriving in great gobs and the congestion everywhere is getting denser, including that region north of the neck. You'd be surprised how silly some arguments on a big fight can get. Even sillier than that. Beginning today, the room rates at the Loop hotels are being doubled and trebled. My own rate has gone up from $5 a day to $15 and it was all done so painlessly that I found myself walking away from the manager of the hotel after his explanation, thanking him for not throwing me out on the cold flagstones.

It's getting nice and chilly, cool enough to wear topcoats, and, unless the thermometer quits its nose-dive, the fans will have to bundle up the night of the big battle and imagine they're finally getting to see last year's Army-Navy football game in the stadium instead of the fight.

I got the lowdown last night on the relations between Jack Dempsey, who will be here for the fight, ignoring his open letter correspondence for the evening, and Leo Participle Flynn, known as his manager and social secretary. It seems Dempsey has one of those dollar contracts with Flynn, covering the Sharkey and Tunney fights, whereby Flynn acts as his trainer, and not as his manager. In return for such services, Dempsey pays him the stated emolument of one (1) buck, and Tex Rickard foots the real salary. In other words, Rickard is hiring Flynn to train Dempsey to record a repetition of the fine job Dempsey made of handling himself at Atlantic City last year. Flynn was picked out of a list of five or six men for the job. My source of information on this point also is Floyd Fitzsimmons.

Fitz is the bird who had a contract for a Dempsey-Wills fight which he sold to Ben Clements of the Chicago Coliseum Club, who has been suing to stop every Dempsey fight since. Clements gets his name in the papers often. The case is on the docket again for today.

LITTLE WAGERING

Despite the fact that there is a lot of talk about Dempsey being a sentimental favorite and the wise money running for him, I have been unable to learn of any real wagering activity. I have not seen a single bet made, and I asked Frank Moran, former Pittsburgh heavyweight, who has been out here hobnobbing with Dempsey and Tunney and Rickard and the other notables for more than a week, what he had been able to find out along these lines, and he told me his information was the same as mine.

Tunney is being quoted the favorite at odds of 7 and 6 to 5, but only mind bets are being made. If there is any Dempsey money around it will have to make its appearance shortly or forever hold its peace.

I was successful in getting the views on the fight of three wise men of the Chilly City last night and all of them voted for Tunney.

Said Packy McFarland, the former stock yards idol, who was as clever a lightweight as ever drank water out of a bottle in a corner:

"Never bet on a slugger against a good boxer in a short fight. This is a 10-rounder. Tunney is a smart boxer who has beaten Dempsey once and proved it can be done, and he should repeat. He will for my money, anyway."

Tommy Walsh, local manager of boxers, who is internationally famous, said:

"They have been waiting a hundred years for a heavyweight champion to come back and regain his title, and it's never been done. When Tunney is beaten it will be by some of our new young blood, not by a veteran who is a sucker for a straight puncher, which Dempsey is nothing else but."

Jim Mullen, local fight impresario, voiced himself thusly:

"I picked Tunney last year, and I pick him again. It will be a gallop for Gene and he ought to knock out Jack inside of seven rounds. Tunney doesn't get the credit, but he's the best big fellow we've had since Jim Corbett."

Walsh, in picking Tunney to win, also made another point.

"When Dempsey was Dempsey," he said, "he used to train vigorously and ate up big, strong sparring partners like Bill Tate, Martin Burke and others, tearing into them like a tiger. Now he finds welterweights and middleweights all he can handle in his workouts and has to lay off days at a time between workouts. Figure it out for yourself."

SHARKEY PICKS JACK

Jack Sharkey, who lost to Dempsey a couple of months ago, is around "experting" for a Boston newspaper. He was one of the gang who saw Dempsey in Jack's last big workout Sunday and picks Jack to win. Why, he didn't say.

Jim Jeffries, former champ, also is around doing the typewriters' staff. "Don't interview me," is his favorite line. "I'm writing stuff myself."

In checking up on the seating arrangements yesterday, somebody found that it will be possible to squeeze 170,950 seats into the band box park instead of only 161,000 as at first announced. That will mean a few more nickels and dimes for somebody if they sell out, which they probably won't.

Jack Keeps Mouth Open

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Admitting that ball playing seems to have become a lost art between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, and that whatever they do and whatever they did is of very small importance anyhow, all I have to report today is that Jim Mullen, local promoter, says that Dempsey has his mouth open.

The only thing important about this that Mullen also alleges that the reason for the same is that the parrafin, the glucose or whatever it is that he has in his nose, has played him false.

NOSE BOTHERS JACK

Mullen claims that Dempsey's nose has caught up with him. He claims that Dempsey can't engage in any violent exercise without having the nose melt like an ice cream cone.

Of course one has heard the story of Dempsey's nose many times and oft, how it was due to spread all over his countenance in the first minute of play or how the thing would melt under pressure at any time, or none. This, however, is the first expert intimation that the Dempsey nose is not what it might be or should have been or was.

Mullen, who has no interest in the show beyond the fact that he tried to get in and was found out, should have no ulterior designs on the great spectacle that is about to be offered. He would not have objected to being one of the promoters. The point is they did not ask him.

He claims to have noted that Dempsey boxes with his mouth open. He, as a matter of fact, shouted this information after Dempsey took his final workout yesterday. All this time I am admitting that the famous case of the woman scorned has no place with that of the promoter who would like to promote and has nothing to promote.

for it, even when they must often realize that they are being fooled and that it is only a publicity trick.

So something had to be done to make the public look for more of a real scrap than the Dempsey-Tunney situation promised, and it is not at all improbable that Rickard himself worked up the "scathing letter" stunt in order to make the men seem bitter enemies during the last few days before the bout, give the public the impression that something close to manslaughter would be on tap the night of the fight and thus start a rush for tickets where blocks of empty seats had been threatened.

NATURALLY, Dempsey would follow any suggestion from Rickard, not only to help the gate receipts, but because, as many suspect, he is, perhaps, a silent partner and not merely a percentage worker in all of Tex's big Queensberry enterprises in which he takes part.

So some one wrote a letter for Dempsey and Tunney came back with the desired reply.

Probably, the people will fall for it, as they always do. Rickard knows how to stir them up with the right kind of publicity. Promoting is his business and there isn't a trick of the trade that he doesn't know nor can't work like a master.

One thing that those behind the eleventh-hour steam-up have not explained is why Dempsey waited until three days before the fight before asking Tunney about the "Boo Boo" Hoff matter. He has known of it for many weeks.

Probably on Friday we shall be informed that Dempsey has visited Tunney, or Tunney has visited Dempsey, and that the "bitter enemies" are on the best of terms.

AN unusual baseball golf match will be played today on the links of the Edgewood club. The principals will be Outfielder Arnold Statz and Pitcher Dazzy Vance of the Brooklyn club.

It will be an interesting test, not that Vance, though a good golfer, has any chance of beating Statz, as the latter is the best golfer in baseball, but because Statz will undertake the match on a sort of challenge.

Herb Lawson, pro at the Edgewood club, yesterday offered to lay a wager that Statz could not break 75 over the Edgewood course. Statz, as a rule, does not play golf very often during the baseball season, giving most of his time to his diamond work for the Robins, but he promptly took up the challenge in this case and the match with Vance was accordingly arranged for today.

"Jigger" will endeavor to show that the difficulties of the Edgewood course will not prevent him from doing 18 holes in less than 75 strokes.

VANCE threatens to surprise those who think he will be outclassed from the start. Dazzy made an impressive score on the course of the South Hills club Sunday, though he was forced by rain to quit after playing 16 holes. He would have done a big favor to the Pirates and Pittsburgh fans if he had gone out again yesterday and played all afternoon instead of hanging around Forbes Field, shutting out the Buccaneers and breaking their winning streak of 11 straight, the second time this season they have been stopped after winning 11 games in a row. Tony Kaufmann, then with the Cubs, did it first in the morning game here on Memorial Day.

THOUGH Wilbert Robinson was voicing his own original thoughts when he made the suggestion, as published in The Sun-Telegraph yesterday, that the most-valuable-player prize in the National League this year be divided equally between Paul and Lloyd Waner, it develops that a local fan beat him to it.

Grafton Duvall, president of the Pittsburgh Press Club, who attends practically all of the games at Forbes Field, made the same suggestion in a letter to this paper, which was postmarked Saturday, or a day before the interview with Robinson took place. Mr. Duvall's letter follows:

"So it's Paul Waner who should have the most valuable player prize? I'll agree with everyone else—he's worth it and more. But what about the other half of that combination, Lloyd? The thought occurs that the happiest thing to do this year would be to give the prize to 'Waner' and let the brothers split it. What do you say? There is no doubt in my mind that had the Pirates not had the younger brother this year they would not have won or even have been in the thick of the fight. Giving the prize to both would set a precedent and would, no doubt, be received with enthusiasm throughout the country, as both boys are popular everywhere."

She Could Tell By His Garters

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(INS.)—Dempsey's mental attitude was revealed to his wife, Estelle Taylor, in his last fight with Tunney, by his garters. "When Jack weighed in," said Mrs. Dempsey, "he wasn't himself. The pictures showed him weighing in with his garters hanging.

CHICAGO JINX TOWN FOR CHAMPS

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Will Gene Tunney fall a victim to Chicago's jinx on fistic champions when he meets Jack Dempsey in Soldiers' Field here Thursday.

Within less than 18 months two champions have lost their titles in Chicago and a third world's title holder, fighting at catch weights and his royal bonnetnot at stake, suffered a technical knockout. He didn't lose his crown because both he and his opponent were overweight.

Tiger Flowers, middleweight champion, dropped his title to the present king in that division, Mickey Walker, in a bout here.

Rocky Kansas, former lightweight champion, was sent into oblivion by the present diadem-bearer Sammy Mandell, in a Chicago open air show.

Mushy Callahan, Los Angeles boxer, was the fistic king who almost gave up his decorations to Sammy Baker, New Yorker, who fought Callahan here at 144 pounds, two pounds over the junior welterweight limit and thus lost all claims to the "light welter" title thereby, even though he stopped Callahan.

BOYLE

pals at various sessions argued long and loud about such matters as bandaging the hands, the number of seconds in their corners, and such matters, not once did either principal or either of the chief seconds say a word about the probable officials.

The present cloud hovering over the Philadelphia fight was created mainly by Dempsey's inference in his letter to Tunney that an eleventh hour switch in the referee was made, and partly by reference to an agreement that Max Hoff, of Philadelphia, paid $20,000 to Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, for a share in Tunney's earnings should Gene win the title.

Since Dempsey himself admits the referee chosen, Tommy Reilly, was a square fellow, and since it is a positive fact that Reilly was the only one chosen and that no switch was made, it may be interesting to inquire into the Hoff-Tunney-Gibson arrangement which Dempsey looks upon as a very sinister affair.

To appreciate what motivated Billy Gibson to sign away part of Tunney's earnings in consideration of $20,000, an agreement which Hoff himself has shown this writer, the fans must remember once more that prior to the bout no one gave Tunney a chance, not even his manager, Gibson. In getting $20,000 on the then slim chance that Tunney would win the title Gibson doubtless figured he was meeting Santa Claus in the person of Boo Boo Hoff.

The assertion made by Dempsey that Gibson made the Hoff deal with an idea that Hoff was a powerful boxing figure in Philadelphia, strong enough to make dishonest men of the commission and the officials they appointed for that bout, is ridiculous to those who know anything of the boxing affairs of the state.

SIMPLY A WAGER

Hoff, himself, would be the first to deny that his $20,000 dicker had anything to do with his influence in Philadelphia or throughout the state. Hoff, a gambler of nationwide note, simply was betting $20,000 against a share in Tunney that Tunney would win the title. That was all there was to that deal, no matter what sinister face is being put on it now. The implication that there was something mysterious about it comes from the fact that since the bargain was struck, Tunney and Gibson on the one hand, have fallen out with Hoff. Hoff charges them with bad faith in that they repudiated the contract. Hoff had no more idea of what officials were going to work than had a new-born babe.

Hoff, who lost $40,000 on the Dempsey-Sharkey fight, simply picked a winner in the Dempsey-Tunney fight, but was never paid off, and naturally he is peeved at the Tunney camp. It is not easy to comprehend at this date why Gibson was willing to sell a "part of Champion Tunney" for $20,000 at this date in the light of what happened, but if you remember the sentiment before the fight you will realize that the same people who are astounded now at Gibson's deal would have been astounded at what seemed like a foolhardy wager by Max Hoff.

If Gibson and Tunney were foolish enough, as Dempsey intimates, to make a deal with Hoff on the basis that Hoff was in a position to "pull something," then Gibson and Tunney are not the smart fight men they are generally supposed to be, for only casual inquiry would have revealed to him that Hoff's influence with the boxing powers was and is microscopic.

In fact, the sinister aspect of Hoff's $20,000 deal came only after he had not been paid off. Knowing Hoff, I don't believe he ever implied that he could "do anything" with anybody in connection with the big fight. I believe this implication was concocted by the "smart boys" who heard of Hoff's deal. I believe Hoff would be the first to deny publicly that anything but a gamble was involved in his deal with Gibson and Tunney.

Rower Competes Despite Leg Fracture

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(INS.)—Gordon Piercy, No. 4 in the Columbia varsity crew which won the intercollegiate regatta last June at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., went through the four-mile grind with a broken bone in his right foot, it was learned today. At the time it was believed the foot was merely swollen, and medical attention had failed to reveal the trouble until today.

Phillips, Ferry Promise Great Battle

Tug Phillips of Pittsburgh and K. O. Ferry of McKeesport are real ring rivals, and when they clash in half of the double windup of the Majestic club show Thursday evening at the Palisades rink in McKeesport, they are expected to give the fans a real display of ring action.

Rudy Cedar of Tarentum and K. O. Yutze of Meyersdale, the principals in the other half of the windup, are both in fine trim.

Jimmy Delmont of Braddock and Walter Dickerson of California, Pa., will tangle in the second number at 147 pounds.

The first bout will be between Joe Randall of Elizabeth and Ken Hartgrave of New Kensington.

P. A. A. TO GET FIGHT

Radio returns of the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago Thursday night will be received in the gymnasium of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association for the benefit of its members and friends.

FLYNN PICKS JACK TO WIN ON POINTS

By LEO P. FLYNN
Manager of Jack Dempsey.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The public has seen the last of Jack Dempsey until he comes swinging down the aisle at the Memorial Stadium on Thursday night. We closed the doors of our camp last night.

I am pretty sure the boxing writers who witnessed the final workout today were startled by what they saw. I am sure that most of them finally realized that I knew what I was talking about when I said that Dempsey has an excellent chance to regain his championship on points.

Dempsey does not need to knock out Tunney. I have maintained from the start that Jack will go into the ring prepared to outbox Tunney, although he much prefers to make it a fight. I have been ridiculed for saying that Dempsey will be as fast as Tunney, but I noticed there was very little wise cracking on that score from the experts at the camp yesterday. Several of them came to me afterward and said they never dreamed that Dempsey could box the way he did.

Maybe some of them did not appreciate the significance of Dempsey's work against Oak Till. Jack could have stopped Till at any time during their workout. I happen to know that Till used to box with Gene Tunney about a year ago, and I further happen to know that Tunney could never do anything with him. I repeat that Dempsey could have stopped Till within a round yesterday.

Those who are under the impression that Dempsey must win in a punch are due for the surprise of their lives on Thursday night. If he elects to box, Dempsey will be ready for him. If he wants to fight, well, I really can't hope that he will do anything like that. That would be too good to be true. We are prepared for the worst, which is a boxing match.

400,000 Orders for Fords; Car Not Ready; 65,000 Men

By B. C. FORBES

DETROIT, Sept. 20.

"THEY tell me," said Henry Ford in the most matter of fact manner, "that orders have been received for 400,000 of the new car."

Did any other concern in the history of the world ever book $200,000,000 worth of orders for a product not even begun to be made nor even priced? Yet Mr. Ford didn't appear to think that this was anything at all extraordinary.

MR. FORD was much more animated when he made this statement: "We are already employing, though we are not yet under production with the new car, 65,000 men—and the 65,000 are drawing as much pay as the 90,000 used to get.

"You see," he added, "we have employed a lot of very highly skilled men in connection with getting our machinery and tools and other things ready for the new job."

If Ford is already employing in his Detroit plants 65,000 men, how many will he employ when output of the new car gets fully under way?

GENERAL MANAGER SORENSON, while conducting me over the River Rouge plant—now named the Fordson plant—repeatedly drew attention to very important additions to facilities. The company's steel-making and steel-rolling facilities have been greatly expanded, in preparation for the big demand expected for the new Ford.

"We made as many as 9,100 a day of the Model T," Mr. Ford replied to a question. "We should be able to do better than 10,000 a day once we get everything going smoothly. Of course, it will take longer to build the new car, as it is better and bigger in every way; but the stopping of production has given us a chance to put men to work on increasing our facilities."

WHEN we had passed "the fifteenth millionth Ford," now housed among other notable Ford landmarks, I asked:

"How many years do you figure it will take you to reach your fifteenth millionth new car?"

It was obvious that Mr. Ford had not made any calculation. After a little hesitation, he remarked:

"Oh, it shouldn't take us very long—only a few years. Our facilities are very different now from when we started making Model T nineteen years ago."

THERE is one subject on which definite information is not available, namely, the date when number one of the new car will run off the end of the famous moving platform.

When Mr. Sorensen pointed out where the new Fords would make their exit from the plant, I sounded him as to when this event might be expected. He jocularly replied, "The answer is yes." Then he added that he couldn't tell for the very good reason that nobody could tell exactly.

Seeing that final experimentation has not yet been completed, and considering the colossal magnitude of the task of making over practically everything, it will amaze me if the whole machinery can be made ready to function for weeks. However, Mr. Ford has already done things which others were sure were utterly impossible.

Mr. Ford emphasizes that it is not merely a case of getting out finished cars, but that the whole country must be supplied with parts, "so that everybody will be able to get the kind of service we have always believed, from the very start, buyers of our cars should get." Of course, many of the most important parts have been in production for some time. The rapidity with which molten steel is transferred into ingots, from ingots into bars of various length and thickness, and then into finished parts is bewildering.

MR. FORD'S ardent championship of peace was revealed by this remark:

"The automobile has done more than anything else in the world to enable people to get acquainted and to become friends. People in all parts of the country know each other much better than before they could travel around.

"Now the airship is going to make it easy for the people in different countries to get to know one another better. Just think what Lindbergh alone has done in this way.

"It won't be so very long until we have airships capable of making 400 miles an hour, carrying 200 passengers. Crossing to Europe," he added with a smile, "will be a case of merely taking tea on the way."

BUYING ORDERS POUR IN WHILE STOCKS RISE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Buying orders poured into the stock market today as it became evident that the line of least resistance for the moment was upward. Operators for the rise derived much encouragement from the recuperative powers which the list displayed after recent intervals of hectic selling, and the absence of any developments in the business situation to justify further speculative liquidation.

Some concern was manifested for a while at a further stiffening in the rate for day to day monetary accommodations and the calling of some $15,000,000 loans by banks, but when vigorous pool operations began to break out in many new quarters some of the early sellers began to buy back their stocks hurriedly.

Marked buoyancy was exhibited by a number of popular issues, especially among the rubber, oil and public utility groups. Pan-American "B" went up 3 points following the cut in the annual dividend rate from $6 to $4, as it had been freely predicted that payments would be reduced to $3.

General Motors, which had been the storm center of the last session, fluctuated within the comparatively narrow orbit of about 2 points. Chief speculative interest in the motor group appeared to center on such independent shares as Mack Truck and Studebaker.

Prices of a number of industrials and specialties were elevated 3 to 7 points, some of them attaining new peak prices for the year. Various railroads reflected the outlook for increased traffic in later months, notably Chesapeake and Ohio, Western Maryland, Baltimore and Ohio and New York, Ontario and Western.

Acute weakness developed in Pathe Exchange "A" stock, which dropped 5 points to a new low.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Pan American on $4 Basis.

A bullish demonstration in Pan American Petroleum and Transport followed an announcement that directors had placed the stock on a $4 dividend basis as compared with the previous rate of $6 a year. There had been a general expectation in many circles that the payments would be pared down, the only question being as to how big a cut would be ordered. In many quarters the opinion was that a rate of not more than $3 a year would be established, so that the declaration of a quarterly dividend of $1 a share was actually construed as a bullish development. While the company is earning well above the $4 requirements its production in Mexico has been falling steadily for months and the unsettled political situation there has beclouded its future. Pan American B started today at 44⅞ and by noon was up 4 points. High on the issue this year was 61⅛, last January; low was 41⅜, recently established. Mexican Petroleum, 95 per cent owned producing subsidiary of Pan American, declared a dividend of $75 a share. Pan American is controlled by Standard Oil of Indiana which took it over from the Doheny interests about a year ago.

Venezuela Passes Mexico.

Venezuela in July for the first time passed Mexico in the volume of crude oil produced. Complete figures for August show the South American country has maintained its position established the previous month. With developed production in Venezuela far in excess of capacity of lake tankers to move it, and with Mexico's yield definitely on a down grade, due largely to political conditions, Venezuela appears likely this year to become the third largest oil producing country in the world. It will be exceeded only by the United States and Russia, although the figures for the latter country are largely estimates.

D. & R. G. 5 Per Cents.

The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad directors failed to declare any interest payment on the general mortgage 5 per cent bonds. Inasmuch as interest must be declared before October 1 for payment November 1, observers believe there is little likelihood of any action being taken until spring. NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP).—Activity and strength of the Mobile and Ohio 4½s, traded in on a "when issued" basis, featured an otherwise dull bond market today. This issue, influenced by rather heavy buying, moved up about a point to 97⅞ for the first time and later dropped back to [illegible] up fractionally from yesterday's closing price. The Mobile and Ohio is a subsidiary of the Southern Railway.

Firm tendencies were exhibited in the market as a whole but advances in the main were limited to small fractions. International Paper convertible 6s advanced slightly on a fair volume. [illegible] were in supply after the demand of the past few days and reacted a little.

Foreign issues were dull and featureless. Italian [illegible] advanced but the movement appeared rather sluggish. French and Belgian bonds, which have been rather active in recent sessions, receded a little.

United States Government obligations were quiet but firm.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP).—Many of the leading stocks on the Curb Exchange showed a firmer tone today and some issues displayed strength, but trading was in decreased volume and few even of the recently active specialties moved over a wide range. A good part of the strength was due to efforts to recover stocks sold in the period of weakness Monday, but advances were not carried over an extensive range and many stocks reacted as soon as gains were established. Procter and Gamble was one of the few strong issues, moving up over 4 points to above 214 and Canada Cement advanced 58 points to 240 on the sale of 11 shares.

Utilities were in increased demand but movements in these stocks were also narrow. American Gas and Electric advanced over 2 points to 117 and American Light and Traction and American Superpower "A" both rose over a point. There was heavy trading in United Light and Power in a fractional range and Northern Ohio Power was also heavily traded, on a fractional advance.

Bancitaly Corporation, which sold as low as 10⅛ in yesterday's unsettled trading and rallied before the close, moved up over a point to 11⅞. Celanese Corporation of America was firm in tone all through the day, first advancing more than a point to 101⅞ and then dropping to 101. Celluloid Company, new, rallied 6¾ points after yesterday's break. General Baking A, which was ex-dividend of 1¼, recovered the dividend and made an additional fractional gain. Chain stores were comparatively quiet and without material change.

Gillette Safety Razor was again strong, moving up over 1½ points. Johns Manville advanced over 2 points and New York Central, new stock, rallied over a point following yesterday's decline.

There was little feature to the oil stocks.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—No sales were reported in the raw sugar market early today, but the undertone was easier and sugars were available at concessions of 1-32c, or on the basis of 4.83c.

Raw sugar futures were easier under liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections, due to the easier London market, the inactivity in the spot market and to private advices from Cuba intimating that opposition to the proposed restriction of the coming crop was more pronounced. Stop-loss orders were uncovered on the decline, with prices at one time showing net losses of 4 to 6 points, but after their execution a partial rally followed on covering, with the market at midday 2 to 5 points net lower.

No increase was reported in new buying of refined sugar, although withdrawals on old contracts were of fair proportions. Prices were unchanged at 5.90 to 6.10c for fine granulated.

Local Market Quiet Prices Steady

Price movements on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange were narrow in scope today with the main list evincing no inclination to break out of the trading limits to which it has held for a week or more. The recently active industrials were slow in getting started, and bids during the first half of the session were practically unchanged from the quotations prevailing at the close last night.

In the fuel division the offering prices were at or a little above the previous sales figures but demand was rather indifferent and volume of trading in this section was light.

Among the specialties, a small net decline in Consolidated Ice preferred was noted but the supply of the stock seemed limited. Friends of Consolidated have been waiting patiently for a move in the stock, basing their hopes on merger developments, of which there have been several rumors for the past few months. A consolidation of ice companies in the Cleveland area a short time ago was expected to bring the local situation forward, but, so far, there has been no intimation of a pending merger from official sources.

Westinghouse Air Brake new stock was handled in small volume, but there was sufficient demand to maintain the price at a slight fraction above Monday's close. Standard Sanitary was unchanged at the start, but improved fractionally in later dealings.

Lone Star Gas, selling ex-dividend, was steady at 48, as compared with last night's closing sale at 49½. Dealings in the stock were on a light scale, but it held firm throughout the session. Oklahoma Gas was quiet and unchanged.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Liquidation and southern selling were renewed in the cotton market at the opening today, influenced by a favorable view of the weather news and lower Liverpool cables. First prices were easy at declines of 15 to 24 points, [illegible]

PAN-AMERICAN DIVIDEND CUT

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP).—The annual dividend rate on the common and class "B" stocks of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company was reduced from $6 to $4 a share today when directors declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on each of the stocks.

Each of the stocks has a par value of $50 a share, making the new dividend rate on the basis of $8 annually against $12 previously. Both payments are due October 20 to stockholders of record September 30. The reduction is smaller than had been expected in some speculative quarters, where predictions were made that the annual rate would be cut in half.

A cash distribution of $75 a share also was declared by the Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd., on the common stock, out of surplus in addition to the regular quarterly dividends of $3 on the common and $2 on the preferred, payable October 20. About 98.4 per cent of the common and preferred stocks of Mexican Petroleum is owned by Pan-American Petroleum and Transport. The payment to the public out of the $75 distribution amounts to only about $163,000. The amount accruing to Pan-American Petroleum already has been taken up in the inter-company accounts.

Remember you can earn at least $40 for your spare time work during the evenings, and we will show you how to do this EXTREMELY SIMPLE work and make you understand thoroughly before you start. WORK WILL NOT CONFLICT WITH PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. NO SELLING. NO SCHOOLING. NO INSTRUCTION COURSES. These positions can be filled during spare hours (during the evenings) of housewives, teachers, nurses, business ladies and office workers. ABSOLUTELY NO EXPERIENCE REQUIRED. Full time positions can be arranged for those unemployed and those desiring permanent work. FINANCIAL CO-OPERATION GIVEN. This is not "just another ad," but a responsible, well known Pittsburgh firm offering real, dignified employment. Positions (part time or permanent) are extremely simple, in pleasant surroundings, and most congenial atmosphere. Do not confuse this ad with others of similar wording, for YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING. This is genuine. Every ambitious person in the city of Pittsburgh would be anxious to procure this employment if she only knew the facts. YOU WILL EARN THE MOMENT YOU START work and we will make you understand and know you can do the work before we ask you to start. Don't be misled and don't waste your time on "wild goose chases." This is an unusual opportunity. Come and get the facts. Applicants must be white and over 25 years of age. Every one will be given utmost consideration. This is not a chance, but A REAL OPPORTUNITY. This ad will appear until Tuesday evening only, and none will be considered after Tuesday evening.

Apply Tuesday evening, September 20th, at 8:30 o'clock, Room 601, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BLDG., Seventh ave. and Smithfield st.

NOTICE—Our business is becoming so heavy that we have decided to open a new department. Scores of new applicants have been given employment during the evening after business hours. Many of our employes who are employed otherwise during the daytime, have bought new cars and have opened new bank accounts as a result of this wonderful extra income opportunity. Make up your mind now to answer this ad promptly for this opportunity will not last long. MONEY during the summer months. A BANK ACCOUNT. REMEMBER, THE TIME TO APPLY IS 8:30 O'CLOCK, DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME, TUESDAY EVENING ONLY. Now, if you really desire to own a REAL BANK ACCOUNT, DON'T MISS THIS. Do not answer this ad unless you are really sincere and anxious to earn an EXTRA WEEKLY INCOME during the summer months. "A hint to the wise is sufficient." Be guided accordingly.

We will receive no applications after 8:30 o'clock (daylight saving time) Tuesday evening, so make up your mind NOW to answer on time. REGARDLESS OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT EVERY ONE WILL BE GIVEN FULLEST CONSIDERATION AT THE ABOVE TIME.

Don't let HOT WEATHER keep you from financial independence. TEAR OUT THIS AD NOW AND BE ON TIME.

COOK-COOS

by Ted Cook

(Copyright, 1927)

It is a fine thing, no doubt—the policy of the Pasadena Playhouse to engage only ushers who have dramatic ability, so they may "learn the theater from the front."

Supposing you can't find your ticket stubs—they are absentmindedly stuck into vest pocket.

The usher—a student of Eugene O'Neill—shouts:

"Will you never wake until the end of time?"

(A terrible groan tears from his breast.)

"Tell me if you have lied!"

(Harshly.)

"I must have certainly, be it of faith or despair!"

(Hectically—goading himself to action.)

"You stand between me and Life!"

(He breaks off, turning distrustful, harried eyes on your wife.)

"Quick . . . Sleep seems humming in your ears."

(You find the stubs. He runs swiftly down the aisle.)

"Here is the answer to your riddle! First two seats on the aisle."

(To himself.)

"The ghosts are gone."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Emb. Mom. Editor—

I am employed by the city to superintend street repairs, and if I do say it myself, I take considerable pride in my work. Recently I offered to take several city officials on a tour of inspection. Imagine my embarrassment, when, on turning down a neglected side street, I found almost a block of newly laid pavement that had not been torn up.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

One's books should be pleasant, like one's friends.

MAURINE LOSES ROY

Fate Gives Heroine Another Thumping Kick.

Maurine flickered for weeks "while a flock of ghostly thoughts, like phantom birds, flit (or flat) through the chambers of her heart*, or perched with folded wings, silently, upon the voiceless strings, that once resounded to Hope's happy days."

She certainly was feeling low, and "so passed the ever-changing April days, when May came, lightsome footed o'er the lea." Maurine "turned her wan face toward the sea." Accompanied by Aunt Ruth and Roy, her cos, she went to Europe.

She—

". . . made the world her college
And gained the grand epitome of knowledge."

While—

". . . Roy
Lingered in Scotland with his newfound joy,
A dainty little lassie, Grace Kildare,
With health and vim and flossy flaxen hair."

So now we leave Maurine sitting at the window, while her tears sputter the pavement below, and run in rivulets down to the sea. But, come woe on woe, Maurine still smiles behind the mist.

*Fancy writin', we calls it.

BUGS BAER Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.

If you have ever lived next door to a turkey who borrowed your best parlor chairs you can appreciate the neighborly qualities of Tex Rickard. Tex has borrowed 42,000 chairs in Chicago and calls them ringside seats.

He has planted them on the shores of Lake Michigan and will be the first farmer to harvest a crop of chairs. Each seed means a forty dollar blossom and the total will be a bundle of $1,680,000.

That sum is enough to make a cash register play the Chimes of Normandy without the aid of a human finger. There are also 140,000 other seats, but the ringside perches are the gravy dishes.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

We counted the rows of ringside divans and there are 241 of them, 137 to the right of the ring and 104 to the left. The mourners in the last row pay the same price as the boys in front.

Tex seems to be the first promoter to discover that all Americans are equal. Also that we are worth more sitting down than we are standing up. But the frog-eyed fans in the one hundred and thirty-seventh row are going to find out that forty shells is a lot of wampum to pay for a non-resident membership.

We went through the works on Saturday afternoon with Cap Stillman, who has charge of Tex's seating arrangements. Stillman will be the most important man in Chicago on Thursday night. He is the man who doubled the seating capacity of Madison Square Garden through the medium of courtesy.

The question naturally arises as to when a ringside seat stops ringing. It is generally accepted that the first twenty rows are the preferred battle thrones.

But when you get back to the 137th row you are further away from the action than the Kaiser was from the battle of Verdun.

Nevertheless, Tex has solved the problem of accommodating his friends with ringside seats. Everybody wants a ringside plank and Tex kept building them until he ran out of numbers.

Outside of that, the seating arrangements are perfect. No matter where you are sitting, you get a perfect view of the back of your neighbor's neck. The best way to do is to take a tattoed man with you and enjoy the evening looking at the pictures.

And just for a laugh, the commission has ordered that no pop bottles can be sold to the consulting surgeons in the five dollar clinic. These finif seats are 780 feet away from the ring.

The commission wants to stop the tossing of pop bottles at the referee. Now, 780 feet is a long throw in any league. You couldn't telegraph flowers that far.

Even a duel with cannons at that distance would be cowardly.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "WOMEN'S LIPS."

When it comes to
A WOMAN'S LIPS,
It seems YOUNG girls
Give KISSES,
But older girls give ADVICE, The first suggests
A pretty WARM,
The second a pretty COLD,
Proposition, But one
Can't ALWAYS tell.
Good ADVICE often comes from A KIND HEART, and sometimes
Kisses are given by COLD
And calculating NATURES,
It depends on the LADY'S State of MIND,
At eighteen the kisses of
Some PRETTY GIRLS are
At a premium, whilst
At twenty-eight there is PRACTICALLY
No DEMAND,
Most men like YOUNG lips,
Though not ALL of them—
TRUST them,
Women's KISSES are strange
Things anyway, Their Value is always going UP—
Or DOWN, They seldom Remain at PAR, And both
The STOCK and the INTEREST seem to increase
With CIRCULATION,

Tariff War Threat Must Not Disturb Protective Policy

President Coolidge is not likely to break down the American protective tariff because France threatens us with a "tariff war." In maintaining the tariff, the President will satisfy Democrats as well as Republicans. The tariff protecting American labor is no longer a political question. It is a NATIONAL policy.

The American tariff is the fairest in the world. We make no reductions allowing the goods of one country to come into our markets cheaper than the goods of another country. We have a single rate that applies to all countries. EVERY nation is a "most favored nation" at American customs offices.

In return for this treatment, we are given "most favored nation" treatment in the markets of every important country in the world excepting France. That is, although many of these nations have "bargaining tariffs," with different rates for the same article, they allow us their lowest rates on all articles.

France is setting out to fight us. She is putting into effect a new tariff which levies on any American goods a duty FOUR TIMES as large as is levied on the same goods from Great Britain and Germany. France says she will remove this discrimination only if we break down our tariff system and make a special reduction on goods that France wants to send us.

If we gave these reductions to France, we should immediately have to give them to all countries with which we have "most favored nation" commercial treaties. That is, France wants us to MAKE A BREACH IN THE TARIFF WALL which protects American labor.

In threatening this "tariff war," the French overlooked a little provision in our tariff law. That provision empowers the President to levy an additional 50 per cent duty, and even place an embargo, upon imports from any country which discriminates against our trade. There is no reason why the President should not frankly tell France that, if she persists in her course of shutting out American trade, he will proceed to shut out French trade.

Even if the law allowed it, we have no cause to make special concessions to France, which refuses to agree to pay even 50 cents on the dollar of her honorable war debt to us.

When this country gets ready to revise its tariff, it will probably do so of its own accord and in its own way. It is not likely to make the revision under threat of commercial warfare by a foreign power. If France wants a tariff war, she can probably have it.

The Earthquake OBEYS NATURE'S LAW.

ORTHODOX GREEK CHURCH RUINED BY THE EARTHQUAKE IN JERUSALEM

You have read about the disastrous earthquake in Palestine damaging or destroying many of the ancient monuments in Jerusalem, including the most sacred monuments.

The photographs of this great disaster, greatest that has visited the Holy Land in many years, show strange sights, families camping out on the Mount of Olives with their children, cooking on bonfires, in the background gigantic olive trees dating far back into history.

One photograph shows the houses of Arabs wiped out by a landslide that the earthquake caused. Another shows a place where the River Jordan has changed its course, forming a new island after the earthquake.

Banks of the river falling in, when the earth shook, caused the change in the Jordan's course.

This picture illustrates the fact that the laws of nature, established by the Ruler of the universe, works without showing preference for anything, for churches or stables, for the wicked man's palace or the righteous man's hut.

The photograph shows the Orthodox Greek Church of St. John's completely wrecked by the earthquake. Priests of the Orthodox Greek Church can be seen standing before the building.

If this church and no other had been damaged, it might and probably would have been said by those of other religious denominations that the Lord wished to rebuke the Orthodox Greek Church and show that it is not the genuine church by shaking down the fine building.

But, fortunately for common sense and general humility, buildings of all the various faiths were more or less damaged, and no opportunity was given for one sect to claim that the Lord had protected it while damaging the others.

Conditions are more civilized in Jerusalem than they were some years ago, when soldiers of the Turkish Sultan, who then ruled in Jerusalem, had hard work to keep the various kinds of "Christians" from tearing one another to pieces.

They came from all over Europe, from Russia and from Greece. Each thought his religion the only genuine religion, and foolishly imagined that God cared for nobody but himself; that he alone knew exactly what God wanted.

Often celebrating their holy days in sacred places, these Christians of assorted kinds fell to fighting one another so fiercely that they forgot all about the humble Founder of Christianity, that it was all the pagan Turkish soldiers could do to keep them from destroying one another.

Those thus destroyed, barbarians disguised as Christians, probably learned a lesson of humility from this IMPARTIAL earthquake, which shook down buildings of all religious kinds "regardless."

Garrett P Serviss Says:

What Is Space?

"I have been reading your articles and find them great. Now please write an article on Space. If Space is a million miles deep, and treble this a few million times, does Space still go on?"—James McHale.

IN MATHEMATICS we find the idea of a limit which can always be approached but is never attained. That is "infinity." In some of their operations mathematicians deal with various orders of infinity, as if there could be a little infinity, a big infinity and an infinite infinity. Also, in mathematics, infinity both swells and contracts—i. e., there is infinite greatness and infinite littleness.

"See me grow," says Infinity;

"I can keep that up endlessly. When my head hits the highest star I shall have only just begun."

"But, see me shrink," also says Infinity. "I can keep going that way, too, forever. When I am as small as an electron I have only begun to get little. When I choose the electron can be greater than the universe to me, and also when I choose the universe can be to me minuter than an electron."

These ideas of large and small, and of larger and smaller, are devices by means of which man's mind tries to grasp indirectly what it cannot conceive directly. The ideas apply to both space and time. Eternity is the analogue of infinity. Time may be infinitely long or infinitely short. I have never met anyone who said he could form a clear conception of either a beginning or an end of either time or space. The constitution of the mind is such that as soon as the idea of beginning or ending is presented to it it becomes aware of a background consisting of "before" or "after."

In the case of things that are capable of changing their form or constitution there is no difficulty here, but we can only conceive of space and time as invariable in their nature and form, consequently to satisfy the inherent tendency of the mind to reject the idea of absolute annihilation we think of space and time as having neither beginning nor end.

Einstein teaches that there is no space where there is no matter to fill it. This is an old philosophical conception, and as soon as we carry it to the frontiers of the starry universe we find it in conflict with the instinct of continuity before mentioned. How can there be a frontier without something lying beyond it?

Space, or, rather Space Time, say the Relativists, is inherently warped or curved, so that there can be in the universe made up of this warped stuff no such thing as what we call a straight line. So, according to them, if you start out to follow a straight line you will come, by the back way, to the point from which you started. But when they shall have included everything that can be found and rolled it all up in curved space time, will they be able to prove to the satisfaction of anybody that they have really corralled infinity and eternity?

One Puzzle Solved

IN the 3,600,000 communications which have come to Lindy since he flew are many thousand invitations to marriage.

Once in debate was the question, "Shall women propose?" Evidently it has ceased to be a question. They are popping it.

Puzzling

IT is lawful in many States to stage a prize fight. Also, within those States, to view films of the fight.

It is not lawful to transport the films across the State line.

Alice in Wonderland would have found these facts puzzling.

Once Overs

Dissatisfied?

KNOWING yourself as you do, were you not pretty lucky in getting as good a husband or a wife as you have?

At times you consider the home partners of other persons and compare them with your own life partner, perhaps not so favorably to your own husband or wife.

You wish you might live with a person who possesses certain other characteristics you admire.

Then you are forgetting the good qualities that are individual with the the one you chose of all others; qualities you would not know how to exist without.

It is easy, isn't it, to think of the disagreeable traits and take as a matter of course the pleasant ways and gentle forbearance?

Those whom you are admiring from afar have never shown you any of their mean qualities, just as you try to keep your vicious outbursts, your cutting sarcasm, and various other undesirable tendencies from the public eye.

But human nature is the same the world over—good and bad in the worst of us, and bad and good in the best of us.

Tales That Are Told

Eager

"HAVE you heard the joke of the Egyptian guide who showed an Englishman two skulls of Cleopatra, one of her girlhood and one of her old age?"

"No, tell me about it."—Nebelspalter, Zurich.

Catch Weights

THE following story is told of the Welsh Church disestablishment campaign. Mr. Lloyd George was to address a meeting. His chairman said to a very enthusiastic audience amid rapturous applause, "Friends, we all know that the Bishop of X is a terrible liar, but thank God, we have a match for him on the platform tonight."—Christian Advocate.

Poetry on Parade

THE Guards recently received as a recruit a young man of education and culture who had failed to make good in other vocations. On his first day on the parade-ground he was utterly exhausted by several hours of marching up and down.

"Stand at ease!" ordered the officer at last.

"How wonderful is death!" muttered the recruit.

The officer turned like a flash.

"Who said that?" he demanded.

The culprit smiled wanly as he replied: "Shelley, I believe, sir."—London Tid-Bits.

In California

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—Many have the notion a visit to Hollywood is somewhat like a trip through a sewer in a glass bottom boat. Hollywood is a country town suddenly mushroomed into a city of national interest and still a little pop-eyed over the change. It has a paprika dash and no community is just like it.

Hollywood is interested chiefly in itself and its picture stars. It cares little for the outside world. The movies made it what it is today and it is satisfied. The supreme indifference is stimulating. Los Angeles regards Hollywood dispassionately and with a slightly smug tolerance.

A tiny specialty shop blooming in a building crevice will fine its walls with autographed pictures of movie stars and do a rushing business. A butcher displays a typewritten screed from some glycerine heroine: "I love your meat." And he, too, prospers.

Nowhere are movie folk so lionized. No matter how remote the contact with the picture industry, it spells prestige. Even a cameraman is a god. The town is in a perpetual fever of adulation and, of course, movie people love it. Gloria Swanson, walking Hollywood boulevard, brings business to a full stop.

Daily a hyena-like half circle clots about the entrance of the Montmartre cafe for a peek at those who have attained cinema celebrity. Studio exit gates nightly are surrounded by Hollywood people who seem never to tire of gazing upon their idols.

Along streets you see old geezers with milk-white beards and a faded wonder in their eyes as well as chemically straw blondes, roguishly rouged and girlishly ginghamed, looking for the Big Chance. Hope never reaches a low ebb. It is always at flood tide.

Young stenographers and sales girls frequently dye their hair a canary yellow and use movie tan powder, purple eye shadows and tangerine lip paint just to walk along the street and be taken for movie folk. In Hollywood a beauty specialist is a "beauty operator," a filling station is a "greasing palace" and a manicure parlor is a "nail clippery." All is different.

Men and women walk along streets in bathing costumes. And in the bungalow kitchens you often see housewives cooking evening meals, attired in one-piece bathing suits. Nearly half the motorists seem to be in the same attire.

Forty years ago Hollywood was a land covered with brush and Los Angelinos called it Cahuenga Pass. Today it is as well known all over the world as London. And it is as provocative and mysterious as Paris.

People who might have spent lives in mediocre hum-drum have come here and almost over night attained a living splendor staggering the imagination. There is the old story of one movie comedian telling about all the trick stuff he has in his garden —fountains, goldfish pool, sundial, pergola, pavilion, statuary, etc. "It was just an ordinary garden when I bought it," he said, "but now I've got it all gagged up."

Evidently there is no craving for literature in Hollywood. In a stationery store that has a three cents a day circulating library, I heard the attendant tell a girl returning a book the charges were $2.89.

Broadway in no way compares with Hollywood for outlandishly extreme dress. This morning I saw a young girl costumed in a flame red dress, hat, stockings and shoes—carrying a swagger stick the same hue. And in front of a dairy lunch was a blonde young man in white trousers and shoes, a deep blue silk sport shirt and a pink sash belt. Monocles are quite commonly used, often by women as well as men.

* * *

Hollywood lives loosely—there is no denying that—and if you did a first page murder would rise to confound you. Yet you have a feeling that that is exactly the way it wants to live. "Easy come, easy go," expresses its spirit. It has been able, seemingly, to laugh off every scandal.

International Folly

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

By the time this article is published it may seem out of date. And yet the general principles of it are true all the time.

If the Geneva conference does not arrive at some satisfactory agreement among the three nations, Japan, Great Britain and the United States, for the limitation of armaments on sea, it will be an instance of almost incredible international folly.

As has been repeatedly pointed out, the matter of international armament is, after all, one of ratio and not of an absolute amount. If all nations would agree, each one could have 200 battleships as well as 1,000. The trouble comes when one nation has a preponderance of arms over the other.

Previous to the great war there was a spirit of rivalry among the nations. England and Germany were pitted against each other, both striving to build the largest ships.

There is no end to this. Every nation in the world is trying to be the most perfectly armed. Not only is the United States and Great Britain, Japan and France struggling, but they compel the other and poorer nations to take part in the contest.

Preparedness is economically almost as disastrous as war.

In Italy at present the conditions are alarming and there is much unemployment, the exports are steadily dropping off in value and the debts are enormous.

Things are not much better in other countries. There is a vast horde of unemployed in England. France is complaining about her debts to the United States, and Germany is groaning under her burdens.

And now they propose to increase all this trouble by adding to the cost of armament.

What for?

No nation can be prepared against all the world and nothing but national pride, tradition and stubbornness prevents the nations from getting together and all agreeing to a reduction all around.

Mutual agreement is a much better preparation against war than individual armament. Every country should protect itself, but it secures better protection by world agreement than it ever can secure by independent bellicosity.

Men pay an enormous price for vain isolation.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Answer

WHAT is the answer, I sometimes ask, to the weary day, to the toilsome task? What is the reason for care and grind in search of the thing that we never find? There is beauty and bliss in the world's fresh bloom. Why should we lurk in a sunless room till we turn our lives into drab, dim things; not, as they might have been, gay with wings.

True, there is little enough men gain as the fruit of their labor, their fret and pain; yet life, when they live it for joy alone, is a barren thing, when youth's years are flown. For out of the threads of the dull hour's care is woven a fabric beyond compare, and each toilsome task and each duty done glows at the end, like the gold of the sun!

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

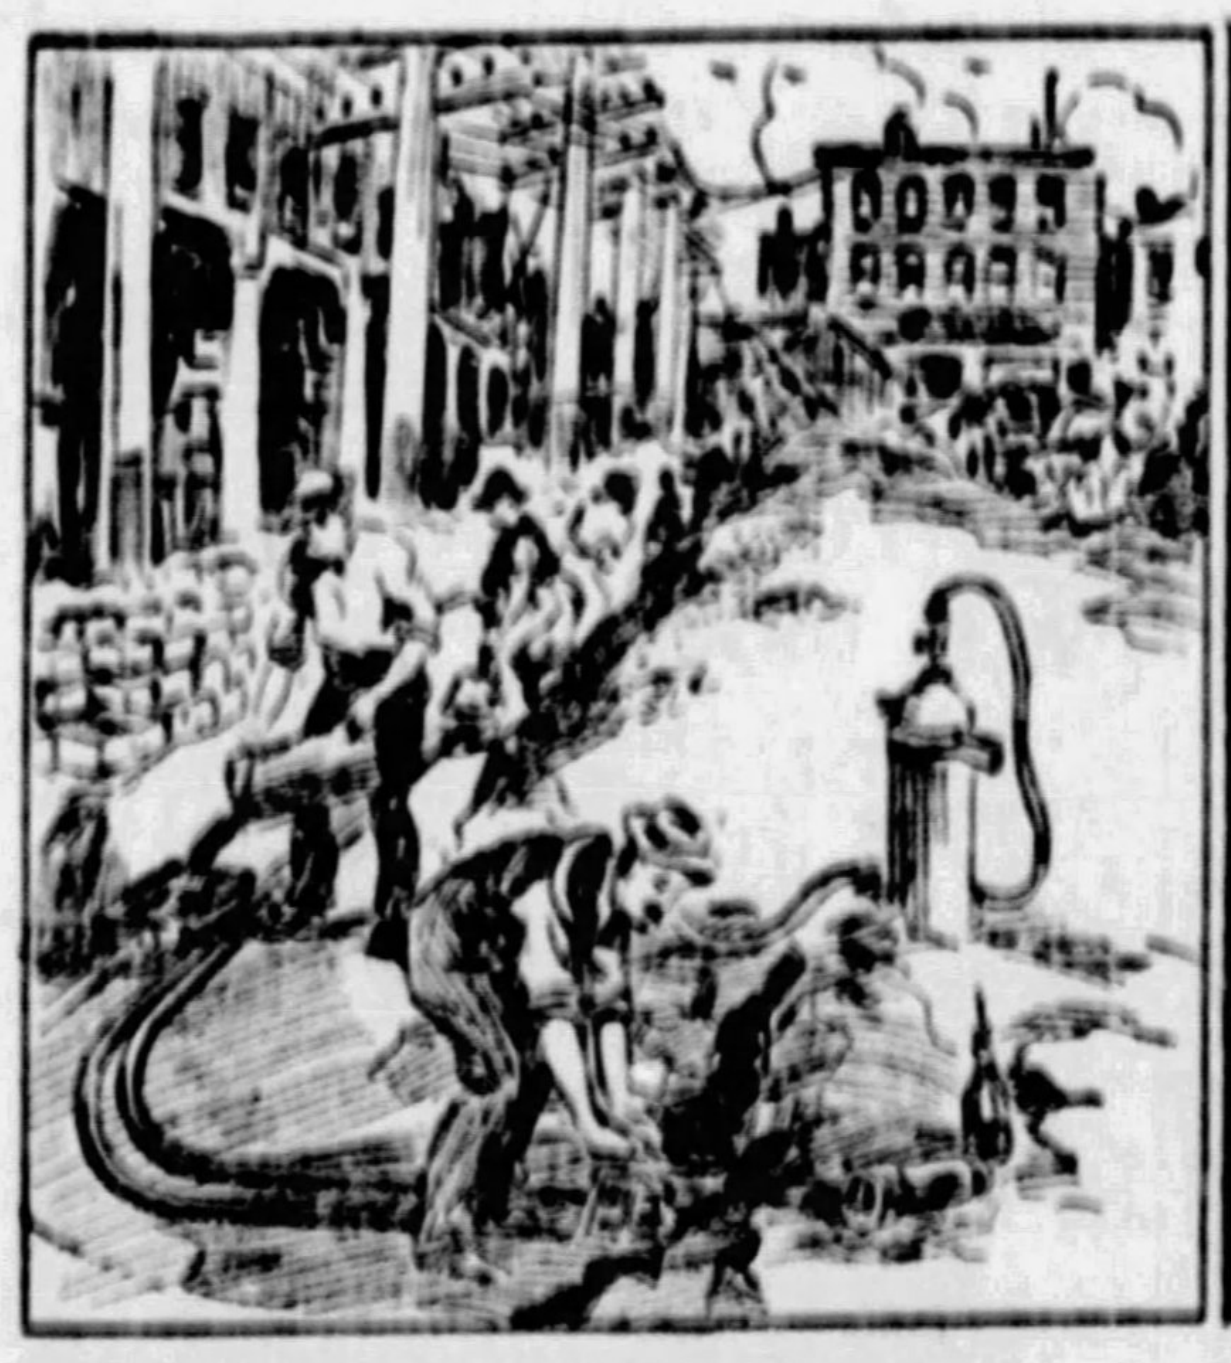
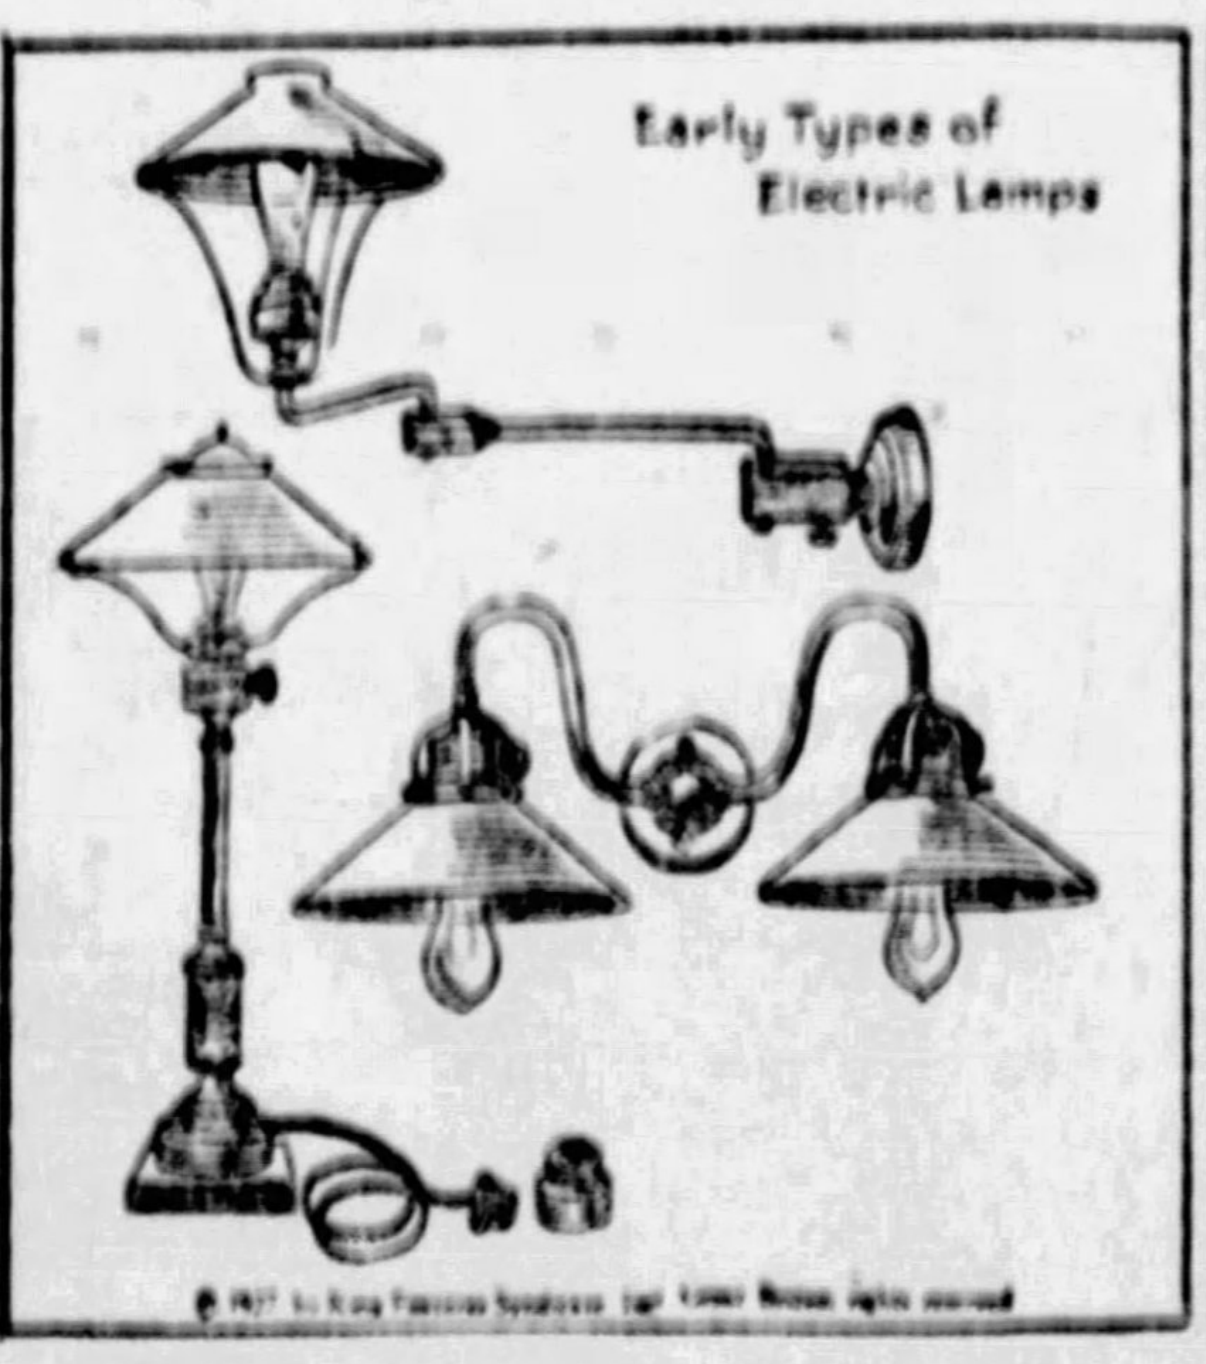
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

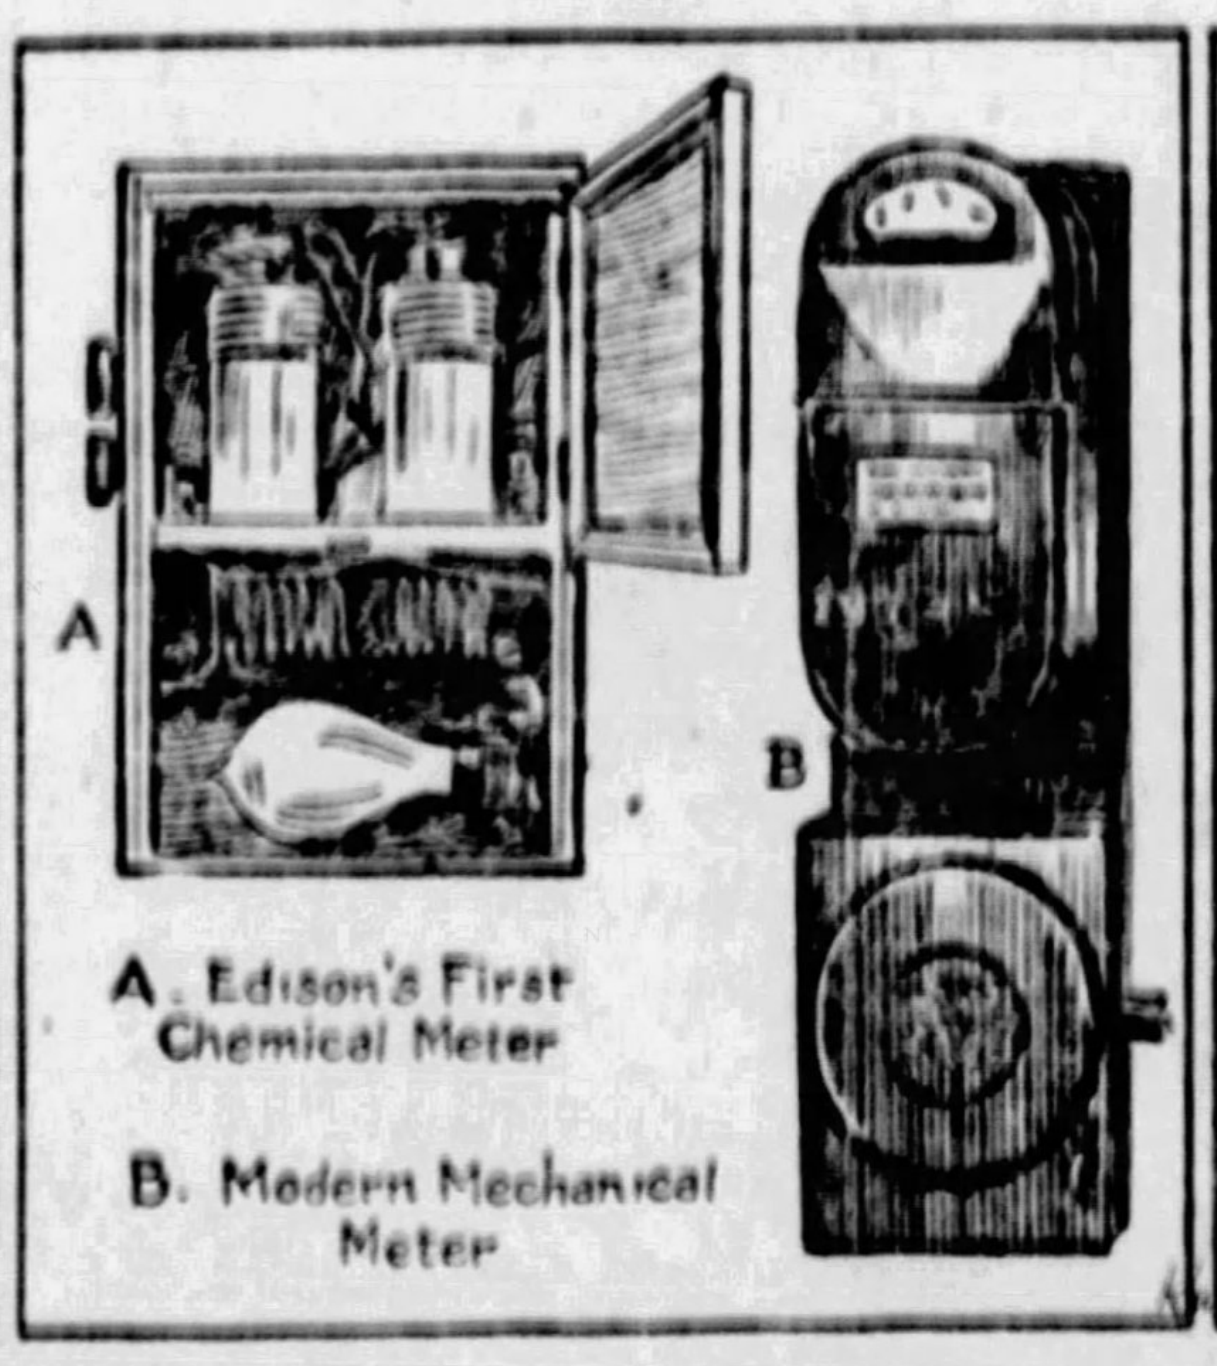


EDISON had obtained his franchise from the New York aldermen and the laying of the main wires through downtown streets was begun. These wires ran from the old Pearl street station of what is now the New York Edison Company. Laying them underground, the modern method, was another example of Edison's keen foresight.



Early Types of Electric Lamps

IN the early days of electric lighting in homes many curious fixtures were used. Just as the first automobiles were "horseless carriages" so the first lighting fixtures looked like the gas fixtures of the time. Some combined gas and electric light in case the electric lights went out of commission at any time.



A
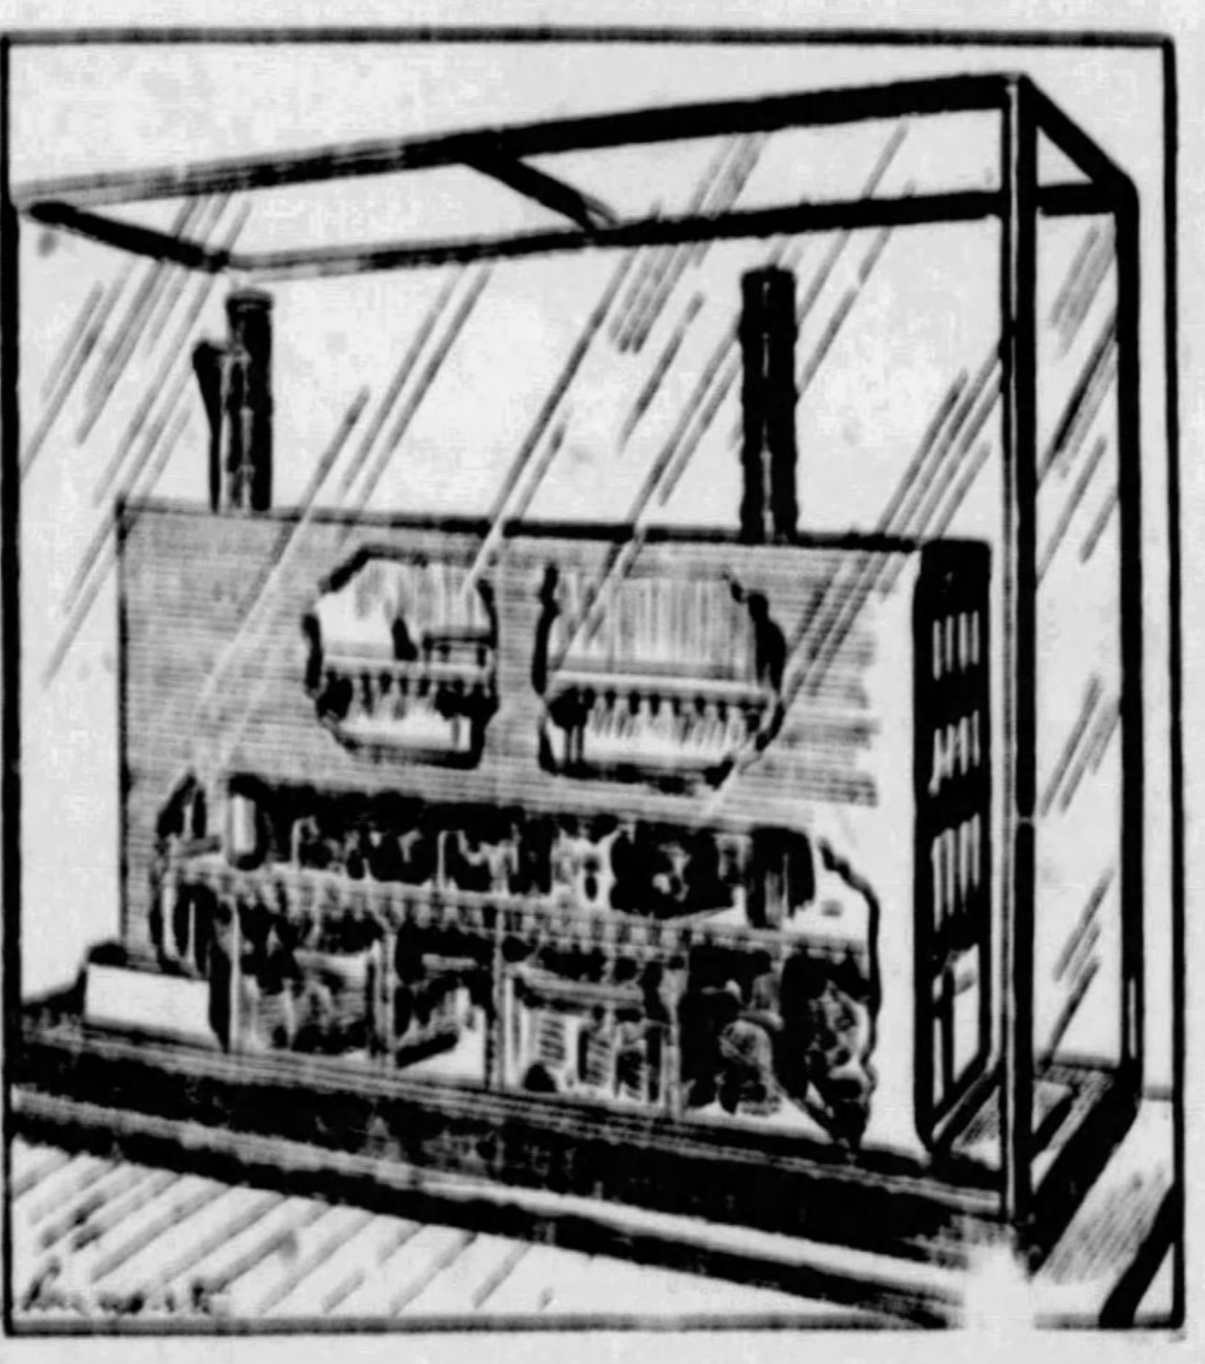
A. Edison's First Chemical Meter
B. Modern Mechanical Meter

WHEN planning the "Edison system" the inventor himself covered everything in complete detail, right down to the meter for measuring the current. Edison's chemical meter (A) served the purpose in its time. The modern mechanical meter (B), which is in use nowadays, is much more accurate and dependable.



THIS is a model of the first commercial electric generating plant in New York and the United States. "Old Pearl Street" it was affectionately known to the old timers. It was the second central station in the world. The first was put into service in London by the English Edison Company, January 12, 1882. (Continued tomorrow.)
